> What we desire to ask you to do is to turn your scientific mind upon the important problem of manufacturing iron of the black sands through some process that would be practical commercially. So far it is not a commercial proposition, this manufacturnig of iron from these sands, although Professor Day has said there was as much as 1500 to 1800 pounds of iron per ton in the sand about Astoria ..

We believe that if this question can be solved by any one in the United States, you are are the man who can solve it. As there is practically an unlimited quantity of this sand, the perfeeting of the process, that would enable iron and steel to be cheaper manufactured out of it, would revolutionize the iron and steel industries of the
