Judge Silent of Los Angeles Would Refuse to Aid San Francisco.

INFAMOUS ACTION.

The following editorial taken from the hkland (Cal.) Tribune is reproduced. "The Lowest Man in California."

There once lived a man in Scotland who murdered men for the trifling profit he might gain by selling their bolies to the medical colleges for dissection. His crime was so horrible, so loathsome, so infamous and so inhuman that a name had to be invented for it. There was no term in the language to designate so tideous an offense. So they called the crime by the name of the wretch who invented it, and thus killing men to sell their dead bodies is now designated by law in every English-speaking country as "burking."

One Charles Silent of Los Angeles. described by the local press as a "judge" seems to possess the nature of the Scottish hyena who gained imperishable infamy by giving his name to the most sordid and atrocious crome in the calendar. In presenting a resolution to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce denying welcome and shelter to the homeless and burned out fugitives from San Francisco, at a meeting held on Satur-To be awakened by b-ing thrown day evening, April 21st "Judge" Silent made an explanatory address that makes burking respectable by comparison. Says the Los Angeles Examiner of Ap> ril 22nd. "Yesterday afternoon action became imperative when a Southern Pacific official called and asked:

"How many refugees can you care for? The Southern Pacific wants to know."

"Immediate action was also asked by Mayor Schmitz.

"Filled with grief at the sorrow, the lergyman met at the Church Federation with no thought except charity, and voted to throw open the doors of their churches to all who come."

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was called for 8:20 in the evening, and the clergymen invited to attend. What took place is related by the Los Angeles Examiner.

"Behind closed doors the committee met first. The whole situation was talked over seriously, and it was unanimously decided that it would be unwise for the city to extend an invitation to refugees.

"Judge Charles Silent was directed to express the view of the committee to the press and clergymen.

"The city is willing to double its fund, furnish camps for the sufferers. clothe, feed and nurse them, but nearer
