LITTLE LOST BOY IS CARED FOR

CHASED BY TOWN BOYS AND THEN PLACED IN KINDLY HANDS OF SISTERS AT THE HOSPITAL.

A barefooted and bare-headed little boy, not more than six or seven years of age, came to the city presumably on the train from Astoria last evening, and soon wandered up towards the center of the city. There, other little boys saw him, and for them he was great sport, for the town lads probably saw nothing more in the pitiful little figure than a chance to have some fun. They began to chase him and worry him.

Then it was that Constable "Jack" Sayer saw the little stranger and took him in tow, turning him over to one of the police officers. At police headquarters the little stranger wouldn't talk, though he seemed intelligent enough, and Chief Gammal could find out nothing about the boy.

He is attired in a common woolen blouse and jeans, with no stockings or shoes. His hat probably had been lost. Chief Gammal had the little fellow cleaned up a bit and then took him over to the Sisters at St. Mary's hospital, where he was given kindly attention and care. When he was taken in charge by the police the boy was dirty, just about as dirty as a boy could well be who had been playing by himself and the trip to this city—if he came from the beach—probably added more dirt to him. His underwear was very clean. If the lad belongs here in Astoria his home is likely to be in the outskirts, as no one recalled ever having seen him before. But from all that could be learned of the matter last night it appeared probable that he came in on the train from Seaside.

Later—a telegram from Seaside last night said the lost boy was from there. He will be sent home this morning.

has just closed a long and pleasant season at the Hagar here.

The steamship State of California came down the river yesterday at 3 o'clock with a lively crowd of 300 people on board, the majority of whom were ladies and girls. She had a big cargo below, and went to sea at 4:15 o'clock.

CLATSOP DAIRYMEN TO ORGANIZE

DECIDE TO INCORPORATE AND ESTABLISH A CONDENSORY AND MEANTIME WILL CONTROL THE MILK SUPPLY

At the conclusion of a meeting of representative farmers and dairymen in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon it was decided to incorporate an association for the purpose of better handling the milk supply, and with the ultimate purpose in view of making cheese and condensed milk. Therefore it was agreed that such an incorporation shall be formed under the name of the Astoria Dairy Company, with a capital stock of $10,000.

Within a very short time $5000 was raised and it is believed that there will not be the slightest difficulty in securing the remainder of the requisite amount; in fact, it is known that several men stand ready to take all of the rest of the stock, though it is desired that it be taken in comparatively small sums by the men who are directly interested. Those who subscribed yesterday are as follows, with the amounts:

- J. W. Reith.....$1000
- A. C. Miller..... 1000
- S. Elmore..... 1000
- John Jeffers..... 1000
- H. Weise..... 1000

A committee was formed to meet next Saturday afternoon to forward the plans of the meeting and to take steps to form the incorporation. This committee was appointed during the meeting and consists of the following: John H. Whyte, chairman; J. W. Reith, William Larsen, A. C. Miller, John Jeffers, and H. Weise.

Probably it is not often that such a representative lot of the dairymen get together in Astoria as that of yesterday afternoon. Among those present, in addition to the names already mentioned, were Walter Ingalls, Mr. Warrenstaff, Fred Blaisdell, Mr. Baumgartner, Charles Gilliard, E. P. Johansen, Cris Ebson, Charles Hardner, Olof Erickson, Mr. Hartell, Andrew Olson, J. M. Johnson, and both members of the firm of Olson & Larson.

The entire subject of the dairy products was gone over, and in a general way it was thoroughly agreed that it should prove a highly paying proposition to establish a condensory in Astoria. The only problem that would militate against this plan is the question of securing sufficient milk daily. It was agreed that the ultimate object of the Astoria Dairy Company, the association which is to be formed, will be to establish and conduct a condensory, and meantime the company will first go into the business of distributing milk and also of making cheese. To the city of Astoria the new project should mean much, and the first indication of its workings will be in the distribution of the city's milk. Nearly all of the milkmen are said to have either gone into the matter or are expected to do so. Their milk will therefore be sent to the company's headquarters and will henceforth be distributed by the company's wagons.

HARBOR NEWS OF THE WEEK-END

"JOHNSON'S BONE-YARD" INSTITUTE OFF THE TONGUE—ARABIA ENTERS FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Astoria harbor has a new "bone-yard," or rather, a bone-yard with a new name and style. It has been named after the genial ex-master of the schooner Alvena, Captain Johnson, the Alvena being the first vessel of the season to seek its seclusion and inertia. It lies up against the westerly margin of Tongue Point and offers secure and placid anchorage for all comers. At present it is occupied by the schooners Alvena, W. F. Jewett and Irene, and the fleet will be augmented in due time by the schooners Oliver J. Olsen and Seahome and the barkentine Wrestler; and probably, later yet, by other well known lumber carriers of the "sailing" fleet.

The conditions and causes making for the establishment of this dismal resort, and congregation of idlers, are the slack demand for lumber in cargo; the multiplicity of new steam schooners built and running in the coast service during the past two years; and the great number of British and other foreign "tramps" that flocked out here in the wake of the American naval fleet, and which have since been entering the lumber and all other fields of sea traffic from this coast.

The Portland-Asiatic steamship Arabia entered port last evening from the Orient, via San Francisco and went on to the metropolis with a few hundred tons of freight left after her general discharge of cargo at the Bay City.

The steamer Sue H. Elmore got away for Tillamook Bay at noon yesterday and among her passengers were the members of the Ashton-Branscombe theatrical troupe, which

If all of the milk dealers go into the company, as they are expected to, that will mean that there will cease to be various competing milkmen with their various routes. All of the city's milk would come from the company. The first thing the company proposes to do is to secure a pasteurizing plant, so that all milk will be thoroughly sterilized before being sold to the consumer, and that fact alone will probably tend to make the company popular among the housewives of the city.

Estimates made by Mr. Whyte, who with Dr. Barr, has worked hard on the matter for several weeks, go to show that the visible supply of milk in the territory contiguous to Astoria is about 41,000 pounds daily. That takes in a pretty wide stretch of country. It is further estimated that about 8000 or perhaps 10,000 pounds are daily used in supplying Astoria with its daily portion of the lactical fluid, thus leaving approximately 30,000 pound that could be used for the cheese making or for the condensory. The milk that is not sold in this city daily is made either into cheese or butter, and if the estimated 30,000 pounds now used for these purposes could be secured for the company there would be more than enough for the condensory. It is calculated, however, that it would not pay the condensory to operate unless it can secure at least 15,000 or 20,000 pounds daily, and it is believed that in a comparatively short time it will not prove a hard task to secure that much, and it may be readily possible to secure all of the visible supply not used for the city's daily needs. Of course, if the dairymen find they are making money out of the new plan, they can readily increase the output, as all can increase their herds on their present acreage.

PERSONAL MENTION

Al Hagar, the genial proprietor of the Hagar theatre, was happily surprised last evening by the arrival on the evening express, of his brother, Gus Hagar, the well known theatrical manager of Vancouver. They look enough alike for twins, and may be so far as deponent knoweth at this writing.
