The public lighting of Astoria is in a peculiar situation. The Common Counsel now has under consideration two or three propositions emanating from the one proposition with several phases, which should command respect. namely, bids upon contracts of two, three and five years; and there is in the field another concern, about to initiate the public lighting element of it, which per stocks. cannot be utilized for some time to The older company has signified the kind of service it intends to render in the event it is given an adequate term of future service and the sample of light furnished in advance seems to be a decided improvement on what has been in use.

The real question at issue with the council seems to be, for how many years shall the new contract be drawn? Two years means that the old system will be prolonged; three years means that it will be bettered in the character of the arc service; five years might mean a good deal more in the way of improvement, since the company would be disposed to do more for the city if amendments by.

Then arises the further proposition, that if the five-year term is granted, the new concern may feel that its franchise-value has been mitigated to a point of minimum profit and take no steps to inaugurate its electric service, and so put the question of competition utterly out of running. And competition is the breath of life in public service contracts.

Three years for the pending contract seems to be the happy medium in the matter with the council, and perhaps they are right, but it is exceedingly unfortunate for the city that it is denied the advantage of wholesome competition in this important case. The Whipple-Clinton franchise was granted in the hope that this very phase of business might be made a feature of the new lighting contracts that were due to arise this year; but this city like all others granting franchises, has met with the same desultory treatment from its beneficiaries that invariably happens. The people to whom the advantage is granted dawdle along for nine months before they turn a hand to avail themselves of the first item of value attaching to their privilege, and then make a plunge at the last moment to save the gift their own laches has forced to the verge of cancellation; and having saved it, will probably sit down for another long season, or until the next date for doing something shall roll around and compel further action.

There happens to be six months leeway in this case, and it will be a matter of infinite gratification to the public of Astoria, if before that time, any thing substantial is done, at all, with the Whipple franchise; in spite of the extraordinary promises and unusual activity displayed here in the past few days in this behalf. We hope something will be done, but we are used to waiting in such premises and shall be happily disappointed if there is no more dallying and the Astoria Improvement Company shall make good, wholly, and

> To northern men used to northern ways it seems strange that it should take an act of legislature to compel rural hotel keepers in Georgia to see that bed linen is changed as often as the guests change. There are somethings which even a legislature should be excused from the necessity of seriously considering.

It were better and more delectable perchance, as occasion may afford opportunitie, to let ye fish have ye bait to swallow, and for ye sake of a sportsmanlike pleasure that shall follow later on, to let him run even ye length of ye line, with ye same,-Izaak Walton Garfield-Moody's Complete Beef Trust

The delegates to the district convenit had time and profits to measure such tion of mine-workers at Pittsburg have demanded that Patrick Dolan, district president, and Uriah Bellingham, vicepresident, who opposed a strike, shall resign. The officials in question deny the right of the delegates to make any such demand, and refuse to budge. It would seem as if the delegates had got the old saying twisted, and read it, "Cussed be the peacemakers."

> The inatienable right of mankind to its ears and nerves, a growing gospel that is bound to be preached more a little later on, has so impressed the London city council that it has decided to pave with neiseless material the portions of street car tracks in front of churches, and the educational committee has proposed that similar material be laid in front of schools. The hospitals will doubtless insist on similar nerve-saving paving,

Bombay has just adopted standard time, and the change has affected the National Bank notes out-Indian mind in very curious ways. The surrender of thirty-nine minutes to Father Time is made the subject of protest duly signed by fifteen thousand people who are afraid of deferred breakfasts, delayed office hours and demoral ized religious periods. It now appears the gift of $150,000 to Columbia University, by Mrs. Maria H. Williamson, of New York City, was due to her pleasure at the abolition of football, as now played, from the university's curriculum, so as to say. Mrs Williamson might seem to have had a sense of humor, for sha stated the object of the gift to be the endowment of a chair "for instruction in the origin and development of civilization." But the lady is realy in carpest, and not joking at all, for it comes indirectly | from President Butler that she considers the abolishment of football as one of the greatest steps in the interest of . civilization that have been taken in many years.

A Healing Gospel. The Rev. J. C. Warren, pastor of Sharon Baptist Church, Belair, Ga., says of Electric Bitters: "It's a Godsend to mankind. It cured me of lame back stiff joints, and complete physical col-lapse. I was so weak it took me half an hour to walk a mile. Two bottles of Electric Bitters have made me so strong I have just walked three miles in 50 minutes and feel like walking three more It's made a new man of me."
