CAUGHT ON A SHAFT AND SMASHED

JOHN NAGLE, A PARKER HOUSE EMPLOYE, MEETS WITH TERRIBLE ACCIDENT AT ASTORIA BOX C'S MILL YESTERDAY.

Yesterday morning early, John Nagle, an employe of the Parker House, in company with Thomas Deakin, the night clerk of that hostelry, started for the Astoria Box Company's mill for a load of sawdust for use in the hotel. On arrival at the mill, it was found necessary to go under the plant to get the sawdust, and shouldering their bags in which to pack the stuff, they went beneath the humming factory to the source of supply.

This territory under the mills is equipped with all manner of shafting, belts and pulley and the engineer in charge warned the two men to use care in their movements around the whirling mechanism, and Mr Deakin, who had often been there before on similar quests, also warned young Nagle of the danger of getting too close to any of the flying machinery.

But, apparently unmindful of the counsel he had received, Nagle deliberately stepped over a rapidly revolving shaft, and his long and flowing overcoat was caught in the set-screws on it, and the young man was whirled under and over the steel bar until that was not a shred of his ampler garments left whole upon him, and the awful smashing that accompanied his contact with the shaft resulted in his left fore-arm being terribly mangled and broken; his right arm literally pulled from his body, necessitating amputation just below the shoulder; both legs being broken at the thighs, a fearful gash cut in his head and his body charged with a multitude of minor bruises and abrasions. The machinery was stopped as soon as possible and the unfortunate young man instantly sent to St. Mary's hospital, where Dr. A. A. Finch assumed charge of his terrible case and did all that lay in his power to have the sufferer.

When seen after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Dr. Finch said there was yet good hope for the young man and he was doing finely under the extraordinary circumstances; that Nagle was then entirely conscious and standing the tremendous strain well, far better than he had thought it possible.

Nagle came to this city about three weeks ago, and stopped at the Parker House, and while a guest there, he sought Captain Parker to give him work. This was done and he was placed in charge of the hotel hack, among other duties, all of which he performed with sobriety and good faith, but not with any great amount of adeptness; and he was regarded as a young man of excellent habits.

He is the son of E. T. Nagle, of Sacramento, Calif., and has a sister living in Portland, all of whom have been communicated with in behalf of their wretched kinsmen, and it is expected some of them will be here in a day or two to take charge of his case, and, it is hoped, help him to convalescence and safety.

Mr. Nagle died last night at 12 o'clock, but was conscious up to the time of his death.

Another Fancy String—The management of the Waldorf Concert hall has put on another funny and realistic string of moving pictures, probably the best of the season, in which the substance of the fun is drawn from the freaks of luck, good and bad, that pursue a handsome couple just after their wedding and in which a wedding breakfast in the park is spoiled by the jealousy of the groom at the kissing of his wife by an old friend; the wedding trip on bicycles, with more falls than progress; the ride on the Merry-Go-Round and its attendant adventures; the dance on the green and its mix-up; a donkey-ride with a hundred crises; the boat-ride, the up-set and the drying out by the bon-fire. A splendid finale is furnished by Miss Violet Parker, who renders with brilliant effect the new and dainty ballad, "Somebody is Waiting for You." The entertainment is immensely funny and engaging from start to finish.

Stephenson-Fishborn—The wedding of William A. Fishborn of Portland and Miss Stella Stephenson of Astoria was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, at No. 102 Bond street, Rev. W. S. Gilbert officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Fishborn left on last evening's express for their future home in Portland.

Some Fine Specimens—H. P. Ahlberg, the well known Lewis & Clark farmer, was in the city yesterday on business, and brought with him some splendid samples of corn he has just garnered out there. He got the seed three years ago, from the East, and it is of the most northerly-growing variety, yielding 31 bushels to a plot of 70 square rods, in the cob and 60 pounds to the bushel. It was husked on the 21st of October, and the nibbings were left out a solid month during the heavy rains, and were found to be prime and hard. He will use it in silo this season, but expects to use it for staple feed next year.

Made Examination—R. Parry Jones of Cleveland, Ohio, special officer of the London Salvage Association, arrived in the city this week and yesterday made an examination of the bark Peter Iredale. He found the vessel listed to port, several beams broken and deck plates bulged. He expresses the opinion that the vessel can be saved, but doubts the expediency of attempting to float her on account of high wages and lack of necessary appliances. He made out his report last evening and forwarded it to Lloyds' agency in London, and will await instructions before making any attempt to float the vessel.

Ordinances Approved—Yesterday Mayor Herman Wise approved all the ordinances passed at the last session of the common council and affixed his signature to all warrants drawn. A remonstrance was filed objecting to the acceptance of the improvement, and Mayor Wise desires to investigate the matter more fully before signing the ordinance.

He has plenty of friends in Astoria to wish, and aid him, to an abundant success in his new venture.
