Distilling Company Wants to Organize
New Company to Manufacture Denatured Alcohol—Hence Stockholders Will Fight Move.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Dittenhoefer, Gerber, and James, acting as attorneys for stockholders in the distillers Securities Corporation, announced yesterday that their clients are about to enter protest against plans said to be under consideration by the management of the Distillers' Securities Corporation for the formation of a new company to develop the business of manufacturing denatured alcohol under the privileges accorded in the recent act by which the tax on denatured alcohol is to be removed after January 1 next. President Rice of the Distilling company, refused yesterday to affirm or deny the purpose of the management of the company in the matter. He said it was certain that nothing would be done detrimental to the interests of the stockholders.

According to the information said to have been obtained by the stockholders represented by Dittenhoefer, Gerber and James, it is the purpose of the distilling company management to form a new corporation, with $6,000,000 of preferred stock and $12,000,000 of common stock. The complaining stockholders purpose, they say, if their protest to the company is not heeded, to bring an action in the courts.

effect upon the national Democracy as there would have been had Mr. Hearst's victory been a clean-cut and straight-forward one.

Ten days ago there was hardly a dissent from the opinion that a Hearst victory in New York would be bound to color the next national Democratic platform. That possibility is now regarded as a thing of the past. Mr. Hearst's deal with Tammany and Mr. Bryan's revised attitude on government ownership having reduced the moral effect to the minimum. Should Mr. Hearst be elected governor and should his partnership with Tammany remain unbroken, he might be able, under the unit rule, to control the New York delegation to the national convention; but there is little likelihood that he and Tammany will continue to team together. Without Tammany he could not have been nominated for governor, and without Tammany he cannot capture the national convention delegation. Should Mr. Hearst be defeated in November, the incident of his nomination will have been forgotten by 1908.

Developments in Cuba, of course, have been the chief things of interest this week, even overshadowing the New York convention. Senator Beveridge's declaration that if the American flag goes up in Cuba it will not come down has been severely criticized in administration circles, not because of the truth of the prophecy is doubted, but because it was a bad time to tell the truth. No one denies that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft have tried sincerely and earnestly to settle the Cuban muddle without violating the sovereignty of the republic, but it is not generally believed their hearts were in the task. There is in Washington an overwhelming sentiment that Cuba would make a desirable possession of the United States, but that she will never be a desirable neighbor.

Should the United States announce its purpose to annex the island republic, the Cubans would have to be whipped, perhaps, but it is not doubted that eventually they would become loyal and desirable citizens. The people of Spanish descent in New Mexico and the Southwest, though clinging tenaciously to their old customs and the mother tongue, leave nothing to be desired in the matter of their Americanism. In many of the parishes of Louisiana, after a hundred years under the American flag, French is still the dominant language, but no one doubts the Americanism of those French descendants. If there is any reason why the Cubans should not do as well, it is not apparent at this time.

The political effect of intervention, with prospective annexation, furnishes an interesting theme for speculation. The prevailing opinion in Washington is that the country favors annexation, if it can be done without dishonor, but that it would not tolerate anything that smacked of a breach of faith. So far there have been only words of commendation for the manner in which Secretary Taft has managed the Cuban affair, but his job is a mighty ticklish one and there is ever present the possibility that he may do something that will blast his political prospects. If the American flag goes up in Cuba the manner of its going, of course, will be made the subject of debate in Congress next winter, and the President and Mr. Taft will have to show mighty clean hands if they escape Democratic denunciation.

ANOTHER REBELLION STARTED.

China to be Scene of Another Great Outbreak.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A cable dispatch from Cologne, Germany, printed here today, states that the Volizetz-tung publishes a letter from a correspondent in Shantung, China, predicting outbreaks, compared with which the disturbances that occurred in 1900 will seem trivial. He says there is strange unrest among the people. Trouble had already begun in Shantung where a rebellion has started. The revolutionaries are plundering villages and driving the people into the towns. Twenty thousand of these armed robbers are now at Tsianchufu. There have been many fights between them and the local troops. The latter are always beaten.

Another big shipment of the San Francisco earthquake books have just arrived at the Astorian office and are ready for subscribers. Come early and avoid the rush.

New Goods for the Coming Fall and Winter.

EVERY department at Simington's is now showing generous stocks of new seasons goods, and in several the lines are complete. Two features are always in evidence in goods at Simington's. The first is the quality—we will have none but the best the market affords. The other—style—is of equal importance, especially to our women customers. We look months ahead, keenly watching everything that will show the workings of Dame Fashion's mind. The result is that Simington's show correct and authoritative styles weeks before they are on display elsewhere. A case in point is our present splendid line of silks and dress goods. We have been showing the beautiful plaids that will be worn so extensively this fall for the past month. Visitors are always welcome at Simington's. Come in and look over the bright new goods.
