Latest Quotations in the Portland Produce Markets.

Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

Portland, Aug. 14.—Weakening prices of wheat have no effect on the flour market yet, as the mills are figuring on what they paid for the old crop.

A busy season is expected all around when the new crop does begin to move, as many ships will be needed to take it away.

Cold-storage butter has been thrown upon the market in considerable quantity, and this has a steadying effect on the price of best grades of fancy creamery, of which there is a sufficient supply for those who desire the best regardless of price.

Chickens cleaned up well Saturday, and commission men expect a lively movement this week, but not at high prices. Retailers say the demand is not so good as it was in July, and that should prices advance the consumption of chickens would be restricted.

Fruit sugar has appeared on the market again, after an absence of two weeks. The demand for fruit sugar is heavy at this time. A carload of Lodi watermelons reached this city today, and served to relieve the scarcity. Green apples are scarce on account of the fruit inspection, which shuts out all infected fruit from the market. The apple crop is light at best.
