PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 9.—One of the big creameries announced an advance in first-grade butter this morning to 22¢.

This advance was made by one of the other concerns last week, but upon cream receipts picking up again, the price dropped back to 20¢.

It is now said by the creamery people making the change that stocks were running so low and a good active demand keeping up to capacity, together with a growing decrease in cream supplies, it is judged to be a good business move to put up their figures and that conditions taken all together justify the advance.
