THE POPULAR PATIENCE.

The press of Europe is a unit in the conclusion that the result of the recent elections in the United States is a manifest expression of the growing hatred of the American people for the exactions of the trusts. The American press is hardly as candid, and it knows the truth far more intimately, in this regard, than any foreign journal can possibly know it. We believe the defuctions from abroad are correct, and wholly patent to the real situation. We are, as a people, infinitely patient and abide religiously by our faith in the timely adjustment of all popular wrongs; but it is significant only of the power that lies behind repression, and is in no wise a deliberate, or cowardly concession to admittedly irremediable abuses. Whenever the patience of the people shall be exhausted, and the hour arthere will be instant and comprehensive remedies invoked that will clear up the situation in a fashion that will test. The concern, or combination of rying off the beauty honors. concerns, that reckons without this ultimate, is foolhardy indeed, and we doubt if there is a magnate in the country who does not know, in his heart, that the day is to come when the spirit of America will confront him with an inexorable demand for surcease and compensation, and that he must answer by the laying down of his tremendous advantages. It is this very knowledge and the correlative ignorance of when that hour is to come that is responsible for the vast and universal greed now inspiring the commercial accumulations of the day.

ROOSEVELT AT PANAMA.

The tremendous enterprise on the isthmus will lose nothing by the visit of President Roosevelt. He is the one man who should know all about the great project, for that knowledge will be invaluable to the country as the work progresses and the inevitable difficulties arise. That he shall be in a position to cope with all emergencies, lends the assurance of comfort and ultimate success that attaches to everything the man handles. It goes without saying that he will inform himself of the last detail of the work. the plan of operations and the clientelle, high and low, in charge of the immense proposition and will have a masterly idea of all the potentialities and be in touch with the last item in the undertaking, so that when Congress or the people, want to know "what's what," they will get it un-Mr. Roosevelt shall succeed himself only difference is that it is easy to in the presidency, for, of all men, he interest most persons in their immeis the best equipped on all the great diate concerns, while men often overquestions before the nation, to solve look the fact that their material welthe incidental problems inherent in fare is inseparable from the general them and give definite and wise im- well-being of a town.
