FOR SERVICE AND CONVENIENCE

The prime essential of a business establishment is to have it open for the purposes of business when it is needed; not closed by custom nor any rule of hours. This essential attaches to the drug store of Dr. C. E. Linton at 185 Eleventh street, which is open every one of the 24 hours in the day; and with a stock that meets every requirement likely to arise in that time. It is one of the exceptions and is thoroughly endorsed.

GIVE BANQUET.

Boss Barbers Are Entertained by the Barbers' Union.

The local Barbers' Union royally entertained the boss barbers of this city last evening with a twelve-course banquet at Spear's restaurant.

The feasting lasted from 9 o'clock until half past ten. The evening was replete with wit, humor and the best of good fellowship. Community of purpose and the best of eatables served to promote a feeling of joyfulness that found relief in the safety valve of after-dinner speeches. Boss Barber Collins was appointed toastmaster and called upon all the boss barbers to do their duty in the speech-making line. All responded, there being no pikers in the crowd. One of the most successful outbursts of oratory delivered in the course of the evening was the toast responded to by Arthur Edward Petersen, "How to Successfully Amputate the Hirsute Adornment of a Patient Without the Use of Chloroform, or Pulling 'Em Out by the Roots."

The public is anxiously awaiting the outcome of the meeting which is commonly believed will be an advance of several cents in the price of a scrape. Such advances seem to be inevitable whenever a number of barbers get together.

The boss barbers intend giving a return banquet to the journeymen some time in the near future. Its dollars to doughnuts the public has to pay for the "cats" somehow.

discuss the company's plans in this respect.

Mullalley said when the attorneys for the United Railroads visited the Central police station this evening, to request the admittance to ball of the strike-breakers under arrest for shooting the strikers and their sympathizers. Chief Dinan said:

"Tomorrow, I shall arm police with rifles. If any strike-breakers start any shooting from cars they will be shot in turn by the police."

"I can hardly credit this statement," added Mullalley, "but it comes to me direct and authentically."

Thirteen strike-breakers were arrested. Three of them were released on bail and the remainder held awaiting developments.

BUCKET SHOPS.

In West and South Are Nearing End of Existence.

CHICAGO, May 7.—The Tribune today says: Bucketshops through the West and many states in the south appear to be nearly at the end of their existence. Concerted legislative action against them in several different states and the passage of stringent laws prohibiting them from operating further, together with the activity of the Chicago board of trade in prosecuting cases against them has caused many of the leading bucketshop concerns which have had a network of private wires covering practically every state in the west, south and northwest to decide to withdraw from the business. It is understood the leading bucket shop concerns in Indiana are preparing to wind up their affairs by the middle of June, which is the time set for their closing up by the state authorities under the law recently passed prohibiting bucketshops in that state. Iowa and Missouri have passed similar laws and bills are pending in Michigan, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, as well as in the Canadian northwest provinces. Several of the most extensive systems will be out of operation in six weeks. The volume of business transacted by the different bucketshops has been enormous. Wire rentals of some of the big concerns have been larger than some of the largest legitimate houses in the business. One Indiana concern paid upwards of $100,000 annually for wires. The anti-bucketshop bill now before the Illinois Legislature is still among the uncertainties. In the house today an effort will be made to call it up. A strong bucketshop lobby is present in Springfield, however, trying to block its progress.

MURDER'S INSANITY

shotgun still clutched in his hands. She was too dazed to speak or move and could only stare at the murderer.

Davis pointed his gun fairly at her head, but as she stood mutely before him the madman faltered, his hands trembled and when the girl found presence of mind to plead, "Don't kill me," the gun dropped from Davis' hands and he said, "I can't do it; you're a good girl. Besides you look like my own child and I would see her face if I killed you."

Picking up his gun, Davis then walked down to the kitchen. He wandered aimlessly around the house until the turning of a key in the front door attracted his attention. He rushed forward, prepared for another emergency.

Officer Fred J. Staeglich was walking on Pierce street, between Fell and Oak, when he heard the sound of two shoes. He rushed up Pierce street and opened the door leading to flat No. 441. He was met by Davis, who pointed his shotgun full at the policeman's breast and told him that he too should die. The policeman made his escape and met Policeman Thomas E. Bolger, and the two made a second attempt to capture Davis. They were unsuccessful and a riot call was turned in.

Corporal Ferguson and six officers responded in an automobile. Staeglich and J. Quigley, a flagpole climber, engaged Davis in conversation while Ferguson and Policeman Lewis got behind him and plinked his arms. The murderer put up a terrific battle, during which Ferguson was bitten on the hand, but Davis was finally captured and removed to the detention hospital.

LIMITED HELD UP

When the police got the murderer to the detention hospital he was placed in a straightjacket and put into a cell. He seemed to be dazed, and had no realization of what he had done, and merely said that he had been worried.

Mr. Bush received a note last Sunday from Davis, which gave a promise of a further examination of this morning. They were warned that the man might do them harm. This is the note:

"You have killed my sons and my nephews, but you haven't all of them yet. You expected to kill me tonight. Perhaps I'll kill myself."

Crawford, the tramp, was brought to Butte tonight and lodged in jail pending a further examination by the officers, who are not quite satisfied that he is telling the truth.

The officers who made an arrest near Woodville this afternoon, but the suspect was later released as he failed to correspond to the description of the outlaw. A fresh posse will leave Butte in the morning. Engineer Clow was shot five times through the body. The robbers, as they left the train, fired a number of rounds at Conductor Culver.
