A Bit of Business Between a Merchant

and a Lumberman.

There used to be an old retired mer chant in Detroit who delighted in recuiling his experiences when an active man running a general store in one o' the northern cities of the lower penin wula.

"I used to reap a harvest when the men were coming out of the woods,' be relates. "They were not up in styles, and about any old thing would suit them provided the color was right and the fit even passable. But there were tricksters among them, and I had to have my wits about me in of der to keep even with them. "'How much is that hat?' asked . strapping six footer who arrived from amp one day

"Two fifty,' I replied. "Then he informed me that he always had the crowns of his hats punched full of holes in order to keep his head cool and his hair from coming out. I soon had this attended to, and then he asked what the hat was worth. 'Two fifty,' I responded in surprise, but he laughed at me for asking such a price for damaged goods. He had me and got his hat for $1, while the jolly crowd with him had a laugh at some 'fiddles,' and after pricing one at $10 concluded to take it.

"'Where's the bow?' he asked as I was doing up the package.

"You only bought the fiddle,' I laughed. The others saw the point and laughed too. The giant tried to bluff me, but I kept good humored o see the concluding tages of his long and got even on the hat by charging him $1.50 for the bow. I not only got even, but the others were so pleased with my 'Yankee trick' that they spent plenty of money with me." -Detroit Free Press.

> Wisdom Beyond His Years. His mother found him in the jam and reprimanded him. A little later she caught him teasing his baby sis> ter and reprimanded him again. "I don't see what's got into you, Willle," she said. "You're usually the good little boy, but today you're up to all kinds of mischief."

"I'm tired of being good," he returned, with juvenile frankness.

"Tired of being good!" she exclaimed. "What do you mean by that?" "Well, Brother Bob is naughty most of the time, and you're always giving him things to get him to be good, and I guess I'll be naughty for awhile and see if I don't get something too."

Sometimes a youngster seems to have wisdom beyond his years.
