

There is Coffee and Coffee and Coffee, but Bakers' Barrington Hall, the STEEL CUT COFFEE

Beats them all and satisfies the most fastidious.

40 CENTS A CAN

Costs no more than any other. Pure Mocha and Java prepared in a new way. The coffee berry is cut up (not ground) by knives of almost razor sharpness into small uniform particles. Thus it is not crushed, as by the old method of grinding, and the little oil cells remain unbroken. The coffee (food product) cannot evaporate and is preserved indefinitely. This is the reason why a pound of Barrington Hall will make 15 to 20 cups more of full strength coffee than will any coffee ground the old way.

But the real significance of Barrington Hall Coffee is that it can be used without ill effect by those who find ordinary coffee injures them. Try it.

When Antoinette Brown Blackwell, the first woman graduate in medicine in this country, appeared on the streets, the women held aside their skirts for fear of contamination with so unwomanly a creature.

Woman, herself, has largely broken the barriers of public opinion until today the vast army of stenographers, clerks, telegraph operators, book-keepers, physicians, lawyers and women in the United States engaged in gainful occupations. This vast army represents varying positions and wages from the lowest drudgery, with a mere pittance of a wage, to the profession of medicine for which woman is recognized more and more as so eminently fitted, or to the woman occupying a chair in a university. If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time. It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

large number of women and girls who really do not need to be wage earners? Going out to business is a fad. Girls who need the protection of home life are drawn into the busy whirl of the world, for the luxuries; it brings of itself, not a bad thing. But often, on leaving home she performs a very selfish part. There may be younger brothers and sisters who need her care. Burdens fall upon the mothers who perhaps needs the daughter's care, instead of which the daughter makes extra demands upon the mother. People of moderate means like to appear wealthy. To meet the extravagant way we have of living and doing things it is easy to take up with the fad; again, there are those who have a competency and can afford a life of ease, who prefer to be in the active world of work for the broadening and developing effects upon their lives. If they do not crowd women who need it to the wall, perhaps the world and future generations will be the better for their leaving lives of luxurious ease.

"Some one has said 'Women are leaving their homes and competing with men.' They are merely filling in the breach. Women face the cold world of business for the sake of a chance to pay for a home! women work to save the little one's from starvation when man gives up the struggle. Surely it's not the woman who goes out to earn wages to save her home, that is the one who is destroying the home life of the nation. Nay, rather is it not the woman pampered in wealth and idleness who cares naught but to flit as a butterfly of fashion!

"Perhaps man himself has some little responsibility in the matter of these social evils. Possibly he cares less for home because of the things he must do to help himself in the mad craze of money making. He belongs to the commercial bodies and lodges. He must know men and measures that he may make telling stroke for this one object. Away from home so much, boarding home life, takes the place of home life. Granted that these evils can be laid to the fact of women entering the business world, are there no good results to be found? Every girl should know how to do some one thing well enough, by which she can make a living, if necessary. As a rule, women, confined in her efforts to the four walls of home, without the practical knowledge of the work of the world, with no part in philanthropy no part in reform work, becomes dwarfed in intellect, warped in her self-shness, given up to the things that make life narrow. Woman's broadened view of life makes her a better mother a better counselor.

"With the broadened opportunities for education and training, woman is the better able to conserve her forces and with the modern improvements, to do her work, or supervise it, so as to give time for study, for work for humanity's sake, during the hours the children are in school. Or after they are grown, to take a place beside her husband, at the desk, or joins hands with him in the management of business, where she gets a training which redounds to the benefit of her children as their companion in the home hours. This will not seem true to one who is conservative about woman's sphere.

"Again wage-earning women are healthier than women of means, as attested by the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Newark, N. J., whose officials have now given direction to its agents, in reference to insuring women; 'to insure wage-earning women who have other people depending upon them' and 'not to insure married women nor women of means not derived from their own property.' The wage-earning woman is happy; steady, systematic work gives health. Four-fifths of surgical operations are on women. Of wage-earning women, no more go to the hospital than men. A Chicago divine recently claimed that the increase in divorce is not due to lessened morality, but to the fact that the husband is no longer entitled to beat and abuse his wife without fear of consequences. This is incident to the larger liberty and respect accorded her. This divine also says that woman will 'lead in the ethical unfolding is already evident from the advanced position she is taking in all that makes for a higher and nobler living.

"Women should protect those of her sex who must face the world of business, from the rebuffs and temptations they meet, by advance, by sympathy, by working for legal protection. Women should discourage those who go out to work for wages simply for the luxuries it brings, by setting the example of simpler living and higher thinking.

"The home is safe, Woman loves, home. There her heart centers. To believe she is going to let the home life of the nation decay is to 'doubt your own folks.' It may be that on the reaction from the limited sphere of our grandmothers the pendulum has swung too far, but there'll be a recession of the time and each succeeding age will help to establish a well balanced equilibrium."

HOSTILE FEELING

Anti-Foreign Sentiment is Strong in China.

DUE TO RUSSIA'S DEFEAT

China is Awakening to Fact That They Are Not a Subject People—Are Much Incensed Against Americans Because of Exclusion Act.

OAKLAND, Jan. 13.—The Rev. Arthur Smith, a missionary in China who returned yesterday on the Siberia, is visiting friends in this city. The missionary said last night:

"The strong anti-foreign feeling in China is due in a large part to the defeat of Russia by Japan. The Chinese are awakening to the fact they are not a subject people. The feeling against the United States is very bitter because of the exclusion act. This feeling is heightened by imaginary wrongs and exaggerated descriptions of indignities heaped on Chinese in this country, as sent home by the Chinese in the United States. But China as a whole has come to the belief that it is easier and cheaper to carry on a negative war against the United States than to attack missionaries. The country has learned that where there is no violence there is no punishment to follow. This feeling is confined to the coast cities, however, and I do not believe that it would be safe for an American to venture into the interior provinces.

"What the more intelligent of the Chinese want is that the exclusion act shall be intelligently interpreted, and shall be enforced only against those classes whom it is meant to affect."

FIGHT A DRAW.

Fitzgerald and Lewis Battle 25 Rounds For Standoff.

COLMA, Cal., Jan. 13.—Willie Fitzgerald of Brooklyn and Willie Lewis of New York, last night battled 25 rounds to a draw, at Colma.

The first ten rounds were slow and uninteresting with the advantage with Fitzgerald. There was a hot rally in the the eleventh when Fitzgerald had Lewis apparently in bad shape. From that round until the eighteenth Fitzgerald was very aggressive and had Lewis constantly backing up. From the eighteenth until the end Lewis improved and was more aggressive, and about evened up matters. Referee Graney called the fight a draw at the end of the twenty-fifth round.

It's coming soon.
