WEBER WAS WANTED.

trap was sprung, the physicians said one word: "Dead," and the spectators slowly filed from the death chamber.

It is known that Weber made two wills, but just what disposition he made of his estate cannot be ascertained at this time.

Weber's estate will not go over $15,000. Originally it was about $54,000, and not $74,000, as has been stated. May declared out of the estate approximately $20,000 had been expended in Weber's defense, and he had disposed of some for expenses of various kinds, reducing the estate to about $15,000.

Rev. J. T. Willis, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, of Sacramento, and Rev. Mr. Thomas, a Presbyterian clergyman of Fair Oaks, visited the prison this morning. They asked to see Weber, who sent word that he did not care to see them, but later changed his mind and greeted them cordially but said that he was not in need of spiritual solace.

On the night of November 10, 1904, the town of Auburn, Placer county, was aroused by an alarm of fire, caused by the burning of the residence of Julius Weber, a wealthy retired merchant. Firemen found all the gates and doors of the house barred. Inside the burning building were found the dead bodies of Mrs. Julius Weber, her daughter, Bertha, and little son, Earl. Two days later the body of Julius Weber was found. Mrs. Weber and Bertha had been shot, while Earl's death was caused by beating with a blunt instrument. Adolph was the only surviving member of the family and sole heir to its wealth.

MURDER NOT ENOUGH.

This promise seemed to satisfy Shepherd, who allowed Mrs. Zell to go outside the house. She immediately ran to a neighbor's and returned with assistance. When help arrived Shepherd was in the house whistling. He was placed under arrest and brought here. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that Shepherd murdered Zell, and he was held to the Circuit Court without bond.

Shepherd worked on ranches in this vicinity for a number of years and has heretofore borne a good reputation. He is 28 years old and his parents live on Bear Creek.

The murdered man was a son of Abraham Zell, a pioneer settler in this section, and was 40 years of age. He raised many cattle and was highly respected, having a large acquaintance-ship.

Mrs. Zell is a prepossessing woman of 30 years. She is stopping at a private house in this place and is almost in a state of collapse.

ARE GETTING LIBERAL.

Council of Ministers Favors Law Intended to Uplift Peasants.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27.—The council of ministers at its sittings on Saturday and Tuesday last, approved a measure introduced by the Minister of the Interior dealing with modifications of certain restrictions on peasants and others belonging to the "Tax-paying Classes," under the old regime, including inequalities in the matter of military service, obligatory exclusion from the peasant class on entering the civilian service and the acquisition of social rights, the withholding of personal freedom in the right to choose occupations, the right of free admission to secondary schools and the right to move to other parts of the country and possess property.

These modifications greatly better the formerly almost hopeless lot of the peasants. Heretofore they were dependent upon the communal laws, and were unable to leave their native villages and if allowed, were still bound to pay their share of the communal tax.

Opportunities for education, formerly restricted, allowing peasants to enter high schools and universities only upon receiving full freedom from communal obligations and entire abrogation of the payment of taxes, necessitating in most cases the payment of large sums of money representing a life share in community taxation are done away with.

The measure also abrogates the bureaucratic manner of repressions so much practiced, like the punishing of a whole community by exacting tributes for the misdeeds of one of its members.

Simultaneously with the modification of these restrictions it is proposed to abolish the poll tax from January 14, 1907, as well as the necessity for giving security for the payment of taxes. It was further decided that certain restrictions placed on peasants with reference to the holding of property should be modified as well as the regulations affecting the apportionment of peasants' land among the members of their families and the existing disability of a peasant possessing no real property to bind himself by note of hand.
