A Dandy for Burns,

Dr. Bergin, Pana, Ill. writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommended it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. It is a dandy for burns.' Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns, bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Hart's Drug the brim on the left side.

A Marked Revival of Polonaise and Tunic Effects.

The Season's Belts Are Like the Skirts -Pompadour and Persian Designs Still Popular in Silks-Summer Quiet in Tone,

In the sheer skirts considerable fullness is left even in the top part, which is put into the waisthand in tiny tucks or plaits. The shirred or corded yoke is seldom seen. Such a yoke or deep plaits were practically necessary on th€ full skirts of last year, but the circular cut has changed this, and the waist fullness is not too great to be adjusted in less awkward ways.

This season most of the belts on cloth dresses are made of the same material as the skirt and are either trimmed with a narrow touch of color at the top or embroidered in a very simple conventional design.

The newest motoring gloves are being fashioned with detachable gauntlets, the latter usually lined with a contrasting shade and reaching to or above the elbow,

A new acrangement for the neck is a "tab" collar. A curved band of ribbon the ribbon, one over the other and each one about two inches longer than the one above. These collars are of rich plaid and dark colored ribbons two inches wide and make a smart finish to the shirt waist.

Radium silks in pompadour and Persian designs are among the loveliest of the dress materials and will be used for many of the smartest ceremonious day and evening toilets of the season.

The blouse in the cut is fashioned from white china silk. A shirred yoke ending in turned back revers and pompadour bows drawn through gold buckles are features of this pretty design.

OLD TIME CHAPEAUX.

Popular though the mushroom hat was last season it is quite as much in evidence this spring. Paris is enamored of the mushroom shape and is varying it with high crowns and low, narrow brims and wide, making it with feathers or wreathing it with flowers. It was thought at first to be a juvenile idea, but it is now considered immensely becoming to every age of womankind.

The dalaty Dolly Varden bat has been revived minus its strings that tied so coquettishly under the chin. The brim of this fascinating hat is pointed in the center of the front, which gives it a saucy upward tilt. The back turns up and is filled in with ribbon or flow-

The French sailor is with us again, and the latest development is anything but attractive. It has a high crown and very narrow brim and what trimming instinct was not manifesting itself in there is is arranged beneath and above nats the crowns are entirely untrimmed, the adornment being placed at

Small hats will be the accepted cult for early spring wear with tailored gowns, but later on larger affairs will be the correct caper.

Ospreys have never become common and are not likely to on account of the enormous prices milliners are asking for handsome examples,

The mushroom hat seen in the illustration is of black tegal straw. The brim is faced with shirred tulle. A white ostrich algret, osprey and tulle rosette trim the top of the hat.

NATTY SERGE SUIT.

The rage for the polonaise and tunic effects seems to be very much on the increase. An early Victorian polonaise does not sound a pretty thing, but when treated by skillful hands it has a style of its own. The newest effects are rucked at the waist and lifted rather high at the back like a band, the ends falling in points over the underskirt. Buttons, too, form an important feature in the construction of the polonaise-buttons at the back, buttons in front and in all the most unlikely Long directoire coats in checked materials finished with velvet collars and a number of buttons, worn over plain, sweeping skirts, are to be seen among the new tailer mades. Braids and gimps are being tremendously used, dyed to match the new cloths.

Spanish laces are already extremely fashionable, especially when enriched made with more fullness at the feet, and bands of satin and velvet are favorite trimmings. Quaint ball fringes are also reminiscences of the Victorian era. When successfully treated some of these trimmings strike a pleasing as well as a novel note, but merely chronicled they do not sound attractive.

The natty little costume pictured is of blue serge fancifully trimmed with stitched bands and small metal buttons. The short coat has a waistcoat of cream white cloth. The girdle, coat ment that of the Chicago, Milwaukee collar and cuffs are of black velvet.

AMERICAN SILKS POPULAR. The spring and summer colors promise to be cool and quiet in tone. The grays, mauves, soft yellows and shades of blue are not nearly so conspicuous as they were last season.

It will be a great silk year, and by the Block system. American weaves are quite to the fore.

BLACK TULLE EVENING BODICE.

These sliks have little dressing and rival the European weaves in beauty of texture. The rajahs are the most popular among the many varieties.

Lace bracelets are a fad that has reached us from the other side. They are worn alone or with dog collars to match. Around a low or Dutch neck these collars are very fetching.

Another extreme notion is that of painting portraits on the finger nails. And the craze for all sorts of beads. buttons and chains would set a scientist to wondering whether the savage the feminine portion of the civilized world. On many of the best French model Gowns for afternoon are almost without exception made with long skirts, and both skirts and jackets are elaborately trimmed.

The new girdles are on the order of a swiss belt and are very often made of suede, studded with beads,

The evening bodice illustrated is of black tulle striped with lines of black velvet ribbon and insertions of white lace. Velvet bows diminishing in size toward the waist adorn the front. JUDIC CHOLLET.
