Where to Eat.
 To those who dine in hotels and restaurants the question of where to take their meals is generally a perplexing one. Good, well-cooked food served in a neat manner, is what is desired. These features can all be had at the Palace Restaurant, Commercial street, near Twelfth, where Arthur Smith, the well-known caterer, holds sway. There will be no trouble for the hungry mortal to select a dining place after eating a meal at the palace.

The Train Robbers.
 One of the most realistic scenes ever shown in a moving picture exhibition is that now being produced at the Nickelodean. There is a story behind the picture that is not generally known. When the picture was taken a Leadville miner pulled his gun and started shooting and in his anxiety to rescue some of the victims of the hold-up came very near being perforated by the outlaws' bullets. He does not show in the picture but those who have knowledge of the incident will recognize certain features.

What One Enjoys.
 At Otto Sund's pretty and cozy resort "The Commercial," one finds all that the inner man desires in the refreshment line and of the best quality too. To pass a little time in such a neat place and spend it in pleasant conversation with genial friends, probably a little business talk, is, to say the least, enlivening. Courteous treatment is another thing that is appreciated and one receives it from Otto himself who takes charge during the day and from his pleasant night manager both of whom dispense the best to be had. "The Commercial," 509 Commercial street, is well known and widely patronized.
