Portland, Aug. 8.—Front street butter dealers advanced the price of fancy creamery to 25 cents this morning. This is on a par with the up-town creameries, which are usually 2 1/2 cents above the commission houses. An advance to 27 1/2 cents will probably follow on the part of the local butter-makers.

Scarcity of cream is given as the cause of the advance in butter, which is considered firm at the advanced price.

Wheat quotations have taken a drop in Portland as a result of the market in San Francisco weakening.

Sweet potatoes have begun coming in from Merced, Cal. They are of small size yet and command 4 to 4 1/4 cents a pound.

Eggs and poultry are considered weak. Large quantities of Eastern are being disposed of. Chickens are considered plentiful, and those reaching this city are of slow sale.

Salmon are plentiful on Puget Sound, and large quantities are shipped into Portland, where they sell at 6 cents.
