THE SEA GIVES UP ITS DEAD

THE BODY OF JAMES EDWARDS RECOVERED—STRENUOUS EXPERIENCES OF THE RESCUERS IN BRINGING IT TO THE CITY.

On Saturday evening, as noticed in the Astorian, Sunday morning, information was received that the body of a man had been found on the beach, near the jetty. It was thought that it might be that of James Edwards, who was drowned from the dredger W. S. Ladd, on December 11th last, and for the discovery of which a reward of $50 was offered. A party of friends of Mr. Edwards, accompanied by the coroner and an Astorian reporter, left on the launch Hulda, on Sunday morning, for the scene to bring the body to the city. The party consisted of Officer Joe Wilson, W. H. Snow and A. G. Snow, all personal friends who were determined to find the body. Shortly after leaving the Callender dock the wind freshened, and by the time the life-saving station was reached, where it was intended to take on the life-saving crew, with a surf boat, the wind was blowing at the rate of 60 miles an hour and a high sea was running. After taking the crew the machinery of the boat broke down and the surf boat capsize which caused some excitement for a while. The machinery was finally adjusted, sufficiently, to enable a return to the boat house of the service, where the party debarked and against a hurricane, in a pelting rain, struggled to the station where they met Capt. Wickland who offered them shelter and telephoned the conditions to Mr. Gerald Bragnall, assistant engineer in charge of the engineering department, at Fort Stevens, who kindly tendered the use of an engine to carry the party out on the jetty to the nearest point to where the body had been located. For the past 10 days Mr. Bragnall had his men on the lookout for the body and it was one of the men, Wm. Sperry, who discovered it while patrolling the beach. Engineer J. H. McGrath and Fireman Will Timms kindly volunteered to get up steam, and run the engine, and, after the delay necessary, of about half an hour, the rescuers started out on the jetty. At station No. 5 a stop was made and the party, augmented by volunteers from the engineering department, proceeded across the jetty sands, to the beach where the body was found lodged in driftwood, above the wash of the regular tides. A glance at the lifeless form was sufficient for the true friends of the unfortunate man, who had gone through a great deal of discomfort and some danger, to secure the body, and they were overcome for some minutes. Willing hands placed the body on a rude carrier and against a wind that was blowing about 70 miles an hour laboriously carried the remains fully three quarters of a mile to where the engine and flatcar were waiting. The car was then hauled to the dock at Hammond where the body was placed in a receiving casket and conveyed to the city on the Hulda, whose machinery had been adjusted in the meantime. At 4 o'clock the party arrived in the city and the body was taken to the coroner's office.

The life-saving crew at Point Adams rendered valuable assistance which was highly appreciated.

At 1:30 yesterday afternoon the body was interred in Greenwood cemetery, a number of close friends, whom had been notified, attending. Rev. W. S. Gilbert performed the funeral ceremonies and the floral offerings were very fine.

The zeal of the friends who secured the body and brought it to the city, was something commendable, and not to be dampened by the wind and rain, nor other obstacles that were thrown in their way by the untoward conditions. The many friends of Mr. Edwards in the city feel grateful to them, and to those whose kindness made it possible to accomplish what they started out to do. "Jim" Edwards was given a Christian burial and the friends who were mourning the fact that no tablet had marked his last resting place, now feel that at least that condition has been obviated and that his remains are now at rest.

Peacock and Reames. The operation was, as far as known last night, a very successful one, the patient doing finely and it is thought that, by the good nursing he will receive, he will soon be able to return to his home, fully recovered.

A SILKEN HANGING.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Winner of a debate on "Capital punishment" at a meeting of the Debating Club of his parish Saturday night, Seth Schuyler, 18 years old, of Brooklyn, was found hanging dead in the bathroom of his home late yesterday. He had wound a silk muffler around his neck and hanged himself to a gas bracket. The police theory in that young Schuyler committed suicide in a fit of despondency. The grief stricken members of his family refuse to accept this view and his boy friends assert their belief that the young man came to his death in trying to discover experimentally the sensation the victim of an execution by hanging might feel.

Brown's Clean-up Shoe Sale

A Pronounced Success

Brown's great clean-up sale, which has been the means of distributing thousands of dollars worth of shoes at ridiculously low prices is drawing to a close. The public evidently appreciate our values, for the store has been crowded to its fullest capacity.

A Card of Thanks

You have been very kind to us with your patronage. Our sales have climbed to a figure never before reached. Pardon any little failings or delays that might have inconvenienced you. We are all the time trying to better this store's service and with a little patience on your part we can accomplish wonders.

Another Big Cut in Prices

As our stock has been greatly reduced and we haven't the large variety that we did at the beginning of the sale and the run of sizes are not so good, we have decided to make a still bigger reduction so as to clear out every pair and make room for our spring goods that are due to arrive.

Our regular $3.50 and $4.00 ladies' fine turns, narrow widths, that were cut to sell at $2.00, are now 95c.
Our regular $1.75 and $1.50 ladies' house slippers that were cut to $1.00 now 75c.
Our regular $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00 ladies' Oxfords, all go in this sale at $1.95. These are only a few of the many bargains that you have to choose from.

Limitations of This Sale

For the balance of our stock that is in the store and not included in this clean-up sale will be sold in accordance with the scheduled prices. In other words, a shoe bought to sell at $1.50 will be sold for $1.50; if bought to sell at $5.00, will be sold at $5.00.
