His Opportunity Came. Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, U. N., was once advanced after a long and patient wait from commander to captain. On the day that he was promoted he went ashore and kept the launch which was to take him to his ship waiting beyond the appointed time. When he finally strolled down, Paymaster Charles W. Slamm, who was in charge of the launch, said: "Captain, you-you have just been promot ed, and you—you have made a bad be-ginning. You have kept the boat waiting ten minutes, sir." "Be calm, Mr. Slamm," said the new captain, with a tastalizing grin; "I've been waiting years for the privilege."

Napoleou's Outrider.

Wernet, Napoleon's outrider, one saved his emperor's life. It was after the abdication of Fontainebleau and when Wernet drove Napoleon away from the palace that he received from a peasant information of a plot to fire on the coach as it passed through the forest. The outrider, representing that there was an obstruction on the road, persuaded the emperor to leave the coach and ride around in another direction, while he brought the carriage as best he could to meet him. This was done, and Wernet encountered a furious fusillade, which, however, left him unscathed, as it was directed not at the box, but at the interior of the empty vehicle. Wernet lived to be outrider to Louis Philippe.-Westminster Gazette.
