AN ASTORIAN TALKS OF KLAMATH

R. SHORE SMITH GIVES AN INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF HIS RECENT VISIT THERE AND WHAT HE FOUND OUT.

A reporter for the Morning Astorian dropped in on Attorney Richard Shore Smith yesterday to greet him on his safe return from his month's stay in the great Klamath country, and, incidentally, to find out what he had to say of that "neck o' the woods." Mr. Smith was very responsive on the subject and seems thoroughly well disposed toward the Klamath town and country. Among other things in this behalf, he said:

"My recent visit to Klamath Falls was the first protracted stay I have made there for the past ten years; I have been in that section several times but only for a day or two at a time. As you know, I lived there for years and have property interests both in the town and outside it, but please understand that anything I may say takes no color from my possessions there.

"I found the town I had left two years ago with about 600 souls the maximum of its population, with from 2,000 to 2,500 people there, and all busy and apparently happy and satisfied. The country is, as you may know, a frontier district, primarily, and a good deal of the frontier spirit is in evidence there on all sides, but the elements of modernity are forcing their way in there rapidly and one is amazed to find how many palpable manifestations it is making already.

"There are at the present moment 7 brick or stone buildings going up there, each and all equipped with the best and latest appliances for comfort and service, and these are all on the main street of the place, and there is no telling how many smaller structures are underway in the suburbs. The town has three banks, any one of which would be a credit to a vastly larger place, even a place of 25,000 people. One of them, the Klamath County Bank, has deposits of over one million and the others are in flourishing shape.

"The irrigation project of the government in the Klamath basin involves 350,000 acres, and seventeen miles of the ditch are now completed. It is the purpose of the government to furnish water on all this land at a cost of $2 per acre per annum for a period of ten years, after which (the cost of construction having been thus paid) the project will be turned over to the people of the country owning the land under the ditch service, and the subsequent cost of the water will be comprehended in the maintenance of the ditch, which will reduce it to a minimum.

"The principal products of the country are grain and alfalfa hay; the grain averages a yield of fifty bushels per acre on the watered lands, and the hay will turn out five tons to the acre; the grain commands 70 cents at the home market and the alfalfa nets an average of $7 per ton. There is a vast amount of lumber in the country, consisting chiefly of sugar-pine, yellow-pine and some fir, and there are two fine mills now doing business at the Falls, with all modern advantages and of huge capacity.

"The stock business has received an immense impetus lately and is steadily increasing. Beef sells there for 5 1/2 cents on the hoof and four thousand head were sold while I was in the country. Some of it will have to be fed and held there for the spring market. Good draught horses, weighing in the neighborhood of 1,300 pounds, bring easily from $100 to $175 per head; and brood mares, weighing from 1,400 to 1,600, go at from $150 to $250; two-year-old mules command $90 flat, and several carloads, 100 head in all, were shipped out of there while I was on the ground.

"The choice timber of the country is being rapidly acquired by the Weyerhaeuser interests and they will soon command the best of it; but they will mill it and market it out of there, so the community will lose nothing along that line, as this concern has immense interests and many people there.

"The Southern Pacific company has thirty-five miles of its new rail line completed and there is service on it now. The company has 600 men at work steadily on the construction out of Weed, and by the coming fall hopes to have the road in Klamath Falls; this road will be the main line of the S. P. when it is finished, and will supplant the old Siskiyou division, and cut out that enormous and costly haul, going down the McKenzie river into Natron and across eastern Oregon, through Harney and Klamath counties and ultimately making a terminal on Coos Bay.

"There is any amount of outside capital drifting into Klamath from all directions and is to be employed in a myriad of enterprises that promise much in the way of quick and legitimate returns. It is a compensating place, is Klamath, and public spirit is as pronounced there as in private push. The town has a splendid school system and lacks for nothing in the way of up-to-date street cars, water system of the best as to water and its disposal throughout the city and society is carefully balanced by the presence of a number of flourishing churches and ethical societies. The town is on a magnificent site, and altogether, has an infinite variety of commendable and satisfactory points to invite the home-maker and the commercial genius to locate there.

"I enjoyed my outing to the last hour of it, and had some lovely hunting to add to my joy. Any sort of a hunter can kill all the ducks he can carry in an hour or two, any day in the season, and I happened to be there at the propitious moment."

MACK SWAIN CHANGES.

Patrons of the "Star" last evening were treated to a piece of sensational melo-drama neither on nor in the play. During the third act of "The Senator's Daughter" the respective managements clashed as to the continuance of the present contract between them.

As a result of a most sensational discussion between the heads of the contending interests a most sensational announcement was made by the representative of Mr. Swain in which the public learned that the Swain company will open at the Astoria theater Monday night next. The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Swain have returned and will appear in the opening bill "When Women Love" and that this new and popular theater is now fully equipped with upholstered seats will undoubtedly attract the large and enthusiastic attendance that has characterized all of the Swain productions in this city. The prices will remain the same and the reserve sale the same hours.

Grand Lodge—The grand lodge of the Finnish Brotherhood will convene in this city one week from today. Delegates will be present from California, Washington, Montana and Oregon, and it is expected several prominent members from the east will also attend. There will be nearly 100 delegates present, including those from Astoria.

COMMITTEE PLEASUR BOUND FOR PANAMA

Congressional Committee Close Their Headquarters.

President Roosevelt Heard From By Secretary Loeb.

PRESIDENTS POLICY APPROVED

HAVING PLEASANT VOYAGE

Republicans Will Have a Majority of Fifty-eight in the Lower House of Congress, Which Indicates Prosperity.

Secretary Loeb Will Receive One Message a Day from the President and Will Keep Him Informed Daily.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Republican congressional committee closed their headquarters here today. Before Mr. Sherman left for his home in Utica tonight, he said: "The result of the congressional campaign throughout the country is exceedingly gratifying to this committee. The sixtieth congress will be Republican by a majority of fifty-eight. The result shows that the people emphatically endorse the administration of President Roosevelt and approve the work done at the first session of the fifty-ninth congress.

"It shows that the people desire a continuance of prosperity and shows their belief that the prosperity can be depended upon under the Republican administration and belief that it would disappear under Democratic rule. The election means great economic and financial tenets of Republicanism are still approved by the Americans."

NOMINATED FOR COUNCILMAN.

Citizens of the Third Ward Petition L. O. Belland to Be a Candidate.

The following petition was presented to L. O. Belland yesterday and will be filed with the auditor today:

IN THE CITY THEATERS.

Realizing that there is a demand for good, clean comedy from all theatergoers, this part of the production of "As Told in the Hills" has been made an important feature. There are a number of clever specialties introduced by members of the cast who have established reputations in vaudeville as well as in the legitimate. At the new Astoria Theater tonight.

MACK SWAIN THEATER CO.

"The Senator's Daughter" was repeated at the Star theater last night, and gave universal satisfaction; it is an excellent play, admirably presented. This afternoon the company will present "The Man Outside," and "The Senator's Daughter" will be repeated tonight and at both performances tomorrow. On Monday, Cora King Swain and Mack Swain, supported by the entire company, will appear in "When Women Love," a sensational comedy-drama, in four acts.

ALWAYS WAS SICK.

"When a man says he is always sick, troubled with a cough that lasted all winter—what would you think if he should say—he never was sick since using Ballard's Horehound Syrup.

Such a man exists: Mr. J. C. Clark, Denver, Colorado, writes: "For years I was troubled with a severe cough that would last all winter. This cough left me in a miserable condition. I tried Ballard's Horehound Syrup and have not had a sick day since. That's what it did for me." Hart's Drug Store.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Advice received at Washington today show that the President is on his way to the Isthmus of Panama. Captain Couden, commanding the battleship Louisiana, telegraphed Secretary Loeb as follows:

"At noon the Louisiana passed Cape Hatteras. The sea is smooth. All well."

Secretary Loeb expects to receive but one message a day from the President, unless circumstances intervene which may require more frequent communications. Small bulletins, conveying the important events of each day will be made up in Washington and sent to the President by wireless telegraph, so he may be accurately and constantly informed of what is transpiring in the United States.
