Not Until the 29th—An error crept into these columns yesterday morning, when it was announced that Judge Thomas A. McBride would convene the circuit court here on Monday morning next. It should have read on Monday, the 29th instant, just one week later.

Wedded Yesterday—Yesterday afternoon, October 17, at 3 o'clock, in the parlors of the Oriol House, Rev. Seymour Short, rector of Grace Episcopal church, solemnized the wedding of Mr. Carl Johnson of this city, and Miss Emma Coffey, of Svensen.

Friendly Surprise—The Ladies of the Grand Army, in regular convention at their Bond street hall last evening, were happily surprised by a beautiful lunch of coffee and cake delfly thrust upon them by Mesdames W. C. Shaw and A. A. Douglas; and it is needless to say was enjoyed to its uttermost "bite and sup."

Nelson-Britt in Astoria—A spirited set of films, illustrating every phase of the Nelson-Britt mill at Mayfield, is now on at the Waldorf and drawing great crowds nightly. The pictures are clear and perfect in detail and realistic to the point of assurance that one is witnessing the original scrap. No finer moving pictures were ever brought to Astoria.

Weather Does Not Count—No amount of bad weather can interfere with the happy purposes of the Astoria young people who have made up their minds to enter the realms of marriage, and in this behalf there were two licenses issued yesterday by County Clerk Clinton, one to Mr. Carl R. Short, of Portland, and Miss Bertha Veersteeg, of Seaside; and the other to Mr. Carl Johnson of this city, and Miss Emma Coffey, of Svensen.

"Jack" and His Tumor—G. C. Fulton, of this city, is the owner of a fine, blooded pointer, "Jack" by name, and the dog has been incapacitated from hunting during the present season, by reason of an extraneous growth in his right flank, much to his, and his master's discomfort. Yesterday afternoon Dr. J. A. Fulton went to the Llewellyn kennels where "Jack" has been rusticated for several days, and performed an operation on him, removing a two-and-a-half-pound tumor from his side, and now the animal is getting along finely. He will pay the doctor's fee in pheasants later on. Talking about this operation on "Jack" suggests the further fact that the necessity for an "operating table" at his kennels has so impressed Ed. Llewellyn that he has framed one up, and has it arranged for regular business, with straps, bandages, tools, blood-gutters and all the necessary paraphernalia and it will be put in service whenever occasion requires. He finished it yesterday and strapped Billy Hume's "Squidge" on it just to see how it would look "in action," and Charles A. Coolidge, who happened to be there, with a camera, snapped the whole affair and got a fine picture of the gruesome establishment.

For Twenty Thousand and Costs—A suit was filed in the circuit court of Clatsop county yesterday by Attorney A. M. Smith, of this city, in behalf of Lewis D. Heaton, as against the Oregon Timber & Lumber company, at Clifton, for compensation for damages, in the sum of $20,000 and the costs of the action. Heaton alleges that he is incapacitated for life by reason of his obedience to orders received, while serving that company as a section foreman, on its logging railroad near Clifton, in September, 1905, by driving a motor section-car over the railway line, after night-fall and crashing into a line of logging-cars left on the open railway, without lights or signals of any kind, to warn anyone of their proximity. He broke his leg and was tor and lacerated and rendered helpless for life by the accident which, it is claimed, was wholly chargeable to the neglect of the defendant company.

Bowling Contest—The first of a series of bowling games between Mack Swain and Peter Gevurtz was pulled off at the Wigwam at 4 p. m. yesterday, and according to eye witnesses resulted in a score of 118 to 7, in favor of Swain and the huge amusement of the spectators, who were enthusiastic. Mr. Gevurtz was handicapped by his disinclination to let go of the ball when throwing it, while Mr. Swain's efforts led the alley boy to demand a battle ship turret at his end of the house. Experts will determine the amount of damage done to the building, while the owner of the remnants of paraphernalia will endeavor to get a rebate on his license. Owing to Mr. Swain's size it will be impossible to prevent the second game of the series to be played today at 3 p. m.

Practice Game Tonight—The Astoria football team is in prime fettle for its Saturday engagement on the Eugene gridiron and will indulge in its final practice game this evening on the A. F. C. grounds, and all who desire to see it are welcome. The boys will leave for Eugene tomorrow evening and will go prepared for a battle-royal and conspicuous victory. Manager R. E. Elvers of the new Astoria theater, evinces his public spirit by assuring the boys that on their return from the game, winners or losers, he will reserve a couple of boxes for the team on Sunday evening next when the "College Widow" occupies the boards at that popular house.

Fifty Initiates—There was something doing at Astoria Court, No. 8, Foresters of America, last night, when the local officers, aided and abetted by A. Brauer, G. T. S., F. T. Bourgeois, J. P. G. C. R., and A. B. Dalgity, G. C. R., of the grand court staff, initiated an even fifty of Astoria's innocent citizens. They will impress twenty-five more at the next regular meeting, and no limitations have been set beyond that. There was any amount of fun along with the serious and beautiful work of the ritual, and it may be said, in passing, that the local court is progressing most satisfactorily.

Well Known in Astoria—Little Bertha Hahn, the child who was burned so badly in Colville, Washington, six weeks ago, that she died on Tuesday last, was well known in this city where she visited with her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Hahn, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bergman, last spring, and by her beauty and intelligence won many friends, who deeply sympathize with the stricken mother in her terrible bereavement.

Notice—The Municipal League will meet tonight at 7:30 in the police court room, city hall. H. M. LORNTSEN, President.
