WHERE WILL IT END?

Poor old San Francisco has had another shaking up by a double-headed quake, and the people are sadly dis-turbed over the incident. The question without answer is "where will it end?" The writer has, in the course of years of residence there, experienced something more than 50 tremblors, at long intervals, disturbances that were perceptible and suggestive of what might be, but which were laughed away in an hour's time, and the recurrence of Tuesday may have been of this ilk; but the torror of April, 1906, lends color to the slightest vibration down there now, and the awful query hange upon the hps of the most seasoned of the pioreers. It is a pitiable condition and will make for the disquiet of the city • for years to come unless there is a subsidence of the slight and passing shocks, for a quarter of a century or more.

It is hard to dislodge the conviction that San Francisco is the center of a tadly involved district and until this is done there will be no confidence felt by the investor who, all his life, has teen immune from such experiences. hope that one or the other of them shall The earthquake habit is the very last ration. Croker Expects To Visit America Next Fall-Comments on the Thinning Ranks of th eOld Guard of New York's

NEW YORK, June 5-Dispatches from London convey an interview with Richard Croker, who is in London to see the Dedby today in which the former Tammany leader says that he wants to visit New York next autumn, but has not yet definitely decided to go.

"I always like," Mr. Croker is quoted as saying, "to see the boys of the old guard in New York City polities. But the ranks are thinning. The other day when I ran over the names of the party of two hundred who entertained me at dinner nine years ago, I found that 75 were dead."

In speaking of the recent reports that he might give up his American citizenship and stand for parliament, Mr Croker said:

"I have no intention of giving up my American citizenship. I expect to die an American."
