DELMAS IS SUBTLE

FLAYS EVELYN'S MOTHER

Flatly Accuses Hummel Of Committing Perjury On Witness Stand Jury Ordered Confined And Given Time To Arrange Business Affairs.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Delpain M. Delmas, leading counsel for Harry K. Thaw will finish his address to the jury in Thaw's defense today. It is expected that he will conclude half of his address before the court takes its luncheon recess. Then there will remain nothing more but District Attorney Jerome's address to the jury and Justice Fitzgerald's charge. The case should surely go to the jury by Thursday, and the probability is that it will be submitted to them Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Delmas spoke for two hours and a half yesterday, reviewing the evidence and putting upon it the defense's construction. He had practically finished with this portion of his address when court adjourned last night and today he will begin with his real argument. So far he has not mentioned the subject of insanity, but has devoted himself entirely to an attempt to show that the evidence proves that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw told the truth on the stand when she told the story to Harry K. Thaw in Paris, in 1903, and that the story was true. He also took occasion to denounce Abraham H. Hummel of committing perjury on the witness stand and waxed eloquent when detailing the debarred attorney's record.

Today Mr. Delmas will get down to the actual story of the shooting and will argue that Thaw was insane at the time of the shooting. Yesterday calling her one of the bravest and truest women the world had ever seen, and flayed Stanford White mercilessly. He has made known his intention of not bringing into the case the "Unwritten law," but his argument so far has been almost altogether along that line. When Mr. Delmas finishes his argument today Court will be adjourned until tomorrow morning when Mr. Jerome will begin his summing up. He expects to finish in three or four hours and if he does it is probable that Justice Fitzgerald will charge the jury at once. The jury has been ordered confined until they are discharged and it is not probable that the judge will keep them confined longer than is necessary.

That every possible effort will be made to secure a verdict goes without saying. The case has been the longest and most expensive murder trial ever held in New York and Justice Fitzgerald will not allow the jury to go until there is absolutely no chance of agreement. Even if they do report that they cannot agree, as those who have been following the trial closely confidently believe, it is probable that Justice Fitzgerald will send them back to the jury room and keep them there until the last hope of an agreement is gone.

VAN DUSEN SECURE

H. A. Webster Who Sought Van Dusen's Office Is Out.

KNOCKER AND INATTENTIVE

Board Of Fish Commissioners Uphold Van Dusen And Appoint Frank C. Brown Of Ontario To Succeed Webster—Fish Warden's Report.

SALEM, Or., April 9.—Upon complaint of Master Fish Warden H. G. Van Dusen, the State Board of Fish Commissioners yesterday afternoon voted to retire H. A. Webster, of Oregon City, from the office of Deputy Fish Warden and appointed in his place Frank C. Brown, of Ontario, formerly a resident of Oregon City. While this change cannot be regarded as an assurance of the re-election of Mr. Van Dusen to his present office, it may be said to strengthen his chance of retention in the light of present chaotic conditions.

Mr. Van Dusen's principal complaint against Webster was that he put in the major portion of his time "knocking" and paid little attention to the performance of his official duties, and the board in making the change took the view that, inasmuch as the Fish Warden is held responsible for the proper observance of the law governing the fish industry and protection of the fish during the closed season, strict harmony should prevail between himself and his deputies. It appears that nothing but discord had existed between Messrs. Van Dusen and Webster for several months past, and in retiring the deputy the board takes the position of upholding the authority and respect due the superior official.

For many months there have been half-confirmed rumors that Mr. Van Dusen would be retired from the office of Master Fish Warden at the close of his present term, but the longer the election is delayed the more remote seems the possibility of any change. Deputy Webster has been recognized as Mr. Van Dusen's strongest opponent for the job, and while his removal from the deputyship does not necessarily destroy his chances to succeed to the higher office, it relegates him somewhat to the background. One of Mr. Van Dusen's chief causes for complaint against Mr. Webster was the charge that he was putting in his time lobbying for the Master Warden's job during the Legislature, where he should have been attending to subordinate duties at his post.

If it should come to a vote upon a successor to Mr. Van Dusen at present even if Secretary of State Benson were here, it would be pretty certain to result in a deadlock, and Mr. Van Dusen would hold his job indefinitely. Before leaving for California, Secretary Benson said he had no choice among the candidates. State Treasurer Steel is pledged to support Representative J. U. Campbell, of Oregon City, for the job while Governor Chamberlain will stand by his announced policy of retaining incumbents where the services have been satisfactory, and would vote for the retention of Mr. Van Dusen.

The following is a synopsis of the Fish Warden's report for March:

The following arrests and prosecutions were made by Water Bailiff Mock.

J. J. Braim convicted and fined $20 and costs for having small sturgeon in his possession. Charles Farris, manager of the Wilson, case Lumber Company fined $50 and costs for allowing saw dust to pollute one of the tributaries of the Columbia. William Tichenor, manager of the Tichenor Lumber Company was given a like fine for a similar offense. John Ingalls manager for the Oregon Lumber Company paid $50 and costs for the sawdust offense.

Two gasoline patrol boats were maintained through aid given by the packers of the lower river and found but three violations of the spring-closed season period. One set net in the slough above Svenson; one in Young's river and another in the Clackamas River.

A very flattering report was made from the following hatchery stations: McKenzie River, Salmon River, Walla Walla River, Ontario, Umpqua, Tillamook Sluiceway, Coos Bay and the Coquille River Hatchery. Several million fry were liberated from these various stations in good and healthy condition.

An effort is to be made to hold a supply of Spring Chinook Salmon in the Clackamas River below the Cazadero Dam for spawning purposes. The United States Bureau of Fisheries have charge of this work but have neglected it for the past two years and Master Warden Van Dusen will undertake the work this year.

The Fish Warden also contracted for a gasoline patrol boat to be built by R. M. Leathers on the following dimensions, length 32 feet, 8 foot beam and a 3 foot depth. To be equipped with a 15 horsepower, 3 cylinder Troyer engine and a removable house 6

The total receipts from fines and penalties amounted to $100.52.

The disbursements were as follows, $2198.51 against Hatchery Fund District No. 1; $327, against Hatchery Fund District No. 2; and $963.57, Special Appropriation for the Salary and Expenses of Master Fish Warden. Making a total of $3489.25.

VESEVIUS ANNIVERSARY.

Celebrated by Processions, Feasts Two Harmless Earthquakes.

Rome, April 9.—The anniversary of the disastrous eruption of Mount Vesuvius last year was marked yesterday by two harmless earthquakes in Calabria and huge religious ceremonies in the towns around the volcano. The famous statue of the Madonna, believed by the people to have sweated during the calamity, was carried about by the local clergy and authorities, and was followed by thousands of worshippers.

The processional feast at Nocera Inferiore, ended in a riot, caused, it is said, by excitement over a report that another statue of the Madonna was opening and shutting its eyes.

Police had to quell the disturbance.
