HIDDEN MONEY LOST

Eccentric Miser Hides Wealth, Then Loses His Reason

A FORTUNE OF $200,000

August Konrad Tries to Reveal His Secret Before Death in a Letter to His Daughter, But Fails—Died Last October.

NEW YORK, June 26.—In an advertisement printed in a morning paper lies the last hope of a Tarrytown family of recovering a fortune estimated as high as $200,000, which Augustus Konrad, eccentric miser, concealed while in health and the hiding place of which he was unable to reveal after disease had suddenly destroyed his reason.

Konrad died in the Poughkeepsie insane hospital in October of last year. Before his death he gave evidence of desiring to tell the attendants something and he even attempted to place his thoughts in writing a letter to his daughter, but the result was an incoherent jumble of words. At the end he had to be cared for as a baby, but through it all he insisted on being allowed to retain three keys one to his home at Tarrytown; a second to a trunk which he always kept locked, and a third, the mysterious key, to a safe deposit vault, in which the family believes the written evidence of his wealth reposes.

Since his death every effort has been made to discover this vault. Near by safe deposit companies have been asked to aid, the company making the key has been appealed to, and as a last resort decided to appeal for aid in an advertisement.

Konrad when he died was 53 years old and all his life was very much of a mystery to his friends and family as the hiding place of his fortune is. A member of an old Long Island family, he prepared for the ministry only to become a carpenter, later taking up florid culture in which he became widely known as an authority on orchids; he abandoned his flowers to engage in the gas business in Tarrytown in which he amassed a fortune. He retired eight years ago.

In all his years he was remarkably secretive about his affairs, never taking his wife into his confidence. In money matters he was very close. Ten years ago he decided that his family would have to support itself, and since that time Mrs. Konrad supported her children and herself in the sale of women's clothing. The last few years her son David has aided in this.

Last July Konrad became ill and was confined to his home. The doctors declared his trouble was a tumor of the brain, due to an injury received in a snow ball fight in childhood and finally ordered his removal to Poughkeepsie.

DIARRHOEA

There is no need of anyone suffering long with this disease, for to effect a quick cure it is only necessary to take a few doses of

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

In fact, in most cases one dose is sufficient. It never fails and can be relied upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is equally valuable for children and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.

In the world's history no medicine has ever met with greater success.
