Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

PORTLAND, Jan. 30.—In the live-stock market, cattle are considered easy, sheep firm, and hogs strong. The supply of fat cattle is ample for the time, on account of stockmen being anxious to dispose of their fat steers before the fodder gives out. Considerable hay has been fed out in the stockraising districts this season, where the supply was supposed to be ample, but feeders will have to be more saving of their fodder, in view of considerable cold weather ahead. Arrivals of fat hives are fully up to the demand from day to day.

Sheep are scarce and are expected to continue so until after shearing in the spring, when a good many wethers will be thrown upon the market.

Fat hogs command top prices, and drovers are scouring the Northwest in quest of porkers for the Portland market. This scarcity is expected to become more pronounced unless live hogs are brought out from the East by the carload.
