WHAT THE CHAMBER IS DOING

BOOST ORGANIZATION THE BEST IN WESTERN OREGON—EVERYBODY WANTS TO COME TO ASTORIA AND BECOME INTERESTED IN HER SURROUNDINGS.

Two practical flour mill men, brothers, who are now operating a mill in Indiana, have written to the Chamber of Commerce saying they would come here in a few weeks for the purpose of making a proposition looking to the erection of a flour mill in this city.

These two brothers have been in correspondence with Manager Whyte of the Chamber of Commerce for some months past and it is expected they will come here with a definite proposition, one that will merit the careful attention of the business men and in fact of the entire community.

A letter has been received from an Eastern glass manufacturer asking if there is sufficient silica or glass-bearing sand in this community to justify him in coming here and looking over the situation with a view of establishing a glass factory. Mr. Whyte is making inquiries to ascertain whether or not it is possible to secure suitable location for such a factory here. If any one knows of silica or glass-bearing sand deposits he would be glad to have the details.

A prominent investor who has just disposed of a very extensive business in Nebraska is now in Tacoma on his way to Astoria where he will arrive next week and it seems more than likely that he will invest here.

The correspondence that has now been developed by the Chamber of Commerce covers every state of the Union, besides Canada and Europe. A letter has been received from a farmer in Alberta, Canada, saying that himself and a number of other farmers who are now about proving up their claims are desirous of returning to the states and request that a considerable quantity of literature be sent them with regard to lands and opportunities here. This request will be complied with.

Grain Boats Scarce to Carry the Crop.

FAIL TO ENGAGE VESSELS

Profitable Employment of Ships at Gray's Harbor and Puget Sound Leaves a Dearth of Ships for the Columbia River.

PORTLAND, Oct. 5.—Wheat and lumber carriers for the coast trade out of Portland are scarce. W. T. Carroll says he has been trying to engage a couple of vessels for this purpose in the last few days, but so far without success. He predicts that large quantities of grain and lumber will be forwarded from the Willamette River to California in the next two or three months if tonnage can be had.

There are many steam schooners and sailing vessels on the coast, but it appears many of them have profitable employment plying out of Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor. For some unknown reason the lumber carriers have not flocked to Portland since the California markets got overstocked with fir as they formerly did. Neither have the local sawmills been turning out so large quantities of lumber. The coast grain trade is expected to be heavier than usual, however, and will soon be so inviting as to attract the carriers. Until then it is feared that coast tonnage will be hard to get.

The schooner Andy Mahoney, with a cargo of lumber for California, has arrived down the river and is ready for sea.

The steamer Breakwater arrived in yesterday morning from Coos Bay with freight and passengers.

The French bark Vincennes, with a cargo of grain for Europe, is in the lower harbor and will be towed to sea today.

The schooner Salvator, with a cargo of lumber from the Clatsop mill for California, was towed to sea yesterday.

The French bark Le Piller finished discharging 100 casks of cement here this morning and cleared for Portland.

The Norwegian ship Prince Robert, in charge of Mate Nielsen, has arrived in San Francisco from London with several cases of beri-beri on board. Captain Markussen died of the disease at sea on August 27. He was buried the next day in accordance with the time-honored custom of sailors.

JURYMEN DISAGREE

Deadlock Remains Unbroken for a Decision.

CASE FOR RETRIAL MONDAY

Famous Bribery Trial Has Unsuccessful Close in First Round and Jurors For Acquittal Will Not Allow Their Identity to be Known.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The Ford jury, after 18 hours' deliberation, reported to the court at 2:30 this afternoon that it was unable to agree on a verdict and was discharged. It was learned from the foreman that the jury stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction in a deadlock that could not be broken. About forty ballots were taken.

The jurors unanimously refused to tell the names of those who voted for acquittal. They intimated that the eight who so voted were unwilling to make their names known for fear of newspaper criticism and other attacks.

Judge Lawler informed counsel that the regular trial jury panel having been exhausted in the trial of Ford, he will organize a panel of several hundred talesmen to serve for all cases coming before his department of the court.

This has had the effect of doing away with any likelihood of special venues. As Ford is under a heavy bond on other indictments returned against him, he would not be required to furnish fresh bonds in the present case until Monday. To that day the case was continued to be set for a retrial.

RUNS STAMP MILL ON SIDE.

WENATCHEE, Oct. 5.—Entitat, Chelan county, has a combination farmer and gold miner, one who makes money at both enterprises and has the money to show for it. Not far from the Columbia river, on a piece of ground on which he is making a home, F. J. Crum farms during the farming season and when he has a spare moment he runs a little two-stamp mill, which he feeds himself and at stated intervals he scrapes the plates. In the time he has devoted to the work he has filled a fair-sized poke with the precious metal. Crum is mine boss, foreman, shift boss and the whole crew. He has never had a strike, except the gold strike he made while converting the soil of his ranch into the humble duty of raising the lowly spud and its companions and brothers in the vegetable kingdom. Crum is making a success of both ranching and gold mining and is perhaps the only combination farmer and gold miner in Washington.
