GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '05, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroys the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample. The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Eagle Drug Store, 351-353 Bond St., Owl Drug Store, 549 Com. St., T. F. Lauria, Prop. "Special Agent."

WHO DID SHE MARRY

St. Louis Woman Says Howard the Millionaire.

CLAIMS THE LARGE ESTATE

Mayor of Tumwater Says Mistake Is Made—That He's the "Howard" That Married the Woman Many Years Ago—Now Wants Divorce.

Olympia, Nov. 10.—Thomas J. Miller, mayor of Tumwater, filed suit for divorce today from Mary Moore Miller, alias Howard, alias Leafgreen, whom he has just discovered is his lawful wife, although he has not seen her for twenty years. Within that time he has again married and has a wife and child now living in Tumwater.

The complaint filed in the Superior Court today reveals a most remarkable story, which, if finally substantiated, will end the claim of the woman to a half million dollar estate in St. Louis, left by Leclde J. Howard. When a very young man, residing in Taylorville, Ill., Thomas J. Miller was masquerading under the name of Charles H. Howard.

A Secret Marriage.

As the complaint recites, meretricious relations with a young girl, Mary Moore, brought about a secret marriage. They were residing in Palmer, Ill., when the compact was made. They ran down to Decatur, where they were secretly married. Later, when the infatuation was over, Miller told his young wife that his name was not Howard, but Miller, and that he had not married her under his true name and that the marriage was void.

As both seemed willing to separate and both believed the secret marriage void, they decided a divorce was unnecessary. About eighteen years ago the woman, thinking the marriage was void, was married again to David Dreeman at Taylorville, Ill., and one child, now 17 years of age, was born to them.

Miller Starts West.

Dreeman died some years later and she married William Leafgreen. In the meantime Thomas J. Miller assumed his right name and came west, finally locating in Aberdeen. Fifteen years ago he was married to Miss Mattie K. Steward at Aberdeen and one child, a boy of 10, has been born to them. Since coming to Olympia, Miller has served a term in the Legislature and has held for two years a position as Secretary of the Board of State Land Commissioners under Robert Bridges. He now conducts a cigar manufacturing establishment and resides in Tumwater.

On April 5, 1903, Leclde J. Howard died at St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Howard-Dreeman-Leafgreen appeared to claim the entire estate as his legal wife, and recited the story of marriage to T. J. Miller, whom as Charles Howard, she had married at Decatur. She even alleged in prosecuting her claim, the complaint cites, that she had met Leclde Howard at St. Louis a few years before his death and he admitted the secret marriage and its genuineness.

Believing that Leclde Howard had never married the woman, his legal heirs began to ferret out the truth or falsity of the claim. Through some means not made public, they established the identity of "Charlie Howard" and found that he was Thomas J. Miller, and finally located him a couple of thousand miles away, a leading and highly respected citizen of the community. Mr. Miller at once consented to right the wrong as nearly as he could by asking for a divorce from the woman he had unwittingly legally married. With the establishment of his identity as Charlie Howard and his marriage to the woman claiming the Missouri Howard estate, her claim to be latter, will of course, end.

NO MAYOR IN HERS

Mary Moore Leafgreen Laughs at the Claims of Tumwater Man.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Mary Moore Leafgreen, of 503 Fairmont avenue, now suing for the half million dollar estate of Leclde J. Howard on the grounds that she is his lawful widow, ridicules the assertion of Mayor Thomas J. Miller, of Tumwater, Washington, that he is the "Charlie Howard" to whom she was married secretly in Decatur, Ill., in 1883.

She will be able to prove to the court she says, that it was the St. Louis manufacturer who died April 13, 1902, to whom she was married. She says she cannot understand the motive of the Tumwater mayor.

"I have never heard of this man Miller," declared Mrs. Leafgreen, when seen at her home today. "The story is false, wildly false. The mayor of Tumwater, Washington; it sounds like a comic opera name. I don't know who the man is, but I'd like to have him come to St. Louis and meet my Christian county friends. They will denounce him as an impostor."

Mystery to Woman.

"I cannot understand it at all. The mayor's action is a mystery to me. I have an idea that this man has been found by other parties to the case, and I believe he will never face the people who have known Mr. Howard and myself before we were married."

Commenting on the statement in the dispatch from Olympia that after the wedding, Thomas J. Miller, alias Charlie Howard, Mrs. Leafgreen married David Dreeman, of Taylorville, Mrs. Leafgreen said:

"I did marry David Dreeman, but he never in his life lived in Taylorville."

John J. O'Connor, attorney for Mrs. Leafgreen, said: "I don't know where the mayor of Tumwater got his idea that he married my client, but I would not be surprised if this 'newly discovered evidence' was made the basis for another continuance of the case."

LYTLE HAS TROUBLES

Has to Pay Premium on Steel Rails for New Road.

So closely are the various roads having an interest, in the Northwest watching the development of new lines, that it is impossible for any independent roads to secure second-hand equipment of any sort on the Pacific coast. Rails owned by the big lines will not be sold under any circumstances, and cars or locomotives cannot be purchased either.

E. E. Lytle, who is preparing actively to commence the construction of the Pacific Railway & Navigation Company's line from Hillsboro to the Coast via Astoria, has been unable to buy a few flat-cars and one locomotive for immediate use, and of the several lots of 65 pound rails held in this territory, he cannot obtain a single piece of steel. As a result, he has been compelled to pay $2.50 a ton as a premium on sufficient steel in the East to build the first five miles. This means an extra expense of nearly $2000 on that part of the line alone, and it is now regarded certain he will have to find cars and engines for present needs beyond the Rockies.

The initial five-mile stretch must be in operation by January 1, and the first ten miles by May 1, so no time can be wasted in getting the grading under way. A good start is expected to be made Monday, and as there is but half of the five miles to be graded, it is hoped to have that part of the work finished before the rains set in again.

Reports circulated recently to the effect that E. H. Harriman was financing the P. R. & N., project, were quashed when it became known the O. R. & N., or Southern Pacific would not provide Mr. Lytle with rails or equipment. It is said by those on the inside that each line is watching the other closely, and extra steel and equipment is held in reserve in case a rush is ordered for any particular portion of the territory.

Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Than of All Others Put Together.

Mr. Thos. George, a merchant at Mt. Elgin, Ontario, says: "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell as much of it as I do all other lines I have on my shelves put together. Of the many dozens sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I can personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and given it to my children and always with the best results." For sale by Frank Hart and leading druggists.

HANSEN WAS ASLEEP

Failed to Watch Fence and Mill Men Tore it Down.

OMINOUS WARNING IS GIVEN

Trouble Over Highway Leading to Hume's Mill Breaks Out Afresh—Hansen Accused Man of Cutting Wire and Is Struck Over the Head.

Another chapter in the episode of the fight over the highway leading to Hume's mill, was enacted last evening, shortly after 7 o'clock, when a number of the employes of the mill broke down and tore up the fence which G. Hansen had built across the highway, for the protection of his property. After completing the depredation, the men tacked a notice on one of the posts, warning Hansen not to again attempt to obstruct the highway, under dire penalties. It was adorned with cross bones and a skull, symbolic of the result that might follow, if the warning were not heeded.

The trouble commenced Thursday, when Hansen built a wire fence across the only road leading to Hume's mill, used both for pedestrian travel, and the traffic of product of the mill. During the night the wires were cut, and early yesterday morning Hansen encountered a man around the place, whom he charged with the depredation. A fist fight followed, and Hansen withdrew with a large bump on his forehead, which he claimed his adversary inflicted with a blunt instrument.

Going hastily to the office of Justice Goodman, Hansen procured a John Doe warrant for his assailant, and accompanied by Constable Utzinger, he started to find the man. He claimed the man was an employe of the Hume mill, but a diligent search there by the officer failed to locate him.

Hansen then repaired his fence, spliced the wires, and went home to get a little sleep. He expected another onslaught on his fence last night, but as near as can be learned he slept too long, and the depredation was committed before he reached the scene.

Hansen has announced that he will fight the case to a bitter end, and yesterday began the construction of a small house on the road. The shack is said to be located on a spot where the first high tide will take it out into the river, but when Street Superintendent Kearney called his attention to that fact yesterday, Hansen replied by stating that he guessed he could build his house where he pleased.

Mr. Kearney stated last night that an agreement would probably be reached between the city and the county court, whereby both Birch and Fifty-third street would be improved, and thus open a highway to the mill.

As it is, there is no feasible route for the many men going and coming from their work, while lumber from the mill has to be transferred at the fence—brought to the fence by one team, and packed through and there taken by another.

Bilious Attack Quickly Cured.

A few weeks ago I had a bilious attack that was so severe I was not able to go to the office for two days. Failing to get relief from my family physician's treatment, I took three of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the next day I felt like a new man.—H. C.
