The Suave Mr. Perkins.

James Treadwell of Boston, being in London, dropped in at a sale of goods and chattels at a private house.

A sandalwood box was put up which caught his fancy. He bid first against a ferret faced man and determined to have it. The people around him got on to the fact that he was a "Yankee" and made comments that further determined him.

To the auctioneer's surprise, the bids went up to £10. Mr. Treadwell would have carried them to double that sum, but the other bidder rushed away to look for some one in the crowd, and being afraid of missing a good thing, the auctioneer knocked the trifle down to the last bidder, and it was handed to him and paid for amid giggles and open laughter.

He had not gone two blocks from the house when a young woman overtook him. She explained that she had been lady's maid in the house for a number of years and coveted the box as a souvenir or her dear dead mistress.

The ferret faced man had been bidding for her. Would Mr. Treadwell respect the sentiment that actuated her and let her have the box for what he paid? Mr. Treadwell declined to sell.

The hotel had scarcely been reached when a Charles Perkins desired an interview. Mr. Perkins was suave—exceedingly suave. He had been in America. He had seen Boston Common. Although he was one of the most patriotic of his majesty's subjects, he had gazed upon Bunker Hill monument and found his heart swelling with pride at the thought of how bravely it had been held against the redcoats.

When Mr. Perkins had got through praising Uncle Sam's country and children he turned to the subject in hand. It was his wife that had died, and his furniture that had been sold at auction. He was an architect and had met his downfall by trying to introduce American ideas into England, such as dark bedrooms, parlors in which two people had to sit with their knees touching and hot air furnaces that only produced hot air from the mouth of the manufacturer.

That sandalwood box had been presented to his wife by Queen Victoria in person for making the best pumpkin pies in all England. There were other associations connected with it, and he had called in hopes that Mr. Treadwell could see his way clear to taking the sum of £15 for the sad relic.

Mr. Treadwell felt for the suave Mr. Perkins, but he couldn't part with the box. He was still mad at the people who had called him a Yankee and giggled over his bargain, and he had begun to smell a rat. No sixpenny sandalwood box was worth £15 unless there was some secret connected with it—something by which he might profit and get even. He therefore turned Mr. Perkins down and took the box to his room and examined it. It seemed nothing more than a plain handkerchief box. There were no traces of the tears shed by the dead and gone.

If the late Mrs. Perkins had ever broken it by throwing it at the head of her husband, it had been repaired again. Mr. Treadwell pecked and peered and found nothing. It was only when he came to measure that he suspected a secret drawer and at length found one. The contents consisted of a birth and a marriage certificate of the same person, and the death of that person had taken place fifteen years previously.

As near as could be figured out, the papers were valuable to complete a record and establish a claim. The ferret faced man knew it, the young woman knew it, and the suave Mr. Perkins knew it. They were in cahoots to get possession, and not for one moment did Mr. Treadwell believe that any of them had a legal right to the documents.

He had read them over and over, and he sat pondering on the matter, when his bedroom door opened softly. He sat with his back to it, and the hour was almost evening. He heard nothing and had no premonition. The first he knew two hands gripped his throat and pulled him over backward on the floor. Then he looked up to find Mr. Perkins sitting on his chest and another man in the room.

"Don't kill the bloke!" whispered the other man. "The documents are right here under our noses, and we ought to be obliged to him."

Mr. Treadwell was not throttled to death. Mr. Perkins had evidently come prepared for such an event, but gave over grudgingly and slipped a gag into the mouth of his victim. Then he produced cords and trussed him up so speedily and securely as to almost excite admiration. When he had finished his work he shoved the body aside, took a glance at the papers and shook hands with his coadjutor. The latter may have been in the same architectural and business. MR. Treadwell had ordered up a bottle of wine, but had forgotten to open it. The two men now saved him the trouble. It was good wine, and they smacked their lips over it and complimented the American. Then they winked at him, twiddled their fingers from the ends of their noses, and walked softly out.

JAPANS HOME TROUBLES. TOKIO, Jan. 20.—At the Daido Club today sixty members of the lower house in the diet issued a manifesto which proclaimed unalterable opposition to the financial policy of the government.

This is one of the significant developments of the present situation, because recognized as the leading spirit of the Daidos, although he does not lay any claim to the position of leader.

Up to the present moment it was generally believed that Marquis Katsura and the prime minister, Marquis Saionji, had reached an agreement on the subject.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the loins, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND Mrs. Will Young, of 6 Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says: "I was troubled for a long time with dreadful backaches and a pain in my side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I had very severe backaches, and pressing-down pains. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.
