Latest Quotations in the Portland Markets

Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

PORTLAND, July 19.—A leading dealer in reviewing the present condition of the hop market gives 125,000 bales as the average for this year's yield. He says from personal observation he finds the crop practically uninjured by the long hot spell, and that in his opinion, the yield will not exceed 130,000 bales nor fall below 120,000. As to the flurry in the market, he considers between 12c and 13c a figure beyond which there is nothing to indicate the market reaching. "English brewers bought and stored large quantities of last year's crop," the dealer referred to said, "and if the crop in England this year falls below even the low estimate now made upon it by trade journals of that country, there will be enough at present market prices to fill brewers' wants without drawing largely on the stored goods that were bought at low prices. The holding of these storage hops, of course, will act as an obstacle to very high prices in England, which market sets the quotations for other countries in a good measure.

Eggs and Butter. There continues to be a very good market for all concerned, in the egg market, prices being firm at 22c, which is considered reasonable to buyer and satisfactory to seller. In some quarters a half cent is named on top of the generally accepted figure. Ranch eggs are not coming in sufficiently to meet requirements, but the light receipts are being augmented by the Eastern goods, that sell side by side with the local eggs. No Portland storage eggs are being withdrawn, as far as could be learned. Butter is firmer, though there are still very heavy receipts from usual sources of supply, and some from quarters news to this trade previous to this year.
