JOSEPH JEFFERSON

Characteristic of the Wonderful Actor in Many Plays.

THE RIP VAN WINKLE STORY

JEFFERSON AS RIP VAN WINKLE.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON while playing in Missouri boarded a notoriously slow train for St. Joseph. He went into the sleeping car, but not to go to bed, as the train was due at St. Joseph late in the evening. It dawdled along, however, and, finding that it could hardly arrive before morning he ordered his berth made up. As the porter finished his task Mr. Jefferson said: "This is the worst road I ever traveled on. I fancy I am in for a full night of it."

"Deed, I reckon you is sab," replied the porter, with a smile. "Positively the slowest road! It'll be morning before we are there. Do you think you'll get in before I'm awake?" "Slow road, sah! Bound to be plumb mo'nin', sah. But one of the passengers, sah, was tellin' me that you's Rip Van Winkle, the gen'leman what once went to sleep and sleep' twenty years, and I reckon, sah, dat if you take one o' dem naps we'll be able to land you mighty close to St. Jo' fore you wake, sah."

Jefferson once went by request to Catskill, N. Y., the scene of the story of "Rip Van Winkle," to produce the play. "After the performance," he said, "I was invited to a reception given in my honor at the Rip Van Winkle club. In introducing me the president of the club was greatly embarrassed over something and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I—I wish to introduce to you Mr.—Mr.—Mr. Washington Irving!"

Once when Jefferson was playing Rip Van Winkle in St. Louis he went to the theater tired by a long day's journey. The curtain rose on the third act and disclosed him deep in his twenty years' nap. Five, ten minutes elapsed, but he did not awake. The audience grew impatient. At length the gallery waxed uproarious, inquiring "if there was going to be nineteen years more of this sleeping business." Still Jefferson slept on and actually snored. Opening a small trapdoor beneath the stage, the prompter prodded Rip from below, only to see him fumble in his pocket for an imaginary railway ticket and hear him mutter, "Going clear through, conductor?" Of course this brought down the house.

Miss Julie Opp, who is Mrs. William Faversham in private life, was entertaining some friends the other day, says the New York Times, when one of the ladies present, noticing the number of women's portraits bearing affectionate dedications to her husband which adorned the parlor, inquired of her fair hostess why she allowed Mr. Faversham to keep them.

JULIE OPP.

"Allow it!" exclaimed Mrs. Faversham, with a smile. "Why, they are the pride of my life. Just think, all of those women wanted him, and I got him!"

Paderewski, it is said, can play from memory over 500 compositions. He needs to read or play a composition new to him only twice in order to memorize it and frequently after reading it over can sit down at the piano and play it without referring to the notes.

John Drew was one of a party of actors who one night after a performance in Chicago accepted a clubman's invitation to enjoy a moonlight ride on Lake Michigan.

"It was a grand night," said Mr. Drew, "and I never heard sweeter music than that which reached us on deck from the cabin. Wearied from exertion in dance and song, the company soon assembled on deck, and there carried on a subdued conversation. Clouds gathered and obscured the moon. The captain now joined our little clique, and a lady who was made timid by the darkness asked:

"Captain, how will you ever manage to find your way back? We cannot see a thing."

JOHN DREW.

"Do not fear," encouraged the mariner. "With one eye on the stars and the other on the compass, there can be no danger."

"But why an eye on the stars?" questioned the actress.

"Sadness crept over the hardy features of the navigator, but as host he would not offend and, bowing graciously, said:

"So that none of them will fall overboard."

MRS. DONALD M'LEAN.

Career of the New President General of the D. A. R.

The new president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Emily Nelson Hitchie McLean, is known throughout the land for her interest in promoting patriotic sentiment and study of national history. She belongs to one of the old families of the south, is a daughter of Judge John Hitchie and was born at Prospect Hill, Frederick, Md., in 1859. She was educated at the Frederick seminary, Woman's college, and early evinced an interest in subjects relating to the history of her country, taking a postgraduate course in such subjects at the Frederick seminary. She married Donald McLean in 1883 and on becoming a resident of New York city was active in educational work along patriotic lines. She is a charter member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and was for seven years regent of the New York city chapter. A scholarship bearing her name was established in Barnard college, the woman's department of Columbia university, in 1898. She was commissioner from New York to the Cotton States and International exposition of 1885-86 and the Charleston (S. C.) exposition of 1901-02.

HONORS TO A HERO.

John Paul Jones, whose body is to be brought from France.

The Revolutionary hero John Paul Jones has been called the "father of the American navy," and by a singular coincidence his body has been discovered in an old Paris cemetery at just the time when the strengthening of the country's naval force is receiving ing so much attention. Jones was born in Scotland in 1747 and came to America about ten years before the war of the Revolution began. It was from his ship, the Ranger, that the stars and stripes first floated over the sea, and he fought twenty-three battles for the American cause. His greatest triumph was the victory he won in the Bonhomme Richard over the British warship Serapis. After the Revolution he was much in France and was very popular among the French. He died in Paris in 1792 and was buried in the old Protestant cemetery of St. Louis.

The records as to the burial were lost, the cemetery was abandoned, and buildings were constructed over it. For years none knew where the bones of the hero reposed. About five years ago search for them was begun. Ambassador Porter supervised the task. The whole cemetery was tunneled under, and hundreds of coffins were examined. A leaden coffin was at length exhumed, which contained the hero's remains.

The French Merchant Marine.

In France encouragement to join the merchant marine is supplied by the government in the form of small pensions paid to French sailors after protracted service. The French republic maintains what is practically a naval militia, the French sailor being obligated in case of war to abandon his private employer and take his place under the flag.

Japanese Pensions.

The family of a dead Japanese soldier gets, roughly speaking, one-third of the pay of his rank. This would give the widow of a private $1.25 a month; of a first lieutenant, $6.25; of a captain, $8.33, and to the widow of a colonel, $20 a month.

The Gringo.

It is said that during the war between the United States and Mexico the American bands were forever playing and the American soldiers forever singing the old refrain "Green grow the rushes, oh!" The Mexicans in derision dubbed every Yankee a "Green-grow," a combination afterward modified into gringo.

Eelskin.

Bookbinders both in Europe and America occasionally bind books with eelskin. Eelskin is also braided into whips, a certain concern in Connecticut using thousands of skins each year for this purpose. It is also used in clarifying coffee.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 9, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 10 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Eagle Drug Store, 351-353 Bond St., Owl Drug Store, 549 Com. St., T. F. Laurin, Prop. "Special Agent."

Blood Saturated Night Shirt

A true case of wonderful cure of Eczema by

D. D. D.

For five years I have been a severe sufferer from Eczema on my neck and shoulder. It itched so much I could not refrain from scratching the sore continually, but even scratched it so as to tear the sore and cause it to bleed—was not nearly so painful as the itching. Many a time have I had to change my night shirt three or four times in one night, the blood from the sore having literally saturated it, caused from my scratching the sore to get relief. During these five years I have tried almost every remedy recommended for Eczema, and doctored with several prominent physicians, but got no relief. Your Dr. D. D. Remedy was very highly recommended to me, so I decided to give it a thorough trial. The first application stopped all itching and I enjoyed my first night of unbroken sleep in five years. I continued the treatment for two months and have been completely cured. I recommend it to all suffering from this annoying disease and feel very grateful to you for doing so much for me. PAUL L. WALD, Marion, Ind., May 1, 1905.

We vouch for above

The facts in this case of Mr. Paul L. Wald, have been laid before me in all details with proofs that are unmistakable. Every particular in the history of this remarkable cure more than bears out the above statement of the case. From the proofs submitted, we feel that this announcement comes far from doing full justice to the remarkable merit of a medicine which accomplishes results so important to humanity.

Since we have handled the preparation in this city, a great number of people have used it for various skin affections. Its results have been invariably satisfactory. We are therefore willing to guarantee any purchaser full return of his $1.00, if satisfactory results are not experienced from a trial of a bottle in any case of skin affection.

D. D. D. costs but $1.00 a bottle, and is guaranteed to cure or money refunded.
