

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

SMOOTHEST SMUGGLING

$100,000 Worth of Sumatra Tobacco Brought to the United States Duty Free.

EMIGRANTS WERE UNWITTING

Each Carried Small Package of the Weed Which Was Presented to Supposed Employment Agent.

New York Nov. 12.—A novel method of bringing Sumatra tobacco leaf into the United States without paying duty has been brought to the notice of the custom house officials and agents are now at work on the case. It is estimated that the Sumatra leaf valued at $100,000 has flooded this port during the last three months without duty.

Emigrants sailing from Bremen, Hamburg, Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Antwerp and other Dutch and German ports have been given a card which is printed in German and Hebrew and tells the recipient to visit a certain person at a given address and receive a present. If the emigrants came they were told how to obtain employment in America and given a small package wrapped in colored paper and warned not to open it until the barge office at New York had been left behind. Agents of the smugglers invariably met each load of emigrants outside the barge office and requested the package as a means of identification. At the proper moment the agents disappeared taking the smuggled tobacco along.

KNOCKED DOWN IRON AWNING

Attempt to Release Imprisoned Men Resulted in Crushing Skull of One—Chauffeurs Were Arrested.

New York, Nov. 12.—Four men, one of whom probably will die, were injured today in an extraordinary accident caused by an automobile truck in east Fourteenth street. A corrugated iron canopy extending over the sidewalk in front of the Dewey theater, was knocked down by a truck which crashed into one of the upright posts. The canopy weighed four or five tons and was covered with incandescent lights. Persons who had stopped to observe the antics of the truck which appeared to have got out of the chauffeur's control, were caught in the crash. Hundreds of men quickly gathered around the wreckage and exerting their united strength raised it a couple of feet. The weight was too great and they let it fall back to the sidewalk.

John Faber, one of the men beneath, was struck by a piece of iron when the roof fell back and his injuries were greatly increased.

At the second attempt it was turned over and four men were rescued. All had broken limbs or were badly crushed. Faber's skull appeared to have been crushed and one of his legs was broken.

The men in charge of the truck were arrested.

SUICIDE ON KAISER WILHELM.

Wireless Message Conveys Information After Steamer's Departure.

New York, Nov. 12.—A telegram received here by way of the wireless station at Nantucket says that Mrs. Sophie Weis, a passenger believed to have been from Chicago, has committed suicide aboard the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, which sailed from this port last Tuesday. The report stated that she killed herself with a revolver.

Officials of the steamship company have no information regarding the matter, and the name Sophie Weis does not appear on the passenger list. The latter does contain however, the name of Adam Weis of Chicago.

So far as sea faring men could recall this is the first instance in many years when a passenger on one of the big liners has committed suicide by any other means than jumping overboard.

CHARACTER IS TOLD BY RAYS

Rays Emitted by Human Body Are Determined by Temperament and Habits.

300 PERSONS ARE EXAMINED

Red Rays Denote Passion, Pink Signifies Goodness, Orange Tells of Ambition—So Says London Doctor.

New York, Nov. 12.—Experiments numbering over 300 conducted over a term of three years have formed the subject matter for a communication from a physician to a well known medical journal, says a Herald dispatch from London, to the effect that the rays emitted by the human body differ in color according to the character and temperament of the person. The following particulars are given by the writers:

The rays emanating from a very passionate man have a deep red hue; one whose keynote in life is to be good and do good, throws off pink rays; the ambitious man emits orange rays; the deep thinker deep blue; the lover of art and refined surroundings yellow; an anxious, depressed person, gray.

One who leads a low debased life throws off muddy brown rays; a devotional, good meaning person, light blue; a progressive minded one, light green, and a physically or mentally ill one, dark green.

The doctor admits that his theory is apt to be received with incredulity and amusement, but he asserts that it is strengthened by the fact that the color sense of the human race was many thousands of years in reaching its present stage of development.

A Noble Life.

There is but one thing that will give to us the ultimate satisfaction that we crave, and that is a noble life. Most of us live as though the universe and our own individual lives had no meaning, as though the word God, which we take upon the lips, was a phantom, rather than a reality. But life really means something or it does not. If it has no meaning, then it does not matter how we live. But no matter how far they may stray from the ethical sanctions, there is a feeling deep down in every heart that the man who lives a good life is better than the man who carries on an evil existence. A man may live like a brute, but you cannot get him to admit that he is a brute. The flowers that breathe their fragrance upon him, the stars in the heavens that light up his night proclaim the better creed, that he shall store away somewhere within the recesses of his soul, to keep him from the moral agnosticism that only too often appears in his deed.

No matter how meanly a man may live, he respects the man who lives a noble life and none other. The theories of Count Stolito are regarded by most men as eccentric, but the nobility of Tolstoy's life has endeared him to the men of all nations. The Russian government, much as it dislikes him, would not dare to send him to the mines in Siberia, or to a house of imprisonment, for the officials know that such a storm of indignation would blow upon them from every civilized country of the world as would cause the emperor to topple from his throne. Roman Catholicism is not mighty in England, and has not been these many years, but when some years ago Cardinal Newman fell into that sleep that knows on earth no waking, the saintly life of the author of "Lead Kindly Light" was remembered by protestant and agnostic. Not alone in the bosom of his mother church is the sweet nature of St. Francis of Assisi cherished, but everywhere the noble life of the man who was said to have remembered those whom even God seemed to have forgotten is kept green in the memory of men.

A noble life is the only life that men will praise. It is the only life that the ages will not willingly let die. Immortality is its reward, for slowly but surely, its influence permeates the whole field of human endeavor.
