ters, with about twenty-five members in attendance, James Welch presiding, and Secretary Chas. R. Higgins having charge of the business detail.

The secretary presented a mass of communications gathered during the interim between the deferred meetings of the chamber and this was duly considered and passed up to the various committees to whom it properly belonged, and will be reported upon in due course.

This being the first meeting for the year, under the rules of the chamber, the annual election of officers was the principal feature of the session, and resulted as follows:

President—James W. Welch.
Vice president—Frank L. Parker.
Treasurer—G. W. Lounsbury.

Mr. Higgins was constrained to decline further nomination and election to the secretaryship and the matter was deferred until the next meeting of the chamber.

The committee on compilation and statistics submitted a review of its work in behalf of the projected folder to be put out by the chamber of commerce, and a further report was called for from the same committee, in due time, and upon the matter of inviting proposals for publishing said folder and the cost thereof.

A special committee of three, consisting of Messrs. John Gratke, Brennam Van Dusen and F. L. Parker, was appointed to meet and confer with all the civic clubs and organizations of the city, with a view to unifying the work of the segregated bodies, and amplifying the results to the community, for a combined effort to push the city forward and take the best advantage of her commercial prospects. And the secretary was requested to address communications to the said several clubs asking that committees be at once appointed to meet the gentlemen from the chamber of commerce in formulating this task, and in the further matter of employing a capable man to take charge of the enlarged scope of the civic work. Friday, January 18, was the day set for the meeting of these various bodies, at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. Adjournment was then taken until the meeting in course.

DISABLED SHIP SIGHTED

May Have Been Long Overdue Two Masted Steamer Ponce.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A Philadelphia dispatch to the Herald says a two-masted steamship which may have been the long overdue steamship Ponce, was sighted Saturday afternoon with her machinery disabled, by the steamship Admiral Farragut, which has arrived at Philadelphia from Port Antonio. It was just after 1 o'clock when Captain Mader's attention was called to the craft which was yawing in the seas, with a prominent flying from her mast showing two black balls, a signal that the ship was not under control. Notwithstanding her signal, when Captain Mader veered in his course and bore toward the disabled ship, signalling to know if he might lend assistance, the signals indicated that no help was needed. At this report, the Farragut, having on board a perishable cargo, proceeded on her way to this port. Although answering the description of the Ponce, the vessel was, in the opinion of Captain Mader, of English build. When she was sighted she was 200 miles off the Delaware Capes.

EXCITING VOYAGE.

Steamer Kyfels Has No Lack of Interesting Events.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The steamer Kyfels which arrived here yesterday from Calcutta, had a series of accidents on the way, ending in a small fire while she lay off Quarantine being fumigated. She sailed from Calcutta on November 3 and two days later the second officer was attacked by a big cobra that had got aboard in some unknown way while the ship was being loaded.

Three times the snake coiled and sprang at the man but he finally shot it with his revolver. Two days after passing Gibraltar, on December 13 about midnight, two huge meteors fell into the sea. The second officer, who was on the bridge at the time, says the stones fell so near to the ship that hot water they knocked out of the sea came aboard in torrents. Mahood Benzali one of the sailors was so badly scared by the meteors he dropped dead from heart disease.

TRUMPS NO MORE.

Noted Female Whist Player Renounces Cards for Religion.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Des Moines, Iowa, says: Before a congregation of nearly a thousand persons and while the preacher was in the midst of his sermon, Mrs. A. B. Sims, a society woman and holder of the National Woman's Whist championship, arose yesterday in the University Church of Christ, and denounced card playing as a sin. Two years ago Mrs. Sims won the first prize for women in the whist tournament held at Cleveland. Last year at St. Louis she won the National Woman's championship. It is said that recent evangelical meetings held in the city are responsible for the change in Mrs. Sims' ideas.

CHANGES IN COMPANIES.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—M. E. Eppenstein, of the New York Life Agency directors, has resigned from that company to become a director of the New York American Life. There will be a meeting of the incorporators of this company today to elect directors, appoint officers and discuss details of organization. Mr. Eppenstein was director of the New York Life's Grand street branch and last year, despite the insurance depression, was more than $160,000 ahead of his 1905 record of paid-for business. It is said that Mr. Eppenstein is slated for a high executive office in the new concern.

IN FINAL REST.

Death of Mrs. C. Whitefield Rogers Occurs at the Family Home.

The Astorian is called upon to mournful event in the history of the city, in announcing the death on Sunday last, at 10:30 o'clock, at the family home, of Mrs. C. Whitefield Rogers, wife of Charles Rogers, the well known druggist of this city.

Her demise was due to a third paralytic attack from which it proved impossible to rally her, the two previous ones being but recently in evidence, but happily not beyond control. She died at the age of 62 years and leaves a host of friends to mourn her.

The deceased lady was a native of Yonkers, New York, and began her happy wedded life in San Francisco about 21 years ago. She had dwelt in this city for the past 16 years and was widely known and loved for her many womanly virtues, and those who are left in sorrow of this event have the warmest sympathy of the entire community, especially the bereaved husband, who above all others, loses most dearly and largely.

Mrs. Edith Whitefield, the sister of Mrs. Rogers, was with her during her recent illness, and gave devoted and tender ministrations at all times in mitigation of the sufferings she underwent. A brother, dwelling in Minniscott, is also left in the mourning circle, with one son, Charles Lawrence Rogers.

The remains will be taken to Portland on this morning's express, and will be given over to sepulture under the beautiful ritual of the Episcopal church, Rev. W. Seymour Short, rector of Grace church in this city, officiating; after which the body will be cremated at the expressed wish of the decedent.

"VIRGINIA" BEST YET. AT THE STAR.

The best attraction ever seen at Astoria at popular prices is now being played by "Eckhardt's Ideals" and will continue until Friday night, in place of Thursday evening, as heretofore. "Virginia" is a beautiful southern play in five acts and the comedy is of the good, wholesome kind that one always appreciates.

The characters are all well played. Mr. Oliver J. Eckhardt as "Joe," the half-witted boy, is to be congratulated on his splendid work.

Miss Laura Heimlich as Joe's little blind sister, was beautifully portrayed and brought the tears to the eyes of many of her listeners.

Mr. Montgomery as the hard-hearted miser, was well hissed throughout the play. Miss Georgia Nichols, who plays the feminine heavy role, was as usual up to the standard of her excellent work.

Last, but not least, comes Mr. Frank Howard, one of Mr. Eckhardt's old actors, who was confined with a severe attack of heart trouble for the last three weeks, was seen last night for the first time as Dinah, the colored servant, and created much laughter during the performance. Mr. Howard also surprised the audience with his clever dancing and singing between the third and fourth acts.

"Virginia" is a good play, indeed, and the Morning Astorian correspondent, heard only words of appreciation as the well pleased audience filed out of the doors.

Next attraction, commencing Friday, with regular matinees Saturday and Sunday, "A Gambler's Wife" will be offered.
