Owing to the fact that the Astoria hose team will leave for Oregon City Sunday morning at 7:45 o'clock, they have arranged for a test run, to occur tonight. The members of the team are:

BEAT OUT BRAINS

Cruelty Aboard Russian Cruiser at Tsintau.

SANDHURST BRINGS THE TALE

Arrived in Two Days Ahead of Schedule. Capt. Robertson Recounts Happenings Accompanying Entry of Czarvitch to Tsintau Harbor.

Captain Robertson, of the British steamer Sandhurst, which arrived in last night, 15 days and 19 hours from Mororan, Japan, and it may be added, two days ahead of her regular running time, tells a horrifying story of cruelty accompanying the entry of the Russian cruiser Czarvitch into the harbor of Tsintau, China, after it had been seriously damaged by the attack of Togo's fleet.

According to Captain Robertson, on coming to Tsintau, the Czarvitch was so badly damaged she resembled a pepper box. Her funnels were shot away and her hull riddled. While she, with one, or two, other vessels, succeeded in escaping Togo and his fast battleships, the Czarvitch was so crippled as a result of the engagement she was rendered practically useless. The vice-admiral in charge, who had recently been promoted to the rank, avers Captain Robertson, locked himself in a stateroom immediately following the arrival of the vessel and shot himself.

Shortly afterwards, the officer who succeeded the suicided vice-admiral, conveyed to the crew the intelligence that the entire Russian Second Pacific squadron and the Vladivostok fleet had been lost to the Japanese. One of the crew vouchsafed that the defeat was due to incompetency, whereupon, the officer grasped a hammer which was lying on the deck and struck the man over the head repeatedly; his brains were verifiably beaten out. The unfortunate fellow's shipmates stood aghast at the brazen and bloodthirsty attack, but, apparently, were so cowed that they dared not interfere.

"The incident was soon forgotten," said Captain Robertson. "A few days later the men were all ashore riding bicycles, skylarking and having a good time generally. We passed the marine theatre of the war later but saw no wreckage or anything that would indicate a battle had occurred."

The Sandhurst encountered foggy weather all the way over. She is awaiting orders here and will probably go up the river this morning to Portland where she will load lumber for Taku bar. She was not due until July 2nd.

Brings Cargo of Oil
Steamer Whittier with the oil barge Santa Paula in tow, arrived in yesterday and after dropping the barge here, left out for Vancouver, B. C., where she will discharge her cargo of crude oil. The Santa Paul will discharge her cargo of oil at Portland and be towed back here where she will be picked up by the Whittier on her return trip.

Roanoke Arrives In.
Steamer Roanoke with a full cargo of freight and large passenger list arrived in yesterday from Los Angeles via San Francisco, Eureka and Coos Bay.

The Department of Commerce and Labor has issued the following advice to mariners: June 6 the structure from which the Yaquina Bar Range Front Beacon light is shown, heretofore reported carried away, was rebuilt without change in location, and the light was re-established as heretofore.

In all probability the hull of the steamer Gamecock will be abandoned but effort will be made to save the machinery, which is considered valuable. The hull is resting in 20 feet of water in Cowlitz river.

The French bark La Fontaine, has finished loading and will probably arrive down tomorrow. Her cargo consists of 1,500,000 feet of lumber and goes to London direct.

Steamer F. A. Kilburn sails this afternoon for Coos Bay, Eureka and San Francisco with a full cargo of freight and many passengers.

German ship Christel having completed her crew, sailed yesterday for South Africa.

Steamer Alliance sails this morning from the Callendar dock for Eureka via Coos Bay.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. MRS. C. G. WILSON

AT LAST.
The mother of the small boy had been trying to instill within him an idea of conscience. She described it as a little voice which whispered inside one when he was doing wrong.

"I never heard it," said the small boy cynically and in the tone of one who shrugs his shoulders. A little later the small boy did something he had been told not to do and was sent to sit on a chair and ordered not to get off until the powers that gave him leave.

Ten minutes later he came into the room where his mother was sitting jubilant.

"I've heard it, mother," he exclaimed. "Heard what?" asked his perplexed parent. "Heard the little voice. It said, 'Sam Smith, you get off that chair. Don't you care what your mother says!'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend the great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by C.
