Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

PORTLAND, June 25.—In fresh meats, the past week closed with immaterial changes on any line. As a matter of fact, no one can foretell what may happen in the next few days, and there is just about as much certainty in predicting what sort of weather there will be next Thursday as to give any reliable information on a Monday what the week may bring forth in fresh meats.

It can be said within the bounds of reason that no great change is indicated from any information coming beforehand to dealers. Shipments of veal will naturally fall off from now on, and there is every probability that prices will at least hold steady, if not show some improvement soon.

Muttons and lambs are meeting with a fair sale, though from last week's experience it is not likely this market will want much dressed mutton. Prime lambs are in better demand than muttons, but weather conditions will have to be taken into consideration, and should heavy receipts fall on hot days, dealers will be compelled to sell promptly, even at the sacrifice of quotations.

Light hogs are still wanted in reasonably large volume, but the figures of last week are regarded as fully high.

Bull beef drags heavily, and from 2c to 3c is the best leading dealers will quote. There is not enough demand for this meat to furnish a basis for price to shippers. Fortunately but few carcasses are being sent in, though bulls just now are not desirable stock for farmers to hold, for service season is over.
