FIGHT GROWS WARM FOR GOVERNOR

DEMOCRATIC STRUGGLE FOR NOMINATION OF GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS BECOMES BITTER BETWEEN OPPOSING FACTIONS.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—Public utterances from various state leaders yesterday developed new interest in the struggle for the Democratic nomination for governor of Massachusetts. District Attorney John B. Moran led off by sending a caustic letter to Josiah Quincy, chairman of the Democratic State committee, refusing the latter's suggestion to submit the nomination issue to William Jennings Bryan. The district attorney forwarded one of his campaign buttons to Chairman Quincy with the remark that the wearing of the same would be proof of Mr. Quincy's recognition of the Massachusetts people to govern themselves in defiance to dictation by self-constituted bosses.

Chairman Quincy replied by promising vigorous hostility to Mr. Moran's candidacy. He added, however, that he would cease his opposition to Moran after the latter had become satisfied that a majority of the Democrats wanted a candidate whose nomination to his mind spelled "humiliation and disaster."

Mr. Quincy intimated that he would resign his position as chairman if Mr. Moran were nominated. Former Congressman J. R. Thayer announced that he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor under any circumstances. H. M. Whitney recently made a similar announcement and Former Governor Douglas has declared his unwillingness to run unless he is nominated without opposition. The situation has apparently given new hope to the Moran forces which are now hard at work in the state.

ERASMO DOWN FOR GENOA

Potter Leaves Up With Four Hundred Home-bound Passengers—Sampson Returns from Gray's Harbor—Steamers Arriving Packed.

The sombre gray of the handsome Italian cruiser Dogalia was a conspicuous feature in the harbor of Astoria yesterday, and a pleasant one, withal. She sent many of her men ashore during the day, and they were a hearty, orderly, seaman-like set of men as have been seen here for many a day. The ship will probably be dropped today to an anchorage of the grandstand on the Flavel pier, where she will be more available to general inspection by the tens of thousands who will throng the city today and tomorrow and easier to reach by those who shall avail themselves of the chance to visit her during the afternoon of today and tomorrow.

The fine Italian bark Erasmo arrived down from Portland last evening on the hawsers of the Harvest Queen, lumber laden for Genoa, Italy. As she passed the warship of her own country now at anchor here, she dipped her colors, something that the American shipping should do as well. It is a small courtesy to show the representative ship of a friendly country and is always appreciated.

The steamer T. J. Potter came over from the northshore beaches at 10 o'clock yesterday morning with over 400 returning Portlanders and others on board.

The sea-tug Sampson arrived in from Gray's Harbor last evening, from towing the Wastucca over. She met the Sue H. Elmore on the way, the latter vessel having left here yesterday with cannery supplies.

The steamship Costa Rica entered port early yesterday morning from San Francisco, and after a brief stop at the O. R. & N. pier, went on to the metropolis.

There was a dearth of news from the bar and North Head yesterday, the arrivals and departures being limited to two, the Sampson and Costa Rica, in.

The steamship Norman Isles left up yesterday for Portland, with Captain Patterson on the bridge.

The schooner Americano is reported out from San Pedro just thirty-six days. She is bucking fogs and head-winds, probably, and will show up in good time though it may not be "good" to her master.

A Typical Hungarian Village.

Imagine a very broad unpaved road, like a dusty, plowed field, and wild gardens trailing around and over white thatched cottages. Each cottage is one storied, with old world eaves and a veranda which runs along the whole front. The thatched roof seems to lean with all its strength upon a top shaped colonnade, while the creepers afford a contrast to the whitewashed walls. If you walk down the road at dusk you will find at each door one of the household vigorously brushing clouds of dust away from the footpath, while long files of clean, curly pigs are trotting swiftly homeward and lean mongrels "bay the whispering wind" unceasingly. The men wear linen shirts and kilts. On workdays the costume has the appearance of a long, dingy night-dress tied with a leather girdle. On heydays the kilt is white and stiff, with accordion plaiting, while the shirt is of dainty embroidery and sets off an elaborate worsted waistcoat. The girls' full dress is still more picturesque, owing to the harmonious blending of the brightest prints—all shades and depths of blue and red and pink; no other colors—and to the graceful fall of the short petticoats, which do not reach the ankle, and are inflated by a slight suspicion of crinoline.—Saturday Review.

Cause of Warm and Cold Periods.

Experiments of the Swedish physicist Arrhenius, supplementing the investigations of Professor Langley, indicate that in order to explain the origin of the warm climate which prevailed over the earth in the tertiary age, when even the polar regions seem to have abounded with life, and of the intense cold that caused the glacial periods, when half the northern hemisphere was buried under ice, it is only necessary to look to slight changes in the composition of the atmosphere. The active agent in these changes is thought to have been carbon dioxide. It has been shown that this gas possesses so great a power to retain solar heat that its addition to the extent of only one-tenth of 1 per cent of the present atmosphere would suffice to produce a tertiary climate and that taking away only one-fiftieth of 1 per cent from the present atmosphere would bring on glaciation. It has been conjectured that the fall of meteors was the source of the extra supply of carbon dioxide in former geological periods.

A Mediaeval Bill of Fare.

A fourteenth century manuscript still extant records the festivities attendant on the marriage of Violante Visconti with the Duke Lionel Plantagenet, son of Edward III. of England, at Milan, Italy. The wedding dinner consisted of eighteen courses, as follows: First course, sucking pigs wrapped in a thin coating of gold, fish with their mouths giving forth fire; second, hares roasted and gilded; third, veal roasted and trout incrustated in gold; fourth, quails, partridges and again trout, roasted and gilded; fifth, ducks, game and more fish; sixth, beef and capons unadorned; seventh, capons, meat and fish done in lemon; eighth, beef and fish of different kinds; ninth, eels and more meat; tenth, galantine of meat and fish; eleventh, lamb roasted; twelfth, hare and wild boar with onions; thirteenth, venison; fourteenth, capons and chickens with red sauce of apples and lemons; fifteenth, peacocks with beans, salted tongue and roasted carp; sixteenth, peacocks again, this time boiled in spices; seventeenth, cheese, and eighteenth, cherries.

Wit Used as an Ax.

An honest old Pennsylvania farmer had a tree on his premises he wanted to cut down, but being weak in his back and having a dull ax, he hit upon the following plan: Knowing the passion among his neighbors for coon hunting, he made a coon's foot out of a potato and proceeded to imprint numerous tracks in the snow to and up the tree. When all was ready, he informed his neighbors that the tree must be filled with coons, pointing to the external evidence made with his coon's foot. The bait took, and in a short time half a dozen fellows with sharp axes were chopping at the base of the tree, each taking his regular turn. The party also brought dogs and shotguns and were in ecstasies over the anticipated haul of fat coons. The tree finally fell, but nary a coon was seen to drop.—Germantown Telegraph.

Paraphrase of a Famous Joke.

Two attempts have been made by a contemporary to trace to its source a well known law courts joke. The first credited Sir Frank Lockwood with the jest; the second made the then Mr. Henry Hawkins its father. As a fact, the mot seems to have originated with the first Lord Chelmsford, then Frederick Thesiger. Sir Crosswell Crosswell was trying a case in which the name of a vessel was frequently introduced. When mentioned by Sergeant Channell, who was deficient in store of aspirates, the vessel was the Ellen; when alluded to by Thesiger she was the Helen. "Stop," cried Crosswell presently. "I have got on my notes the Ellen and the Helen. Which is it?" In his blindest tone Thesiger replied, "Oh, my lad, the vessel was christened the Helen, but she lost her h in the chops of the channel." The joke will be remembered against the victim long after other records of him are forgotten, which makes it worth while to note that the only education he ever received was at a poor private school, but that he raised himself to the bench by industry which would be the death of most men.—St. James's Gazette.

POLITICAL POT BOILS

Pacific County in Throes of Fierce Political Fight.

DIRECT PRIMARY AN ISSUE

P. A. Hazeltine of South Bend Sizes Up Situation—Hard Fight Made Against Renomination of State Senator Welsh.

P. A. Hazeltine, editor of the South Bend Journal, arrived in the city last evening from a tour of the south end of Pacific county in the interests of his paper. Mr. Hazeltine is a pioneer in the direct primary reform movement in Washington, is president of the county direct primary league, and one of the State committee named to draft the prepared law which will be submitted to the next legislature.

In that capacity he has found himself lined up against the renomination of state Senator Welsh, who is making a hard fight for a renomination. The South Bend Journal has opposed his renomination on the ground that he broke his pledge in the county platform, whereby he promised to vote for a railroad commission; that he disappointed his constituents in voting for Ankney, the Walla Walla banker, for U. S. senator, and that the state league claims him for its own, which the Journal asserts is proven by a secret letter to the saloonkeepers from said league, urging his renomination as beneficial to their interests.

Mr. Hazeltine in speaking of the present situation, and especially with reference to the direct primary law, said, "Whenever the principle of the direct primary is understood the sentiment of the plain people is for it in my county, and I have been pretty well all over it. Of course, many of the old politicians are opposed to it, but even they are beginning to jump into the 'band wagon,' and in my opinion the greater danger to our proposed reform measure lies with its false and new found friends. With every week the sentiment is becoming stronger and I question if Mr. Welsh will have much more than a 'look in' in the coming county convention."

Mr. Hazeltine stated that the same interests which were supporting Welsh were opposing Sheriff McDonald for renomination, because he has dared to enforce all laws as he found them, including the Sunday saloon law, and also for his protection of the Chinook fish traps from the assaults of the gill-netters.

According to Mr. Hazeltine there are three avowed candidates besides Welsh for renomination: Representative W. R. Williams, of Chinook; B. A. Seaborg, of Skamokawa, and Hon. J. G. Megler of Brookfield. J. W. Klebl of South Bend is another man being urged to make the run, but has never announced his candidacy. "Naturally," said Mr. Hazeltine, "Pacific County favors her own citizens in Williams and Klebl and either one would be preferred to Welsh."

"The county ticket depends largely upon the outcome of the contest for State senator, and there is a pretty divided line up for and against Welsh. J. E. Stout, the present deputy county treasurer, has a good chance of being treasurer, owing to his record for efficiency and accuracy. His opponent is William N. Akers, the present assessor. The county clerkship lies being O. C. Wilson and J. H. Dalton, while E. A. Seaborg, the present county clerk, is the popular candidate for county auditor. His opponent is W. W. Rounds of Lebanon, who started out as a candidate for sheriff, Mr. McDonald's job, but has since switched.

"P. W. Culver, the South Bend night marshal, is the opponent Mr. McDonald has been kept out of the scrimmage thus far, and lies between Principal Angus Jack of the Chinook school and Principal W. E. Greenway of the West Union schools.

"As the Republican majority is overwhelming in Pacific county, the coming primaries will largely settle the result at the polls, and as a consequence every Republican voter who wants to make his vote count, will take part in the primaries. Not a single Democrat has been mentioned for office thus far."

IT PAYS TO SHOP IN AUGUST

The time was when August was a less busy month. But nowadays with our decisive clearness of all summer merchandise and the continuous effort to keep every stock clean and fresh, August has become one of the busiest months. "As neat as a pin" means as much to the progressive and careful merchant as it does to the good housewife. The price reductions are the brooms, so to speak, which this store is now using to clear away all summer merchandise. Surely, August is a month of great savings.
