Beauty Doctor Fined—
 J. D. Raker, the man who was arrested by Police Officer Houghton the other day for canvassing a massage preparation from house to house without a license was fined 10 dollars by Police Judge Anderson yesterday. When put on the stand Raker, who claims to be "beauty specialist," said that he was not selling anything, but was a traveling manicurist and masseur. Francis Aubrey and Emma Davis, two of the women whom he called on, were put on the witness stand, but both testified that besides trying to sell them a face wash he tried to sell them a switch of hair for $8. Raker, however, denied that he tried to sell either of the women anything, and that the switch he had shown them was not for sale, but belonged to a woman in Portland who had given it to him to bleach. The satchel that he carried when opened in the court room failed, however, to show anything that could be sold, excepting the switch of hair, and judging from the contents of the suit case it was evident that at the time he was arrested, he either had sold out his stock or was not selling anything, as he claimed. The statements of the two witnesses were so strong against the defendant, and were so convincing that there is little doubt that Raker was guilty and he may consider himself fortunate in getting off with the light fine imposed by Judge Anderson.

A Beautiful Gift—
 H. G. Van Dusen, for seven years master fish warden of the state, has been presented a beautiful gold watch by the gentlemen who were most closely associated with him during his long incumbency in that important office. The watch is really an exceptionally handsome and valuable one, and probably there is no gift that Mr. Van Dusen would appreciate more highly. The presentation of the watch was made by Ole J. Settem, of Astoria, state water bailiff, and it came as a complete surprise to the recipient. During his incumbency in the office Mr. Van Dusen made many warm friends, and that his efforts to better the fish industry were appreciated by the men who best understand such matters, may be seen by a glance at the following list, comprising the men who made the gift of the watch to Mr. Van Dusen: Frank C. Brown, deputy fish warden, Sellwood; John D. Wilson, deputy fish warden, Yoncalla; Ole J. Settem, state water bailiff, Astoria; H. W. Trembath, state water bailiff, Oregon City; Thomas Brown, superintendent Salmon River hatchery, Clackamas county; Wm. W. Smith, superintendent Clackamas River hatchery, Clackamas county; C. T. Peek, superintendent McKenzie River Hatchery, Lane county; W. A. Smith, superintendent Umpqua River Hatchery, Douglas county; Joseph Stemmons, superintendent Siuslaw River Hatchery, Lane county; Paris J. Parks, superintendent Yaquina Hatchery, Lincoln county; D. W. Hewett, superintendent Tillamook Hatchery, Tillamook county; Frank W. Smith, superintendent Coos and Coquille River Hatcheries, Coos county; Theodore Opsund, clerk state fish warden's office.

I consider it one of the best medicines of its kind in the world, and had I used it in 1902 believe it would have saved me a hundred dollar doctor's bill." Sold by Frank Hart and leading druggists.

The Wrecked Vessel Carrier Both Passengers And Dynamite.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Captain Van Salzen of the Steamer Anubis, wrecked on the Island of San Miguel, may find further trouble on his arrival here as the report that he carried passengers on the vessel at the time of the accident does not agree with his sworn statement to the custom house officials. There is a law that provides that no vessel carrying high explosives shall also carry passengers and the Anubis left this port with 10,000 pounds of dynamite on board.

Punishment for a violation of this restriction must be borne by the captains of foreign owned vessels such as the Anubis and consists of a fine of $1,000. Von Salzen swore he carried no passengers.
