WHO ARE REALLY UNHAPPY.

What are the enjoyments of the average rich? Is there anything more rapid, insipid, unsatisfying than the chasing after that indefinite, mysterious something which they call happiness; that will-o'-the-wisp which is always beckoning them on but ever eluding their grasp; that rainbow which recedes as they approach. They may enjoy the titillation of the nerves for a moment, the temporary excitement, and the exhilaration which come from even vicious pleasures. But what of it all? It is only animal enjoyment. Nothing but regret, disappointment, and disgust follow.

self out of a very sacred prize, the getting of which would mean more to him than anything else in the world. What a pitiable thing it is to see the human race chasing the dollar-material things—trying to extract happiness, to squeeze joy out of money alone! How little people realize that the very thing they are hunting lives in themselves or nowhere, that, if they do not take happiness with them, they may hunt the earth over with out finding it. Happiness is a condition of mind. It is a fundamental principle, and he who does not understand the principle cannot possibly be happy. All the misery and the crime of the world rest upon the failure of human beings to understand the principle that no man can be really happy until he harmonizes with the best thing in him, with the divine, and not with the brute. No one can be happy who tries to harmonize his life with his animal instincts. The God (the good) in him is the only possible thing that can make him happy.—Success Magazine. Bad Attack of Dysentery Cured. "An honored citizen of this town was suffering from a severe attack of dysentery. He told a friend if he could obtain a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, he felt confident of being cured, he having used this remedy in the West. He was told that I kept it in stock and lost no time in obtaining it, and was promptly cured," says M. J. Leach, druggist, of Wolcott, Vt. For sale by Frank Hart and Leading Druggists. A SILENT TRAGEDY. The National Bureau of Labor is now making an extended investigation into the condition of women and children in our American industries. Light is certainly needed on this grave matter. A nation that will not care for its working women and children should have its name blotted from the book of life. Most pitious is the silent tragedy of the working child—the child who is, in this era of machinery, whirled in for the first time to slave by the side of grown-up men. The sacrifice of children in some sudden catastrophe arouses the instant compassion, the swift rene of the nation. With quick accord, the people demand that no more forever shall there be a Slocum, or a Boyertown, or a Collinwood disaster. But if we could all realize the long misery, the distressful torture, the sure destruction of the host of little ones drawn into Child labor, little ones dying sometimes as surely, though seldom so spectacularly, as the children of the world-watched tragedies—if we could realize it all, how long think you, friends, would this crime of civilization stand against the cyclone blast of an aroused public opinion? Child Labor has come in so gradually, it is carried on so quietly, it is defended so skillfully by those interested in grinding children into dividends, that few parents of America realize that even the deficient census of eight years ago gives a total of nearly two million children under fourteen at work in wageearning labors.—Success Magazine. HE IS THE RICHEST MAN. In whose possessions others feel richest. Who can enjoy a landscape without owning the land. Who absorbs the best in the world in which he lives, and who gives the best of himself to others. Who has a strong, robust constitution. Who has a hearty appreciation of the beautiful in nature. Who enjoys access to the masterpieces of art, science, and literature. Who has a mind liberally stored and contented. Who can face poverty and misfortune with cheerfulness and courage. Who values a good name above gold. For whom plain living, rich thought and grand effort constitute real riches.—Success Magazine.
