THE MORNING ASTORIAN, ASTORIA, OREGON.

THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1905.

Noted Names In the Army And the Navy

NY of the famous

LIEUT. FRANCE T. EVANS.

Phil," is a cavalry lieutenant; Stephen Decatur, Jr., whose name is reminiscent of the war against the Barbary pirates, and Jubal A. Early, son of the famous Confederate general, are midshipmen at the naval academy. Lleutenant Franck T. Evans of the navy is a son of "Fighting Bob" Evans, who commanded the battleship lowa at the battle of Santiago and who is now in command of the north Atlantic squadron. Lieutenant Evans was a midshipman on the Massachusetts during the Spanish war.

Major General Arthur MacArthur has representatives in both branches of the service. One son, Douglas MacArthur, who was graduated from West Point in 1903 at the head of the class of that year, is now a lieutenant of engineers. Young MacArthur was born in Arkansas and appointed to West Point from Wisconsin. From the day of his admission he stood near the head of his class and excelled in drill regulations, cavalry, light artillery and infantry work. He made no effort to excel as an athlete. Arthur MacArthur, Jr., another son, is a lieutenant in the navy. Three years ago he was among those infured by an explosion on the submarine boat Fulton. MIDSHIPMAN JU-The distinguished BAL A. EARLY. father of these two men is not a West Pointer, but a vet eran of both the civil and Spanish wars.

Midshipman Early's father was graduated from West Point in 1837 and fought under the stars and stripes in the Mexican war and under the stars and bars in the civil war. Many other sons of men who fought for th 1897 he was graduated from the Infantry and Cavalry school. Lieutenant U. S. Grant, 3d, was appointed a cadet by President McKinley in deference to a letter written by General Grant when his grandson was a baby. This letter, addressed to "the president," bore a request that his grandson be named as a cadet as soon is he was old enough. It was present-soldiers and sailed to President McKinley in 1808, and ors of the United he promptly complied with what re-States army and sembled a request from the tomb. navy of the past When U. S. Grant, 3d, entered West are well repre-Point he was not content with simply sented by namebearing a great name. He went to sakes in the army work with a will to demonstrate that and navy of tohe was worthy of the name, and day. U. S. Grant, when the graduation days approached 3d, grandson of he and Douglas General Ulysses S. MacArthur were Grant, is a lieuengaged in an intenant of engltellectual contest neers, and Genfor the glory of beeral Grant's son. ing "honor man" Frederick Dent of the class. Mac-Grant, is a briga-Arthur won, but dier general. Phil-Grant stood third ip H. Sheridan, among his classson of "Little mates, which was very creditable. When his father LIEUTENANT U. S. wrote one of the GRANT.

instructors toknow if his son were upholding the honor of the Grant family, the answer was brief and to the point: "Your son stands considerably better in all his classes than you did." In this connection it is interesting to record that General U. S. Grant stood twenty-first in his class at West Point and that Brigadier General Frederick D. Grant stood thirty-sixth.

NEW M'KINLEY STATUE.

Sculptor MacNeil's Lifelike Design For Ohio's Capital.

In Columbus, the capital of Ohio, on the plaza in front of the capitol building, will stand a noble monument in honor of that illustrious citizen of Ohio, William McKinley. The commission to execute the sculpture for this monument was awarded to Herman Atkins MacNeil, and he has recently finished in his studio at College Point, N. Y., the statue of Mr. McKinley, which will form the central feature of the monument. This figure is of heroic size and portrays the martyred president in a speaking attitude, holding in his left hand the manuscript of an address. The facial expression is pronounced exceedingly faithful and was obtained by the sculptor through study of both death masks and photographs, while the model who posed for the statue was William Baumert, a wealthy resident of College Point,

She comes of an old family of Pennsylvania origin and belongs to the Colo nial Dames. She has done much fo the encouragement of art in the use o acts of patriotism for which Mrs. Vanderbilt is remembered is her rescue from neglect and oblivion of the grave of the Revolutionary here. General Francis Marlon, near Charleston, 8. C. Her interest in the matter was aroused by the late Ward McAllister, who was a descendant of a niece of General Marion.

son's Temperament.

The disposition of the average baldlects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, infederacy are in the army and navy. Fitz-Hugh Lee, son of the late General Fitz-Hugh Lee, is a lieutenant of cavalry; Joseph Wheeler, Jr., son of General Joe Wheeler, is an artillery captain, and James Longstreet, Jr., son of General Longstreet, is first lieutenant in the Thirteenth cavalry.

Stephen Decatur, Jr., was appointed a midshipman in November, 1902, from New Hampshire, Ralph Earle Sampson, another midshipman, is a son of the late Rear Admiral William T. Sampson, of Santiago fame. John P.

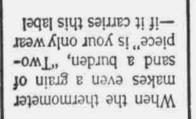

V. Gridley, first lieutenant in the marine corps, is a son of the famous captain of the Olympia, to whom Dewey said, "Gridley, you may fire when ready." Thomas F. Schley, son of Rear Admi-

STEPHEN DECA-TUE, JR.

but, unlike h's father, preferred land fighting to sea fighting. He is a captain of infantry. Captain Schley entered the army as a private in the signal corps in 1884 and did not have the advantage of West Point training. In clusive agents here. with every garment. We are ex-The makers' guarantee, and ours

stinggnituO

Correct Clothes for Men

HermanWise

that worn by Mr. McKinley when he delivered his last inaugural address. The figure of the dead president will be of bronze, nine feet in height. It will occupy the center pedestal of the monument and will be flanked by groups typifying Pence and Prosperity. The memorial will cost $50,000, one half of which was appropriated by the Ohio legislature and the other half subscribed by citizens of Columbus. The commission for the Columbus memorial was awarded to Mr. MacNeil after a competition in which about 150 other sculptors submitted designs. Mr. MacNeil was a pupil of Falguiere at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris, won the Roman Rinehart scholarship in sculpture, is famous for his Indian groups and executed the central cascade fountain at the St. Louis world's fair, in some respects the most important sculptural composition there

Use of Wealth. Mrs. Cornellus Vanderbilt, widow of the capitalist who was for many years regarded as the head of the Vanderbilt house, will shortly open the social season at Newport. She is a woman of many social graces and is the mother of Cornelius Vanderbilt, who married Miss Grace Wilson; Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who married Miss Elsie French; Reginald C. Vanderbilt, who married Mis" Kathleen Nellson, and