latest Quotations in the Portland Canned salmon-Columbia river, 1-lb. Markets.

Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vege-continues to prevail in the wholesale extra caps, $1.85. fruit districts of Portland, and dealers are inclined to become alarmed over the $12.50; quarts, $8.50; pints, $7.50; extra prospects. Little or no demand appears caps, glass, $2.50. for what fruit comes in, and prices of all kinds, except apples, are inclined to to drop in order that stocks may be moved before decay sets in.

Business men along Front street attribute the lack of demand to the sudden spell of cool weather and to the closing of the exposition, and the consequent falling off in travel. "The business of the hotels and restaurants has fallen) off considerably since October 15," one wholesaler explained today. "and we must now depend upon our old trade that existed before expositiontime ensued. It will not pay to place perishable fruits on the market to any extent until the demand becomes normal again, and this will take a month or six weeks at least."

In the meantime, large quantities of grapes, the last of the season, are pilno demand. Prices on grapes were 5 1-2e. marked down materially this morning in in might be moved immediately.

Retail grocers who make daily visits to Front street to replenish stocks complain of extremely high prices. "Eggs, butter, cheese and canned fruits are inordinately high," these retailers sav. "an by the time the profit of the small dealer is added the cost seems enor mous to the consumer.
