ITEM OF NEWS FROM WARRENTON

DAILY NEWS LETTER FROM THE WEST SIDE METROPOLIS—ODDS AND ENDS OF INTELLIGENCE THERE.

WARRENTON, April 10.—D. M. Stewart, the real estate man, is here, evidently there is something doing in his line, around this vicinity.

Lou Campbell, of Rainier, Oregon, arrived in town today.

Those persons who do not wish to pay their poll-tax this month, will do well to avoid meeting Marshall Erickson, for he is on the war path.

A number of enterprising and musically inclined, male citizens are attempting to form a brass band. They are at present looking for a capable instructor. Should they succeed in their quest, the necessary instruments will be purchased and operations commenced.

Scarcely a week passes but something occurs to prove the prosperity which our residents enjoy. The proof forthcoming on this occasion, is the number of Graphophones purchased from an agent who stayed in Warrenton for a few days this month. At almost every house there can be found a graphophone, the prices varying from thirty five dollars to seventy-five dollars.

A representative of a Piano house, who accompanied the graphophone agent, was also successful in making several sales of pianos.

These agents displayed their stock at the Warrenton Hotel, and Abbott's billiard parlors.

A graphophone record exchange will probably be instituted in the near future.

EDWARD AND ALFONSO.

Propose Toasts and Soft Soap Each Other at Banquet.

CARTAGENA, Spain, April 10.—King Alfonso, at the banquet in honor of King Edward, in proposing a toast to the British monarch and Queen Alexandra, said that the whole Spanish nation, had deep pleasure in receiving their majesties. The good relations existing between the two countries could only be of mutual advantage and would contribute towards the task of King Edward of strengthening peace and harmony between all states.

King Edward in responding, in his own name and that of the Queen, thanked Alfonso for his felicitous greeting. He deeply regretted the absence of Queen Victoria but was rejoiced at the reason which detained her at Madrid. "We reciprocate the desire that the relations between our two countries, which have founded not only on historical traditions, but also on community of interests, may be strengthened and drawn closer together by these happy events," said King Edward.

Then raising his glass he proposed a toast to the Spanish Royal family, and wished prosperity, peace and progress to the Kingdom of Spain.

BIG LEAGUES.

Exhibition Games Between Leagues National League Won.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The baseball teams of the National League won a majority of this Spring's exhibition games with their rivals of the American League. The representatives of the older organization was successful in 13 out of 22 games played. The failure of the Athletics of Philadelphia, to hold their own with the Philadelphia Nationals was chiefly responsible for the American League losing the series. The Philadelphia Nationals won four straight from the Athletics, wherein all the other series it was a much more even battle. The St. Louis Nationals won four out of seven from the Americans; the New York Nationals and Athletics split even with one victory each; the St. Louis Nationals took two games out of three from the Washingtons; the Boston Americans took two out of three games from the Cincinnati and the Clevelanders won the game from the Cincinnati.

The National Leaguers beat their adversaries in total run getting, tied them in batting and did slightly the better fielding.

NEW PASSENGER SCHEDULE.

Western Roads Have Prepared Slower Time Card for Passenger Service.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Western railroad officials have practically decided upon the schedules for passenger trains between Chicago and the Pacific Coast and intermediate points. If the time as now agreed upon is put into effect the schedule of the fastest train from Chicago to Los Angeles will be lengthened from 71 hours, five minutes to 72 hours; to San Francisco from 69 1-2 hours to 72 hours and 25 minutes to 14 hours, 30 minutes.

It is said the changes will make little practical difference except that trains will be less late at terminals. The main increases are between Chicago and Denver, where the time has been maintained fairly well. It has not been determined when the new schedules will go into effect, but if there is no further disagreement they probably will be effective May 1.

WORLDS HARBORS

Being Improved By the Various Countries'

WATER TRANSPORTATION

To Be Facilitated At The Expenditure Of Millions Of Dollars—Rivers of Europe Are To Be Made More Navigable.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—It would appear that the nations of the world have entered into a competitive struggle in the building up of water transportation. Consul Griffiths has just reported that Great Britain is to expend an enormous sum on improvements to the harbor at Liverpool, these improvements to include the building of a training wall nearly two miles long, to consist of huge blocks of cement and thousands of tons of stone. Work on the wall will require several years and an enormous amount of money will be expended.

It has been found necessary to construct this training wall because of the accumulations of sand swept in by the ocean currents, these shifting banks of sand offering dangerous obstructions to the large Atlantic liners. Improvements to the harbor at Liverpool go forward steadily each year, an annual expenditure of $200,000 being made for dredging. Great Britain also expends on other harbors large amounts and everyone of her navigable rivers is kept up to its highest state of efficiency. This policy is followed by Germany, and a number of the German cities 100 to 200 miles inland, are actually seaports by reason of their location on the banks of highly developed rivers.

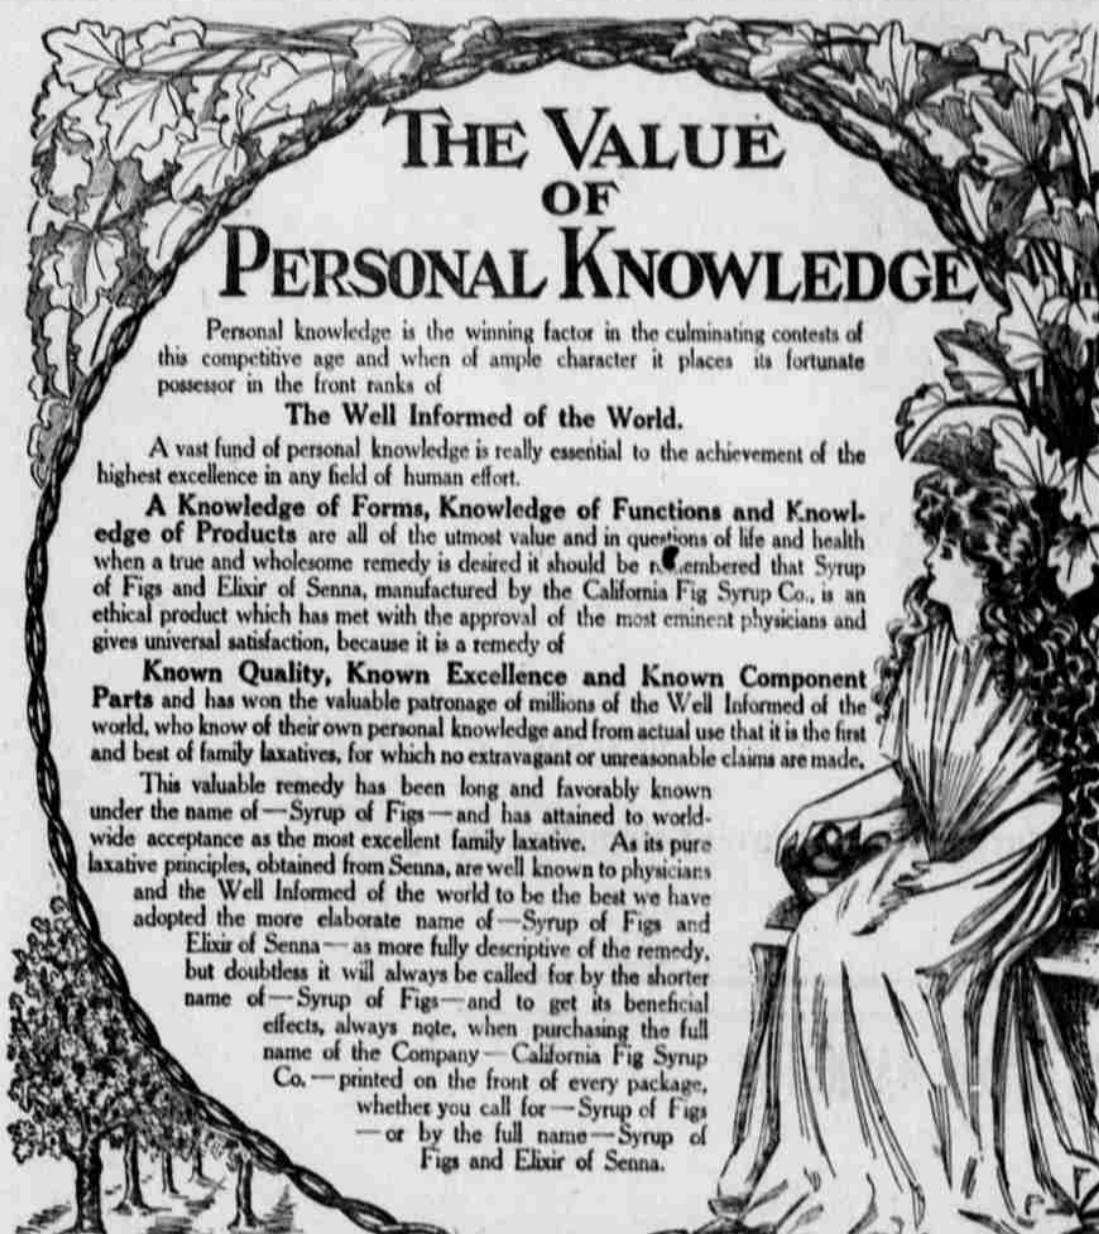

According to Consul Liefeld, of Freiburg, Germany, the German government is to join hands with Switzerland in increasing the effectiveness of the upper Rhine. Improvements are now under way to make the river navigable above Strassburg as far as Basel, Switzerland. It is believed that the stream will be so improved as to admit of the passage of boats carrying from 800 to 1,500 tons as far north as the Lake of Constance. Once the upper Rhine is improved to admit of this, Consul Litchfield declared that improvements will follow to the Aare River, even to Yverdon, to Lake Neuchatel, only a few hours by rail from Lake Geneva and the Rhone Valley.

The immediate benefits of this development of the Upper Rhine is pointed out by Consul Liefeld in his report. The Consul shows that in 1903, which is the latest report on the traffic, out of the total of 5,112,100 tons of bulk goods moved into Switzerland, 1,526,000 were transported by ships to Mannheim or Strassburg, while of the export of bulk goods amounting to 534,700 tons, 109,500 tons were transported on the Rhine from the above named places, as well as 116,500 tons of goods in transit across Switzerland, making a total of 1,743,000. Consul Liefeld adds:

"If these goods could have been transported by water from Basel to Mannheim and vice versa at a freight rate of $1.07 for the distance per ton, a sum of $1,238,563 would have been saved. This rate would soon, under the pressure of competition and after the gradual removal of present obstructions and hindrances to navigation, be greatly reduced."

It is undoubtedly this last phase of the matter that is spurring all the nations of the world on to greater exertions in waterway development. Congressman Joseph E. Ransdell, of Louisiana, President of the National Rivers & Harbors Congress, in a speech in the last Congress dwelt forcefully on the fact that water transportation for heavy goods is one-sixth and sometimes one-ninth that of the charges by rail for similar transportation. Mr. Ransdell pointed out also in the course of his address that water transportation in no wise would injure the prosperity of the railroads, but that it would supplement railroad activity and stimulate it by stimulating commerce.

The National Rivers & Harbors Congress is bending its energies toward having the Federal government commit itself to an appropriation policy of $50,000,000 a year for the development and improvement of American waterways. At the present time there are projects approved by government engineers calling for an outlay of upwards of $500,000,000.

EMPLOYED FAMILY

Hermann Admits Giving Work to Six Relatives.

HE WANTED SENATORSHIP

Reinstated Special Agent Dixon Because Of Democratic Votes He Could Swing in Election Of The State Representatives.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The principal developments in the cross examination of Binger Hermann were the admissions that while he was commissioner of the General Land Office he gave positions to six of his relatives. Reference again was made to the "Tip" which Hermann is alleged to have sent to F. P. Mays, regarding the Blue Mountain Forest reserve, but Hermann, while admitting that he dictated the telegram he could not remember its details. It also brought out that Hermann had received a part of the compensation of his brother, as a payment on a mortgage and he received some of the compensation of Cy. L. Miller, a son-in-law but declared, it was in payment for an advance he had made Miller.

Hermann admitted, he wanted to become United States senator in 1903, but denied it was his plan to have his resignation as Commissioner of Land office held up until after the senatorial election.

Vouchers were placed in evidence by the Government showing that Hermann had placed to his credit in a local bank $35 of a special government fund and that this amount had remained to his credit for several years and was then transferred, by him to the Government account. He said he did not do so, to obtain a small amount of interest, but the fund was a trust fund for which he was personally responsible.

The witness was then asked if he did not transfer Max Pracht, a special agent, from Oregon to New Mexico and bring Capt. Mathers to Oregon, because Pracht would not rent Hermanns house and Mathers would. He denied this but Baker submitted evidence showing Pracht had refused to rent the house and Hermann admitted that Mathers did rent it. The letter written by the defendant to Edwin Bender, his relative stating that he, the defendant, would expedite the account of surveyor Cathcart, was placed in evidence.
