

THE BURIAL OF CLEVELAND

To Be Laid in Last Resting Place Today—Funeral Will Be Very Simple

ROOSEVELT WILL BE PRESENT

The Half Mile of Thoroughfare to be Traveled Will be Guarded by Troops, as a Precaution For President's Safety.

PRINCETON, June 25.—The funeral of Grover Cleveland tomorrow will be marked by extreme simplicity. Although he was twice elected president, no pomp or splendor will have a place in these ceremonies. There will be no bands to play dirges and no eulogies to be said. A half mile of thoroughfare through which the cortege is to pass to the cemetery will be policed by mounted soldiers, but they will be there for police duty only and as a measure of precaution in protecting the life of the present president. It has been Mrs. Cleveland's desire to avoid anything of a military nature at the funeral and only the necessity of guarding President Roosevelt who is to be in attendance was made known to her that she consented to the presence of the troops. The final arrangements and the names of those selected to officiate were not announced until this afternoon, when the acceptance from all had been received.

The officiating clergymen will be Dr. Henry Van Dyke; Rev. W. R. Richards of New York; Rev. S. Beach at Princeton, and at whose church Cleveland's family attended, and Rev. M. V. Bartlett of the same church. Services will be held in the Presbyterian church.

There will be no honorary pall-bearers. Those who will bear Cleveland's body will be Mayor McClellan of New York; Paul Morton, Commodore Bennedick, Richard Watson Gilder, Professor Paul Van Dyke, Dean Andrew F. West, Professor John G. Hibben, Junius S. Morgan, A. D. Russell, Professor Howard McLanahan and Bayard Stockton. Services at the house which begin at 5 o'clock, will be brief.

Only those who are invited to the funeral and a few newspaper men will be allowed within the cemetery which will be guarded by the troops. President Roosevelt, Governor Fort of New Jersey, Governor Hughes of New York, Governor Smith of Georgia, the members of Cleveland's cabinet, and other notables, are expected to attend. The President will arrive on a special train, and will be driven direct to Cleveland's home by Governor Fort, and after the ceremonies will return at once to Oyster Bay. The death mask taken today by Edwin Wilson, the sculptor, when completed today, showed Cleveland greatly emaciated during his illness.

8 PEOPLE ESCAPE DEATH

Fire Starts at Home of Charles Foster at Portland—Mrs. Foster Faints After Rescuing Children From the Flames.

PORTLAND, June 25.—If Carnegie medals for heroism were given to dumb beasts, Judge, a white bulldog belonging to Charles Foster, a liverman, residig at 430 Hoyt street, would be entitled to the largest gold, diamond-studded badge of reward ever bestowed. It was due entirely to the remarkable intelligence of the animal that eight persons, including four children, were saved from horrible deaths by cremation at an early hour this morning.

As it was, Mrs. Charles Foster was seriously injured by falling from the portico of the Hoyt street residence after having passed her children to a place of safety; Judge sustained a number of painful burns about the body, and two maltese kittens were incinerated.

The spectacular fire, attended with so many sensational incidents, occurred shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, and before being finally extinguished completely destroying the entire lower portion of the dwelling and contents, entailing a loss of several thousand dollars.

The bulldog, who is wont to sleep at the foot of his master's bed, was allowed to usurp a Morris easy chair in the dining room last night for his couch, and that eight charred forms are not now occupying slabs at the morgue can be directly attributed to the sagacity of the canine.

In addition to Foster, his wife and two children, Helen, aged 11, and Harold, 8; Mr. Foster's sister Alice, 14 years of age; his brother, Wilbur, and Will Estey, occupy the two-story frame cottage. Five-year-old Walter Dusenberry, a playmate of the children, was a guest in the house last night.

HARVARD WINS RACE FROM YALE

Yale Team Is Badly Crippled in the Start and Loses by Over a Mile

STAR GRISWOLD FALLS DOWN

President Not Present But His Family View the Race—Taft is on Hand to See His College Defeated by Rival School.

NEW LONDON, June 25.—Amid the deafening din of whistles and horns and amid shouts of collegians, the Harver 'varsity eight shot their boat over the finish line tonight, winning from the crippled and distance Yale crew that classic of American college aquatics, on the Harvard-Yale 'varsity boat track. Instead of the race, Harvard finished the last mile and a half alone, while far behind the Yale limped along with but seven men at the oars with Griswold, the storkman, who had been relied upon to set the winning pace, he went forward, faint from terrific strain of the opening two miles. Up to this time it had been a struggle worthy of the best traditions of the old antagonists. Added zest was given to the race by the interest President Roosevelt has taken, and although the circumstances prevented his attendance, his family was on hand and witnessed the race from the yacht Slyph. Yale was more fortunate than Harvard in having her distinguished champion, Secretary Taft, present in the flesh. The race rowed through a lane a hundred feet wide, flanked either side by innumerable craft of every description from little sloops and motor boats to big revenue cutters. Yale splashed at the start and gave Harvard a slight advantage. At the half mile the crews were almost side by side, Harvard slightly ahead; one mile, Harvard still in the lead; two miles, Yale spurting and lessening gap; two and a half miles, Harvard still in the lead and Yale fighting like grim death. Then came the decisive moment. When the final stretch was almost in sight, Griswold, Yale's stroke was seen to pitch forward and a moment later straightened up and succeeded in rowing perhaps 20 strokes, then collapsed again. The whole crew ceased rowing then. Thence it was no longer a race. Harvard swept on and crossed in over the finish line. Her time was 24 minutes 10 seconds.

Griswold was helpless from the boat and the Yale crew, seven of them finished the race. As they crossed the finish line, they were given tremendous ovation for their pluck. Yale's time was not taken. Earlier in the day the honors were divided. Yale four defeated Harvard by two lengths and Harvard freshmen eight defeated Yale by three lengths. At the Yale quarters it was found that Griswold suffered from nervous collapse. He was not over-trained and was not out of condition. He soon revived.
