DR. WITHYCOMBE'S ADDRESS.

The republican party of Oregon is happily equipped with candidates this year who have an extraordinary faculty of saying exactly what they think and what they stand for. And at the head of the list is James Withycombe, the man who is to be the next governor, whose expressions on the exigencies of the campaign and the policies to be maintained by the republican staff of state officials, himself included, is without parallel for conciseness and candor, and the correlative qualities of honesty and courage. His address at Logan hall last night was a masterpiece of eloquent detail along the lines of Oregon's needs and his purposes in that behalf, if the honors of election shall fail to him; and the whole house was deeply impressed with the earnest vigor of the man and his salwart adherence to every high dictate of the principles of the party of which he is the leader and the exponent. No man who listened to him, whatever his political creed may have been, could deny to Mr. Withycombe, the largess of a frank concession for ability and manfulness in stating, without equivocation, the real inspiration behind him in this canvass, and of his honest purpose to fulfill the last pledge made. His range of subjects embraced all the vital issues in the projected administration of the state's government, and his conclusions on each were adequate and ample to satisfy any man who really desires to see stable and equitable systems inaugurated in this state. He was listened to with profound attention that spoke louder than any repeated volunnes of applause could speak, of the definite interest his address invoked, and it is needless to say Astoria has a fuller and better conception of the man and his splendid program than ever before. It was a revelation. And revelations are what compel the respect and loyalty of men everywhere and at all times.

WHAT INTEREST HAVE WE?

There are times when men who do the consecutive thinking in this community are almost forced to the extraordinary conclusion that Astoria is without fixed and calculable interest in the bar that lies off the mouth of the Columbia river. This conclusion is not a welcome one in any sense of the word, but it is almost unescapable at times. Nine-tenths of the tonnage that crosses it goes, or comes, to, and from Portland, and what does inure to this port is of a calibre that leaves the deepening of the water on its crest a matter of indifference with this city. Here is a nut for the Astorian to crack; and the sooner he reaches a decision on this important score the better for him and his city. He has taken the "Ha, Ha," from the metropolis of this state just about as long as he ought to, and it is up to him to find out the real equities of the situation and put forth a strenuous hand for the preservation of his birth-right and the development of his share in one of the most vital of his possessions. That he has slept on his rights for more years than is any credit to him, does not "debar" him, so to speak!

CLATSOP VERSUS CLATSOP.

On Monday next the case of the republicans versus the "citizens" of Clatsop county, will be up for adjudication before the people. They are the judges, and upon their fiat rests the issue and all subsequent results. The republicans go before the court with clean hands, a wholesome plea and in their own name, style and status. The "citizens" enter court under a palpable disguise, both as to name and condition; they will pose before the judge, and ask the arbitration of their claims, as citizens, when the whole Clatsop world knows that, in reality, they are democrats, and nothing else, with democratic leaders, democratic principles, and democratic aims and purposes; in fact, THEY ARE DEMOCRATS and stultify themselves when they claim to be anything else. If republican Clatsop is to be cajoled and deceived once again with this flimsy mask and pretense, then it will be because republican, partisan honor is absolutely dead within her borders; but we are not yet ready to concede a single thought of this, and look for a ringing and manly demonstration of republicanism emphasized by the biggest majority in years.

HAVE A CARE, GENTLEMEN!

There is a grave question confronting the voters of the precinct known as "Astoria No. 6", where the issue of local option, about to be submitted for decision at the polls, involves the ousting of a big and valuable industry, the North Pacific Brewing Company's plant, in the interest of that cause. Whether it is essential to force this particular system of government on this locality, at this time, following it up, in logical sequence, with the dismantling of a large and prosperous business, that means thousands of dollars per annum, to the precinct, the city and the county, is a matter well worth the best and amplest consideration of every property holder up there. As a menace to the peace and prosperity to the neighborhood, a word may be said, in repetition of a well known city officer of Astoria, who, in conversation with another citizen deeply interested in this very question of local option, declared "that arrests and convictions in the city police court, as coming from Uppertown and Uniontown, put together, were but one-fifth of the cases arising from all the rest of the city." This shows that on that score, at least, the people of No. 6 may go with reasonable slowness in prosecuting the disruption of a big and thriving business and the sacrifice of the revenue and employment therefrom, and deal with the matter from a material business point, as well as from an ethical and sentimental predicate.

ONE GRAIN OF HUMOR.

In all the Dowie matter from first to last never has there been a gleam of humor until the case came into the hands of Judge Landis. He has relieved a very tiresome situation by declining to interfere with Dowie's use of the tabernacle at Zion City. "Let him have the place," cried the judge. "No matter if only a few can hear him. Let him have it. I sometimes make a speech myself, and I like to have a big hall. I like to think how many people might have had the pleasure of hearing me if they had only come. The bigger the hall, the most gratification a man can get from this consideration. Let him have the tabernacle." As a matter of fact, Judge Landis is a capital speaker, and it is doubtful if he ever saw half a dozen empty chairs before him in his life.

DOES ASTORIA NEED IT?

Somebody please tell us whether this city really needs a first-class modern hotel; say, an establishment to cost in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand dollars? Because, if it does, there is a chance to get it by the mere contribution of a suitable lot for the structure. But, of course, if she don't need it, why she may well keep silent, and let the investment go elsewhere, where it may be better appreciated. IF SHE DOES NEED, AND WANT IT, WHY DON'T SHE SAY SOMETHING TO INDICATE HER PROPER ESTEEM OF THE OFFER AND TREAT IT IN A BUSINESS FASHION?

EDITORIAL SALAD.

In voting to build "the largest battleship afloat" the House of Representatives seems to have taken unfair advantage of the fact that the Hon. R. P. Hobson, though already nominated for Congress, will have to wait two full years before breaking into that body.
