

TILLAMOOK SCRAP

First Round Between the Herald and Headlight

NOT JOURNALISTIC COURTESY

The Infantile Journalist of the Tillamook Headlight Receives Some Scriptural Admonitions From Rolie Watson of the Tillamook Herald.

It is evident that the Tillamook Headlight man is displeased with the workings of Providence, as the following taken from the Tillamook Herald is evidence:

Blatherskite is a Gaelic word, the first two syllables meaning rambling talk, and the last syllable a squirtgun. It was a stroke of genius to pile up the idea in that fashion. But fortunately for the community Tillamook's blatherskite has left the county and his squirtgun has ceased to squirt,"—Headlight.

Wrong Baker, wrong. The blatherskite is yet in evidence, and it continues to squirt spasmodically, and the people want to know when the blatherskite squirtgun is going to quit squirting. We have often thought that with the demise of the Independent, perhaps that the Headlight would try and publish the news, for that is what the people want, for the general public are getting gloriously tired of the fractional strife and personal abuse that has been rampant too long here.

The Herald editor paid several hundred dollars good hard cash to get the Independent out of the field and in fact it is generally known as an unnecessary deal as the Independent was sold financially and would have succumbed ere this, it was also thought that with the Herald and Headlight in the field alone there would be harmony and peace; and as far as the Herald's editor is concerned that's what we want to see.

Baker says in his dirty old shin plaster and paper plate paper, the last issue, that "Rolie has never gone to the records more than once or twice for the commissioner's court proceedings." Baker, as is customary, lies faster than a horse can trot, for if we had copied the court proceedings out of last week's "light" and it would have been a comedy of errors, as is usually the case. We went to the records for our court news and the documents were kindly placed in our hands by Miss Mills, the deputy clerk, for that purpose, and Baker falsified when he accuses Rolie of using the Headlight for copy. On the other hand it's only been a few weeks ago that everybody who reads that sheet noticed "the Herald's congratulations" in a wedding notice that appeared in the Headlight which was borrowed from this office.

Now if anybody can tell what's the matter with the windbag editor of the Headlight and what his case can be we will gladly donate $50.00 toward a cure, for the blatherskite is hot in the collar about something.

The Herald is not on the fight, and although it is a poor American that won't stand up for his rights, we have sneaky took in all we can stand. So let 'er crack, Baker, if you want to scrap and rave and yell over, fire away.

The cowboys who attended the inauguration are reported to have left Washington with distressing headaches a natural result of the miasma from the Potomac flats.

A Tillamook editor who tries to be sarcastic at the expense of the modern club women declares that the babies are born at night now so as to find somebody at home.

If that $100 license ordinance had been a resolution adopted by the late deceased, people would not have been more surprised. There is a striking similarity apparent.

If a fine of $5 was placed against every man who expectorates on the sidewalk, it would take only a week to raise money enough to offset the $100 a year license on freight cars.

Say young man you with the swollen caput and chesty bearing, did it ever occur to you that there is hardly blank paper enough in the world to print the sum total of what you don't know?

Down in the City of Mexico the society women have formed an anti-kissing league. That isn't so unkind of them when you consider that they all eat garlic and smoke cigarettes.

Owing to the rigid press censorship the exact facts can not be learned, but it looks as though the latest by the Russian board of strategy is a scheme to break Japan by compelling her to feed Russian prisoners.

The announcement of a change in the programme Thursday night at the Star, resulted in two crowded houses, and many were compelled to go away. The same performance will be given each night this week at which the Washer Bros., as the boxold midgets, will appear. They are the most versatile exponents of the manly art in boxing contests on the stage and their entertainment has delighted thousands of people. Hansen and Drew in the "Opera House Manager," scored a hit with their rendition of the funny comedy. Meany and Anderson the comedy sketch artists are thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. The entire performance is one of the best ever seen in Astoria and is certain to continue to draw big houses every night, and at the Saturday and Sunday matinees.

"It is noted that five distinct races of Americans aided in swelling the inaugural parade. Perhaps you can name them?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer. Sure. There were the Indians, Filippinos, Cubans, New Yorkers and plain Americans.

S. F. SCOTT KILLED

Run Over By Train Last Night on Railroad Track

CAPTAIN OF THE CHICTO

Was Walking Along the Railroad Track Between Sanborn's Cannery and Trullinger's Mill When He Was Struck by the Engine and Killed.

Samuel F. Scott, captain of the steam schooner Chicto, was run over and killed last evening on the railroad track between Sanborn's cannery and the old Trullinger mill. He had just left Mr. Burns, owner of the schooner, and Martin Foard and said he was going down to the schooner. While walking along the railroad track the Seaside train came along and whether he heard or saw the train or the engineer him is not known, but he was run over by the engine, cutting off both legs and one arm, throwing him into the river. A boat was sent out and picked him up, and he was taken to the morgue, where he was identified.

Captain Scott had only arrived in Astoria this week and registered at the Occident yesterday. He was in the employ of Mr. Burns of Rogue River from which place he brought the schooner to Astoria. He was a Scotchman by birth and was born in the same place as Capt. D. J. McVicar. His home is in Vancouver, B. C. His wife died a few years ago. He has one son but his present whereabouts is unknown. An inquest will probably be held today or Saturday, and until that time who was to blame can not be known. No arrangements for the funeral have been made but it is probable that the body will be sent to Vancouver.
