Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

PORTLAND, Feb. 22.—Large numbers of dressed calves appear on Front street from day to day, and the markets are well supplied uptown. A decline of 1-2c a pound all around took place in the price of veal this morning.

"We find that dairymen have been shipping heavily of dressed calves to the various butcher shops of the city," one wholesale commission man said. "And these retailers have a surplus of dressed veal to dispose of. The calving season is well on in the northwest, and many dairymen are anxious to get rid of the increase, owing to the good market for milk and cream. The result is almost a glut of dress calves, and were it not for the scarcity and high price of beef, pork and mutton, a slump in veal would increase. As it is, veal is about the cheapest fresh meat in the market, and people who like veal should now obtain it at a reduced price from their retail butchers."
