SILENT FIREARMS

Son of Sir Hiram Maxim, Invents Noiseless Gun.

MAY REVOLUTIONIZE WARFARE

Because of Its Dreadful Probabilities in the World of Crime Many Police Officials Have Already Insisted That it be Safeguarded by Law.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Hiram Percy Maxim, son of Sir Hiram Maxim, inventor of the machine gun which bears his name, has secured patents for a silent firearm. It is announced that by the use of the device patented, the discharge of any firearm from the smallest pistol to the largest gun is rendered practically noiseless. The invention consists of the use of a device similar to the "muffler" used on automobiles to deaden the noise of the constant explosions by which the gasoline engine is operated. It is in the shape of a muffler attached to the muzzle of the firearm through which the gases which drive out the bullet or shell are allowed to escape gradually without the effect of an explosion.

By this device, which does not alter the appearance of any weapon except for a small cross piece in the barrel a short distance from the muzzle, the escape of the gases following the discharge of the explosive is shut off just as the bullet emerges from the muzzle. This result is obtained by means of a pistol valve sliding across the bore of the barrel immediately after the bullet passes. This valve is actuated entirely by the presence of the gases of themselves and is not operated by any intricate mechanical device.

Preventing the gases from escaping suddenly and provoking a consequent loud report, this valve allows them to issue gradually through a series of small holes, thus obviating all noise except a slight hissing sound. The valve then resumes an open position and a safety device prevents the firing of another cartridge unless the valve is in its proper place. Further, ammunition of various kinds may be used, ranging from leaden bullets and ordinary gunpowder, to forged steel projectiles impelled by smokeless powder.

Military experts appraised of the new invention assert that it holds the power to force revolution of modern methods of warfare. By use of this noiseless weapon skirmishers could work along an enemies front and shoot down pickets without their presence being noted except upon the discernment of the slain. Sharpshooters would be enabled to pick off their victims without reports of weapons betraying their positions.

In the world of sport it is held by the inventor that the new weapon would render it possible for a man properly concealed to kill at his leisure probably every deer in a surprised herd, as no alarm would be sounded.

Because of its dreadful probabilities in the world of crime many police officials have already insisted that the manufacture and disposal of the new device should be safeguarded by law. Armed with such a weapon a policeman might be enabled to disable every member of a band of law-breakers should he surprise them at their work.

On the other hand it would be equally dangerous in the possession of a desperate criminal. The assassin, by its use, would be enabled to pick off his victim and find opportunity of escaping.

In a French Chateau in Winter.
It is not all bliss to be invited to a French chateau in midwinter, no matter how distinguished the host or how romantic and artistic the domicile. At least it isn't for the steam heated Bostonian, lapped in the luxury of summer warmth. A visitor to a distractingly lovely abode near Fontainebleau says he put in twenty-four hours of physical anguish there and simply came away wondering how his hosts endured the arctic temperature of the rooms. "If I meant to live in foreign lands," says this shivering person, "I would go through the chilling process which lures human flesh and blood in France. What do these people do to render the blood in their veins to course like fire and not like an eternal furnace? That's a question Americans abroad might well like to have answered."—Boston Herald.

A HAPPY DRUMMER.

He Won the Applause of the Eccentric Hans von Bulow.

Hans von Bulow, the famous leader and composer, was one of the most eccentric members of a profession wherein eccentricity is common. It is related that one day, while walking the streets of Vienna, Bulow came upon a regimental band on its way to the castle. Immediately he ran to the middle of the street and joined the small boys about the drummer. Following the band, he kept bowing to the surprised drummer, applauding him at almost every beat.

"That is rhythm! Excellent! That's the way I like to hear it!" he continued to ejaculate, to the surprise of all and to the great delight of the small boys.

Persons in the street began to recognize the famous pianist and joined the procession, so that the band had one of the largest audiences to which it had ever played.

Bulow listened attentively to the end of the last piece and then made a deep bow before the drummer and his instrument.

"Thank you," he said. "That was refreshing! That puts my nerves in good condition again!"

It is said that when the drummer learned who his strange admirer was he was the proudest man in the regiment.—St. Louis Republic.

Children's Favorite Toys.

A hundred and thirty-two schoolboys of Paris and seventy-two girls were invited to describe their preferences in the way of toys. Among the former thirty-one voted for a railway train, twenty-three for tin soldiers, ten for steam engines, nine for building bricks and eight for toy typewriters and mechanical horses. Forty girls—a solid majority—declared without hesitation that a doll was superior to any other implement of recreation. The super-child seems, happily, a long way off.—Pall Mall Gazette.

TESTING HIS TONGUE.

The Unhappy Experience of a Young Married Woman.

A young married woman in Brooklyn suspected that her husband was indulging in wine. She determined, however, to say nothing till she had confirmed her suspicions. In conversation with her bosom friend she said she would give anything to discover the truth. The friend mentioned that a man even slightly intoxicated cannot pronounce words of length. This gave the young wife an idea, which she proceeded to put into execution.

When the young women met again, the suspicious wife announced that the worst had been ascertained. She burst into tears and took from her hand bag a paper, which she handed to her friend.

"I gave him this," she sobbed. The friend read from the list the following words: "Phlloprogenitivness, disproportionableness, pseudasthesia, phthisis, parachronism, hypochondriasis, photochromy, syncategorematic."

"And," added the unhappy wife, with a fresh sob, "the wretch missed nearly all of them!"—New York Tribune.
