It is impossible to secure details, but the correspondent says it is believed an enormous meeting of discontented soldiers of the Moscow garrison was being dispersed by the artillery.

TO ADJOURN THIS WEEK

Congress Expected to Finish Labors Soon.

WILL RUSH BUSINESS

Appropriation Bills and Conference Will Be Expedited.

FRIDAY MAY SEE THE WINDUP

House Will Consider Deficiency Measure, and Immigration Bill—Pure Food Bill is on Schedule for Consideration.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—Senator Hale who is acting as chairman of the appropriations committee expressed confidence that congress would adjourn before the end of the present week. His program will be to urge the appropriation bills and the conference reports to the exclusion of all else and with the support of the bills passed there is no measure, except the railroad rate bill that can hold congress together.

The only two appropriation bills which were not passed by the senate are the general deficiency bill and the omnibus public building bill; but the sundry civil, naval and agricultural bills are still in conference. Few of these bills are expected to require much time except the agricultural bill to which is attached the meat inspection provision and it is generally conceded that this measure could be quickly disposed of in case of necessity as it has been discussed sufficiently to satisfy most of the senators.

As to the rate bill, no one doubts it will go through; no one is satisfied as to how the provision prohibiting common carriers from transporting their projects will come out, if Tillman adheres to his determination to insist upon a retention of the words "Common carriers" instead of "Railroads" as is now proposed. Every effort is being made to finish the business of the House this week. The last of the appropriation bills, the general deficiency bill, will be reported today and passed. After the deficiency bill, the immigration bill will be considered under special rules. The conference report on pending appropriation bills and other measures, including the pure food bill will be brought in at all times and considered without delay. The requirements of the work will make it possible, unless some unforeseen delay occurs, to finish by Friday.

CROMER'S GREAT POLICY.

"Leave Well Enough Alone" in the School.

CAIRO, June 24.—In a speech delivered at Victoria college, Alexandria, on the occasion of the laying of the foundation stone of the new and more complete institution, Lord Cromer, after referring to the success of the public school system here applied, expressed the hope that all people of influence in Egypt would do their utmost to prevent the evil spirit of religious dissension from blocking the path of educational progress. Though frequently urged to move the Egyptian government to place its educational policy in the matter of religious teaching on a different basis, he held that the proverb "Leave well enough alone" was especially applicable to Egypt.

Referring to the number of races and creeds represented at the college, he hoped for the steady improvement of the relations between Europeans and natives and between Europeans of different nationalities. He had noticed during the last two or three years a distinct diminution in petty international rivalries, and he hoped that educated Europeans would realize that it was necessary to stand together as the representatives and champions of western civilization.

The furtherance of the fusion of the different elements of Egyptian society, and their guidance by harmonious co-operation in the direction of the country's welfare, was the noblest task for an Egyptian reformer.

NOBLES IN A PANIC

Fear New Douma May Pass Law Dividing All Land.

SQUIRES ARE BETTER FARMERS

Russian Squire Cultivates Soil Methodically and Gets Much Higher Returns From Soil Than Do the Peasants.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 24.—It begins to be more and more apparent that the douma may discuss and pass many bills, sending them to the council of the empire, where they will be buried. But it seems to an impartial observer that a fatal tactical blunder was made by the government in not appearing first in the field with a comprehensive scheme for the settlement of the land question. The monarchy might possibly have won the peasantry over with the bait, but now the democrats are sure to secure the peasants support, and the monarchists cannot hope to defeat the democrats otherwise than by giving them the reins of government.

It is very doubtful whether the expropriation of all the soil in Russia, and even its gratuitous redistribution among the peasants, would now hinder an agrarian revolution, but even if it did, other results of the operation of the bill proposed might be harmful. The Russian squire cultivates the soil methodically, getting a much more plentiful harvest than the peasant who merely scratches it. Thus a field which, under present conditions, yields 1440 pounds of corn, would give 4608 pounds in Belgium, 4428 pounds in Great Britain, and would produce only 720 to 1080 pounds here if tilled by three peasant alone.

The average of the Russian output, however is raised by the squire, who devotes time, money and thought to agriculture, and therefore Tsardom exports, cereals enough to keep the balance of trade favorable. But if the landlords' estates were distributed among the peasants the average output per acre must fall considerably, to the detriment of the foreign export trade, unless the shortage be compensated by cultivation of the crown lands. The agrarian problem will therefore remain acute until the peasantry is cured of its ignorance, superstition and indolence. Whether redistribution will perceptibly alleviate the land hunger, and whether the principle of expropriation of private property may not prove harmful generally, are questions which Russians had best be left to settle among themselves.

WILL FIGHT AMERICAN TRADE.

London Retailers Are Combining Against the Packers.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The amalgamation of three large provision firms of Manchester and Liverpool is for the purpose of protecting the English trade against American competition, especially among the retailers.

Within the past few weeks the Swift and Armour American combination has terminated its arrangements with commission agents and engaged a staff of nearly 300 agents and travelers to canvass and represent it exclusively in various parts of Great Britain. The Americans have centralized the working of this agency at a large suite of offices in Liverpool.

Mr. Lovell, one of the principals in the British firms, says that the prospects of the conflict were much in favor of the British firms, and that they would be quite able to meet the price cutting which the American trust intended to force with the object of securing a stronger hold on the retail trade, especially in view of the recent troubles in America.
