BABY HELD FOR LOAN

Given as Security for Money Borrowed.

MOTHER FACED STARVATION

Mrs. Margaret Byrnes Without Means of Procuring Food is Forced to Give Ten-Months-Old Infant as Pledge—Court Returns Child to Her.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Margaret Byrnes, of 289 Kingsland avenue, was complainant in the Manhattan avenue court today against Mrs. James Bimson, of 86 Eagle street, who was holding the former's 10-months-old baby as security for a loan of $25.

According to the story told to Magistrate O'Reilly, Mrs. Byrnes, being without money or the means of procuring proper food for her baby, appealed to Mrs. Bimson a few weeks ago for aid. The latter consented to loan Mrs. Byrnes $25 if she would give her child as security. Forced to the wall by starvation staring her in the face, Mrs. Byrnes says she consented.

One week passed and Mrs. Byrnes was still unable to pay the loan, and her distress was increased by a longing for possession of her child. Finally she begged Mrs. Bimson to return the baby, but Mrs. Bimson insisted on receiving the money first.

As a last resort, Mrs. Byrnes summoned Mrs. Bimson to court. She could hardly connect her sentences as she told her story to Magistrate O'Reilly. When she had finished there were tears in the magistrate's eyes. It was some moments before he could recover himself sufficiently to speak. Finally he said:

"This is indeed a pathetic case. I am surprised that a woman who has feelings of a mother should think for a moment of taking another woman's flesh and blood as security for a pecuniary loan.

PANIC NOT FEARED

Financial Leaders Unanimous in Declaring.

THE CONDITIONS ARE NORMAL

Wall Street Flurries no Indication That the Country is on the Verge of Great Industrial Depression—Prosperous Harvests Prevail Generally.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Financial leaders who were in Chicago today united in declaring that the country was not facing a panic. Cornelius Vanderbilt, director of the Illinois Central Railroad, declared that the recent Wall Street flurries were no indication of coming hard times.

"What is your opinion of the business condition at the present time throughout the country?" he was asked.

"I have been very busy lately; in fact I haven't had time to take much opportunity of observing the trend of general conditions. I have not paid much attention to business except that of my own interests," he replied.

"Do you think there is any indication of a coming panic—a change from these prosperous times?"

"No, absolutely no."

"Do these recent flurries in Wall Street indicate anything serious, Mr. Vanderbilt?"

"Oh, no, they occur frequently and indicate nothing. Really I have nothing to say about business conditions. I know nothing that I might say that would interest the public. I want to keep out of the papers. I don't like it."

Stuyvesant Fish declined to discuss the question of the wisdom of attacking on vested capital. "I can see no reason for anybody to be down-hearted over the business outlook," he added. "Even under present conditions the business outlook appears to me to be bright."

"Business conditions on the whole appear to me personally to be very good," said Charles A. Peabody. "It is a broad subject and one that needs a good deal of thought. I can see no reason to believe there will be a panic in the future. It is all over now. Wall Street has had its flurry and the worst is passed. Of course when money is high, as at present, it is expensive to do business."

"I don't know anything about business. Haven't observed conditions closely, you know, you might say things are very good," said Robert Goelet.

E. H. Harriman in discussing business conditions said: "There is no real danger at present. Money is tight, however. The government should be wary of too strenuous attacks on corporate interests. The business outlook, as I see it, is bright save for the money tightness of which I spoke and I believe that this is a temporary condition."

WILL CARRY MANY CHARTS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—When Rear-Admiral Evans' battle fleet starts on its voyage around the Western Hemisphere on December 15 each vessel will carry in its chart room more than 700 different charts of the route to be traversed, the coast by which the ships will pass, and the harbors at which they may stop. Not a single chart has been produced from any foreign source. Through the operations of the United States Hydrographic Office this country has been made independent of the rest of the world in the production of these indispensable guides for navigation in this hemisphere.
