THE COURTS

Under the circumstances I do not hesitate to say that "the committee cannot itself perceive that there have been instances of abuse in the granting of injunctions." I submit with entire confidence that it seems to me that when we have called upon the attorney for the American Federation of Labor for instances and specifications and he fails to furnish them; when we have called upon the head of the organization itself for the same information and he furnishes information without calling attention to any criticism; when we have made a thorough and exhaustive investigation of the reported decisions of the courts when we have applied to the Department of Justice and ascertained that they have no information in relation thereto; when the gentleman from Michigan has made his independent and disinterested search and found nothing; when the Supreme Court, though not referring specifically to labor controversies, says that the judges have exercised due care; and when there has never been from any quarter, prior to the letter of the President, the slightest intimation upon the part of men representing the labor organizations that any abuse of the writ of injunction amounting to a high crime and a misdemeanor has ever been committed—and I think it is hardly necessary to suggest that the gentlemen who appeared before our committee for the promotion of legislation of that character have never been backward in their assaults upon the judiciary, it appears that we least, exhausted every available source of inquiry. I feel certain that the President has been deliberately misinformed as to the facts as they exist in connection with this question, because, in my judgment, there are no facts that warrant the suggestion or the intimation, at least since 1893, that a single judge, anywhere, at any time, in any place, under any stress, has been guilty of any abuse of the judicial power in issuing either a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction.

In considering a question of this character it must be borne distinctly in mind that so long as juries render verdicts and so long as judges enter up judgments, disappointed litigants and exasperated attorneys will abuse the jury and denounce the court, and the proceedings of the court in the administration of the equity power cannot and will not be immune from this prevailing tendency upon the part of the losing suitor to criticize the tribunal in which he receives an adverse determination.—American Industries.

THE TARIFF

Our Government does not guarantee profits to other classes. It does not insure farmers' crops, nor guarantee profitable wages to labor, nor good salaries to clerks.

Our Government once guaranteed Union Pacific bonds—but it held the road as security, and sold it out at last to reimburse itself. The Government did not guarantee "reasonable profits" to American railway investors in that case, but in its tariff plank we find the dominant party solemnly pledging itself to guarantee solvency and a good earning return to the stockholders and investors in trusts. Freed of all circumlocution it really means Trust Making by Government enactment!

This principle, if made effective in the next tariff will divide manufacturers into three classes about as follows:

First.—Those who are on a sharp competition basis. These manufacturers receive nothing from the tariff, closely joined in what is popularly called "gentlemen's agreements." These industries occupy a position about half way between those mentioned in class one and the fully developed trusts. This second class is strengthened by the proper guarantee of profits.

Third.—The full-fledged trusts and consolidations, of which there are between 200 and 300, in control of most of the great necessities and conveniences of life.

Under the proposed tariff which is to cover, and in that sense, to guarantee profits, these trusts are informed that they will be protected by the Government against foreign competition up to the point of a good profit on all they can "reasonably" claim, or by manipulation secure as by the old methods.

If the new tariff, promised by Congress and the political parties, is to be enacted sixty days after the inauguration—say May 4, 1909—trusts can, it must be assumed, print not only on their bonds but also on preferred and common stocks this extraordinary and un-American clause, "The principle together with a reasonable profit thereon is guaranteed by the Government of the United States by enactment of May 4, 1909."

It is evident that class one, wholly under competition, and class two, be hastened most rapidly into class three. What will be the result? It surely is not wildly improbable that the manufacturers will become the real and only class wholly guaranteed and promoted by the Government at the expense of the consumer.—American Industries.

JUDICIAL VIEW

I have never noticed any signs of an undue or over-tender consideration for the action of the court on the part of gentlemen who have urged anti-injunction legislation, and I feel confident that if they knew of facts that would justify a charge of an impeachable crime, they would not hesitate for an instant to make it.

In this connection it ought not to be improper to allow the highest court in the land to express its judgment upon the conduct of the inferior Federal judges with reference to the granting of injunctions. In the case of Ex parte Young, decided by the Supreme Court of the United States on March 23, 1908, in answering the suggestion that if the Supreme Court upheld the action of the Circuit Court in that case it would draw to the lower court a great flood of litigation, where one Federal judge would have it in his power to enjoin and nullify the legislative acts of the state, either in criminal or civil actions, the court said:

"To this it may be answered in the first place that no injunction ought to be granted except in a case reasonably free from doubt. We think such rule is and will be followed by all the judges of the Federal courts."

If there have been any gross abuses of judicial power in this respect by the Federal judges, it is quite obvious that the Supreme Court of the United States has not up to date learned thereof.—Honorable Charles E. Littlefield of Maine in American Industries.

WON ON A BLUFF.

The Way One Prosperous Merchant Got His Start in Business.

There is a prosperous merchant in Chicago today, who owes his success to his donation of a $5,000 organ to a church at a time when he didn't have money enough to buy a hand organ. This donation was a case of bluff pure and simple, but the bluff worked and resulted in the subsequent wealth of the lucky bluffer.

John Smith was seeking capital to start in business for himself, but as he had no security worth speaking of he could not borrow the money he needed.

When he had tried every person he could think of who would be likely to have the necessary cash and the inclination to lend it and had been turned down, he conceived the idea of presenting his church with an organ.

Young Napoleon John Smith therefore ordered his organ and allowed the future to look out for itself. The manufacturers of the organ never thought of questioning the financial standing of the philanthropist who was handing out $5,000 organs and agreed to have the instrument set up in the church on time.

Of course J. Smith was not a bud that was born to blush unseen, nor did he hide his beneficence under a bushel. He managed to bring in at least the flute stops no matter what the subject of conversation. Not only did the young Napoleon advertise himself by means of the church organ, but the pleased minister and the equally pleased congregation spread the news of his gift.

During this time John did not allow any alfalfa to grow under his feet. On the pretense of consulting some wealthy member of the congregation about some minor details of the organ he would drop into an office and before he left casually would mention the subject of the company that he was forming. Most of the men that he thus saw thought that it would be a good thing to be associated with a man who was making so much money that he was able to hand out $5,000 without missing it, so that all were anxious to take stock in J. Smith's company.

Long before the time came for the first payment on the organ Smith had gathered enough money to start his business and was doing so well he had no difficulty in borrowing the amount needed to make the payment. From that time he has made money so fast that now he could give away several $5,000 organs and pay for them as well.—Chicago Tribune.

Chivalrous Chicago.

In Chicago more than in any other place is woman regarded in the light of a thing of beauty and a joy forever. There is hardly a man in Chicago who does not esteem feminine loveliness as something beyond price—something to live for, to strive for, to suffer for and if necessary to die for.—Chicago Inter Ocean.
