Poll tax collector Dudley Blount if of the opinion that there are a number of very unpatriotic citizens in Astoria. They go over to Washington and pay their poll tax which is $2, while they enjoy the benefits of protection in Oregon. They simply send money out of Astoria to Washington in order to save one dollar. Mr. Blount is keeping a record of these persons and will publish them in the newspaper to show who the men are. He will also bring a test case in the courts. There is no doubt but a man living in Oregon must pay his poll tax here and if they have to pay it twice it will serve them right.
