ALL FOR UNCLE JOE.

WASHINGTON, August 17.—Illinois solid for "Uncle Joe" Cannon in the Republican national convention next year, is, in brief, the prophecy of Philip J. McKenna, of Chicago, who is in the city this week; that is, if it appears that the Favorite Son of the Sucker State can get the nomination; otherwise, Mr. McKenna believes Mr. Fairbanks will poll at least two-thirds of the Illinois vote. The latter, the Chicagoan asserts, has been doing some quiet campaigning throughout the state and has made many friends. However, there's a wide diversity of opinion these days as to just who will fall heir to the party nomination in 1908, and Washington is like unto a house divided against itself. One day some prominent visitor drops in from the north and says: Hughes is it; then comes the report that the Knox boom is outclassing all others in its phenomenal growth, and the people of Washington are about ready to prepare a welcome for the Pennsylvanian, when another report is given out that Taft is the choice of the west and undoubtedly will be nominated. So that of late, most Washingtonians have come to feel that the only way is to wait and not place money until just before the race. Even then, there are sure to be some big surprises.

ABOLISH MORGUE.

Famous Sight for Tourists Will Be Changed—Name is Offensive, Too.

PARIS, August 17.—The famous or notorious Paris Morgue is to be abolished. That is to say the authorities are at last going to make a move in a matter which has been a scandal for years, and to rebuild the mortuary building behind Notre Dame, which, it has long been known, is too cramped and out of date.

It will be remembered that only a few months ago M. Lepine closed the place to tourists.

This move is due to the fact that there are now so many bodies always awaiting identification through the murders committed by the Apaches that the morgue cannot accommodate them all.

Parisians also object to the word "Morgue," which they consider to be offensive, and ask that it should be replaced by the expression "Maison mortuaire." But this does not alter the fact that the morgue has for a century been one of the most famous sights in the French capital, and a bookful of gloomy wit has been written about it.

The famous Lafayette statue, which is the gift of the government and the school children of the United States to

SCIENTIST WITH PEARY.

NEW YORK, August 16.—When the steamship Roosevelt sails from this port, C. Emerson Brown of Beverly, collector of specimens for the Boston Natural Society, will go as naturalist and taxidermist for the Peary party on their fifth Arctic expedition.

Few naturalists have enjoyed the wide range of experience that has come to Mr. Brown, and his selection came through his known ability in that line of work.

AT THE THEATER.

At the Astoria Theater last night, Mr. Lee Willard presented for the first time on the Pacific Coast, the famous story of the plains, "A Texas Ranger."

The play was presented to a large audience who enthusiastically voiced their approval.

The piece is without a doubt the best Mr. Willard has presented in this city and should pack the house during its run.

There will be a matinee at 2:30 today and tonight, "A Texas Ranger" will be repeated.
