STRIKE IN HUNGARY

Engage in "Passive Resistance" Movement.

NEW PARLIAMENT IS OPENED

Demonstrations Occur in More Than 150 Cities—Business Completely Paralyzed For Twenty-four Hours—Organized to Impress Parliament.

DUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 15.—With business at a standstill, all shops closed and fully one million workmen engaged in demonstrations in more than 150 cities, the opening of the Hungarian Parliament today had the significance of the general demand for universal suffrage brought home to it in a manner it will hardly dare to ignore.

For twenty-four hours the paralysis of business will continue. This great "passive resistance" strike was organized to impress Parliament leaders in the suffrage movement believe it will succeed.

So complete is the tie-up that it was necessary to have soldiers to guard the gas and waterworks. No attempts were made to run trains. Even newspapers suspended.

Soldiers are under arms in all cities, though kept in the background to avoid inciting violence.

Budapest was the scene of the greatest demonstration. Fully 100,000 laborers met at 9 o'clock in Tisza Square and marched through the principal streets to State Park, where Socialist orators made speeches. An attempt was made to march to Parliament Hall, but it was prevented by the police.

The demonstrators contented themselves with marching to the home of the President of the Lower House, where a petition for universal suffrage was presented. He promised to introduce a bill.

Hungary's present election system is the most medieval in Europe. Practically all the voting power is concentrated in the Magyar landowners. Other nationalities, representing 50 per cent of the population, have little representation, while workmen are entirely disfranchised. Today's demonstrations will probably amount to a peaceful revolution which will modernize Hungary, destroying the power of the nobles. Passage of the universal suffrage bill will be a great victory for Emperor Francis Joseph, who raised the issue himself to distract attention from the attempt to force the separation of Austria and Hungary.

DOMINATE TRADE IN PERSIA.

ISPANAN, Persia, Oct. 15.—Bandits have inaugurated a reign of terror in this region. The roads are completely dominated by the highwaymen who refuse to let foreign goods pass. The mails and trade are at a standstill and the local authorities and consuls are powerless. The situation is a source of especial anxiety to the Persian government, from the fact that Russian has threatened to occupy the northern part of the country unless anarchy is immediately put down there.
